This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world’s books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that’s often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book’s long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google’s system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google “watermark” you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can’t offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book’s appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

RIG-VEDA SANHITÁYI

A COLLECTION OF ANCIENT HINDU HYMNS, CONSTITUTING THE SIXTH AND PART OF THE SEVENTH ASHTAKA, OF THE RIG-VEDA.

TRANSLATED FROM THE ORIGINAL SANSKRIT,
BY H. H. WILSON, M.A., F.R.S.

EDITED BY E. B. COWELL, M.A., PROFESSOR OF SANSKRIT IN THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE,
AND W. F. WEBSTER, M.A.,
LATE SANSKRIT EXHIBITIONER, TRIN. COLL. CAMB.

1888.
PREFACE.

I published, in 1866, the fourth volume of the late Professor Wilson's translation of the Rig-Veda, which professed to follow mainly the interpretation of the Hindu Commentator Śāyaṇa. The printing of the fifth volume was soon afterwards commenced; but it was stopped by the discovery that the original MS. of the translation ended abruptly in the middle of the 44th hymn of the eighth Maṇḍala, and that although there was a more or less complete translation of the tenth Maṇḍala, only rough notes remained of that of the ninth. I subsequently completed the translation of the eighth Maṇḍala independently, and it was printed; but my engagements at that time, in connection with my duties as Professor of Sanskrit in the University of Cambridge, rendered it impossible for me to continue the work; more especially as the original MS. of the translation of the ninth Maṇḍala was in a very imperfect state, and required a great deal of careful revision, before it could be sent to press. A long interval elapsed during which the translation lay in abeyance; but Messrs. Trübner & Co. were always anxious to have it completed, and Mr. Nicholas Trübner retained to the last his earnest interest in the work. At last, my friend and old Cambridge pupil, Mr. W. F. Webster, undertook to carry on and complete the interrupted task. He has continued the editing of the fifth volume, which is now published after its long suspension. He has carefully corrected Professor Wilson's translation of the ninth Maṇḍala with which this volume ends; the sixth and last volume, comprising the translation of the tenth Maṇḍala, is in the press. I have ventured to add a translation of the Vālakhilya hymns, forming Appendix I. of this volume; they were not contained in Prof. Wilson's MS. translation, nor does Sāyana give any commentary on them.

The aim of this translation, as I have said, is to represent the traditional interpretation of the Rig-Veda as given by Sāyana, and consequently but little attention is paid to the views of modern scholars. This work does not pretend to give a complete translation of the Rig-Veda, but only a faithful image of that particular phase of its interpretation which the mediæval Hindus, as represented by Sāyana, have preserved. This view is in itself interesting and of an historical value; but far wider and deeper study is needed to pierce to the real meaning of these old hymns. Sāyana's commentary will always retain a value of its own,—even its mistakes are often interesting,—but his explanations must not for a moment bar the progress of scholarship. We can be thankful to him for any real help; but let us not forget the debt which we owe to modern scholars, especially to those of Germany. The great St. Petersburg Dictionary (the sixth and seventh volumes of which appeared since the fourth volume of this translation was published) is indeed a monument of triumphant erudition, and it has inaugurated a new era in the interpretation of the Rig-Veda.

E. B. COWELL.

Cambridge, March 17th, 1888.
The deity is Indra, except in the last two verses, in which the liberality of Chitra is praised; the Rishi is Sobhani, of the family of Kaṇwa: the metre of the odd verses is Kakuh, of the even Satobrihiti.

1. Unprecedented* Indra, cherishing thee (with sacrificial food), desirous of thy protection, we invoke thee who art manifold in battle, as (men call upon) some stout (person for help).¹

¹ Vāja chitram, sangrāme vividhāryam; the printed Śāman, I. 408 [I. 5. 1. 2. 10; II. 1. 1. 22. 1.] (Benfey), reads vajrin, “thunderer,” for vāja.—Yathā vṛtyadādhīr griham pūrayanto iānd annavishaye sthūlam guṇādhikam kanchit mānavam dhwayanti, “as people filling a house with rice and the like call upon some stout, liberal man for food,” is the commentator’s amplification of the last clause.

* Aparva is explained “new,” i.e. ever new at the three oblations.
2. We have recourse, Indra, to thee for protection at sacred rites: may he who is ever young, fierce, resolute, come to us! We, thy friends, Indra, rely upon thee as our protector and benefactor.¹

3. Lord of horses, of cattle, of corn-land, these libations (are for thee); come, lord of the Soma, drink the effused Soma juice.

4. Intelligent, but destitute of kin,* let us connect ourselves, Indra, with thee, who abundest with kinsmen: come, showerer (of benefits), with all thy glories, to drink the Soma.

5. Gathering like (a flock of) birds round thy exhilarating heaven-bestowing Soma beverage mixed with curds, we repeatedly glorify thee, Indra.²

Varga II.

6. We salute thee with this adoration: why dost thou so oft meditate (upon our requests)? master of bay steeds, let our desires be granted. Thou art their bestower, we are thy (suppliants), and our sacred rites are (addressed to thee).

7. We verily are the most recent (objects) of thy protection, Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt; we have not known of old one greater than thou.†

8. We acknowledge, hero, thy friendship, (the

² Ibid. I. 407 [I. 5. 1. 2. 9]. Vivakshana is explained by Sáyana swargopradápaśtile, “causing to obtain swarga.”

* Or rather, “we thy worshippers (vīpṛṣadāḥ), destitute of kin.”
† Sáyana seems to render this latter clause “we knew thee not formerly as the mighty one (but now we know thee).”
wealth) to be enjoyed through thee, and solicit both, thunderer, of thee: giver of dwellings, Indra of the handsome jaws, sustain us in all abundance and in (store of) cattle.

9. I glorify, friends, for your protection, that Indra who has brought to us of old this or that excellent (wealth).¹

10. That man glorifies Indra, the lord of bay steeds, the protector of the good, the overcomer of enemies, who rejoices (in the fulfilment of his wishes): may Māhāvan bestow upon us, his worshippers, hundreds of cattle and horses.

11. With thee, showerer (of benefits), for our ally, Varga III. we bid defiance to one assailing us in a contest (on behalf) of a man possessing herds of cattle.⁰

12. Indra, invoked of many, may we conquer in battle those contending against us; may we resist the malignant; may we, aided by the leaders (of rites,¹ the Maruts), slay Vṛitra; may we be prosperous, and do thou protect our pious works.

13. Thou, Indra, art by thy birth brotherless: from ever art thou without a kinsman: the kindred thou desirest is (that of him) who engages in war.²

² Ib. I. 399 [I. 5. 1. 2. 1; II. 6. 2. 4. 1]. [Śāyāna renders this verse thus, "Thou, Indra, by thy birth art from eternity

* Sāma Veda, I. 5. 1. 2. 5.

† Śāyāna explains nyibhiḥ as "wielders of weapons," dyu-dhanatrībhiḥ, and vṛitra as "the enemy."
14. Thou acknowledgest no friendship for the wealthy man (who makes no offerings); those who are puffed up with wine\(^1\) offend thee: when thou institutest (the sacrifice), thou expellest niggardliness, and thou art invoked as a protector.\(^2\)

15. Let us not, like fools, Indra, be regardless of the friendship of such as thou art;* let us assemble together when the libation is effused.

without a foe, without a controller, without a kinsman; thou desirest to show thy kinsmanship only by war,” i.e. it is only by fighting that thou art the friend of thy worshippers.]

\(^1\) Surāswāh, surāyā eṛiddhāh pramattāh, intoxicated; or nāstikāh, Atheists. For the second line, beginning Yaddā kriṇoṣhi nādanum samūhasi, the printed edition gives no commentary. One MS. reads (but no doubt from some interpolator’s hand), Yaddā mānavaśya dāndādīrṇītyam samūhasi nirākarōṣhi yajjfrītwaṃ karōṣhi, “when thou expellest the neglect of gifts of a man, thou makest the sacrificing;” but the construction is questionable. [The verse occurs in Sāma Veda, II. 6. 2. 4. 2; and Sāyaṇa there explains the clause, Yaddā kriṇoṣhi nādanum samūhasi, “when thou utterest the inarticulate sound of approbation (to the worshipper, implying, ‘He is mine’), thou bringest him (wealth).” See Benfey’s translation, note. Professor Müller thus translates the whole verse, Ancient Sanskrit Lit. p. 542, “Thou never findest a rich man to be thy friend; wine-swillers despise thee; but when thou thunderest, when thou gatherest (the clouds), then thou art called like a father.”]

\(^2\) Or, “as a father,” pīṭā iva.

\(^*\) Sāyaṇa interprets this, “Let not us who are thine, Indra, be desolate as those who are ignorant of the friendship of such as thou art,” mā to amājuro yathā mūrṣaṇa indra sakhya tvāvataḥ. He explains amājuraḥ as gṛhaiḥ putraiḥ pautraiḥ dhanādibhiṣcha saha jirṇaḥ.
16. Let us never, Indra, giver of cattle, cease (to Varga IV. benefit) from thy wealth; let us not accept it (from another than) thee:* do thou, who art the lord, confirm to us permanent (riches), bestow them upon us; thy benefactions cannot be arrested.

17. Is it Indra who has given to the donor (of the oblation) so much affluence? is it the auspicious Saraswati (who has given) the treasure? or, Chitra, is it thou?

18. Verily the Raja Chitra, giving his thousands and tens of thousands, has overspread (with his bounty) those other petty princes, who rule along the Saraswati, as Parjanya (overspreads the earth) with rain.

Sūkta II. (XXII.)
The deities are the Aświns; the Rishi is as before: the metre of the first, third, fifth, and seventh verses is Brihātī; of the second, fourth, and sixth, Satobrihātī; of the eighth, Anush-tubh; of the ninth and tenth, Jyotishī; then come four Kukkubha Pragathas.

1. I invoke to-day for our protection that splendid Varga V. chariot, which, adorable Aświns, advancing on the path to battle,† you ascended (to go to the wedding) of Śūrya.

2. Celebrate, Sobhari, with praises (that chariot), the benefactor of former (encomiasts), the worthily

* Sāyaṇa explains te, as in the previous verse, evayam tava svabhūta, “we who are thine.”
† Rudravartani, explained as “having a path which causes weeping in battle,” or “whose paths are praised.”
invoked, the desired of many, the preserver, the foremost in battles, the relied upon by all, the scatterer of enemies, the exempt from ill.

3. We incite by our adorations on this occasion the two divine Aświns, the overcomers of foes, that they may come down for our protection and proceed to the dwelling of the donor (of the offering).

4. One of the wheels of your car moves in every direction; the other, impellers of actions, remains with you: may your favour, lords of rain, hasten towards us as a cow (to her calf)!

5. Your celebrated chariot, Aświns, that is three-banked,* and caparisoned with gold, graces heaven and earth: come with it, Násatyas.

Varga VI. 6. Bestowing upon Manu the ancient (rain) from the firmament, you enabled him to cultivate (the soil) with the plough (and reap) the barley: now therefore, Aświns, lords of rain, we glorify you both with praises.

1 Pṛmd is explained antaryāmitayā prerakau, "urgers, or impellers, by the property of internal influence or conscience;" or it may mean udakasya prerayitdrua, "senders of water or rain." [For the two wheels, see vol. i. p. 78.]

2 The text has yavam erikepa karshathah, "you till with the plough barley."

* Sāyaṇa explains trividhura as "having three seats," or "having two poles, and a bar between them for fastening the harness," sandhura being sdrathi-sthūnam, or duvo ihe tanmadhye rajuṣajjiṣṭḥaitkha daṇḍah.
7. Rich in food, Aświns, come to us by the paths of sacrifice, those by which, showerers (of benefits), you went to gratify Trīkṣhi, the son of Trasādasyu, with vast wealth.

8. Leaders (of rites), affluent in rain, this Soma has been expressed by the (grinding) stones for you; come to drink the Soma, drink it in the dwelling of the donor.

9. Aświns, who are rich in rain, ascend your golden chariot, a storehouse (of weapons); bring to us fattening* food.

10. With those protections with which you have defended Paktha, Adhrigu, and Bābhru, when propitiating you, come to us, Aświns, quickly; administer medicine to the sick.

11. At the time when hurrying, devout, we invoke Varga VII. you both speedily going to battle, at the dawn of day, with our hymns,¹—

12. Then, showerers, come to my manifold all-propitiating invocation with those (protections), with which, leaders (of rites), you, who are gratified (by oblations), munificent (in gifts), and the overcomers of numerous (foes), gave augmentation to the well;\(^1\) with such (protections) come hither.

* Pivarth, according to Sāyana, “purifying,” or “stout;” pāvayitṛiṇi sthūldi va (annāni).

13. I address the \textit{A\textsc{swins}}, glorifying them at break of day; we solicit them with oblations.

14. We adore those lords of water, leaders on the road of battle,* in the evening, at dawn, and at midday; therefore, \textit{Rudras} who are rich in food, give us not up hereafter to a mortal adversary.

15. Adorable \textit{A\textsc{swins}}, bring in your chariot at early dawn happiness to me, soliciting happiness: I, \textit{Sobh\textsc{ari}}, invoke you as (did my) father.

\textit{Varga VIII.}

16. (\textit{A\textsc{swins}), who are swift as thought, the showerers (of benefits), prostrators of the arrogant, the givers of enjoyment to many, be ever nigh unto us, for our security, with many and prompt protections.

17. \textit{A\textsc{swins}, of goodly aspect, leaders (of rites), deep drinkers of the \textit{Soma} juice, come to our dwelling, abounding with horses, with cattle, with gold.

18. May we obtain from you (wealth) spontaneously bestowed, comprising excellent strength, such as is desired by all, and unassailable by a powerful (foe): may we obtain from you who are rich in food, upon your coming hither, all good things.

\[^1\text{See vol. i. p. 289, note a. \textit{[The A\textsc{swins} miraculously filled the well with water, and so rescued \textit{Vandana}.]}}\]

\[^*\text{Rudravartani; see supra on v. 1.}\]
Sūkta III. (XXIII.)

The deity is Ṛgviṣṭa; the Rishi is Viśvamanas, the son of Vyaśwa; the metre is Uṣṇih.

1. Adore him who resists (our foes), worship Jāta- Varga IX. Vedas the diffuser of smoke, of unobstructed radiance.

2. Commend with praise, all-beholding Viśvamanas, that Ṛgni, who is the giver of chariots to the unenvious (worshipper).

3. The repeller (of foes), the glorified by hymns, arrests the food and drink, and the bearer of oblations takes away the wealth (of those) of whom he foreknows (the neglect of sacrifices).

4. The imperishable lustre rises of that Ṛgni, who is radiant, bright with blazing teeth, resplendent, and glorious amidst troops (of worshippers).*

1 Pratīvyam, satruṣu pratigamana-ṣilam agnim; Ṛgni, who has the property of going against enemies. Sāma Veda, I. 102 [I. 2. 1. 1. 7].

2 Upavidda vinda caṣu is all the text has. The scholiast explains the first by upavedanena, by proximate knowing, that is, ete haviniḥ dēvartham na prayachhantītayajñāṇाः teṣām eva dhanam labhatē, "These do not give oblations to the gods;" by this knowledge he takes their wealth. [Sāyaṇa seems to understand the latter part, "those non-sacrificers, whose food and its juices he arrests (sc. as not digesting them?), their wealth, too, he takes away by his divine knowledge (of their guilt)."]

* Gaṇaṇiṣṭaṣṭaḥ is explained by Sāyaṇa "who visits troops of worshippers to take their oblations."
5. Rise up with celestial splendour, thou who art radiant with great and present lustre, who art worthily worshipped and glorified.

Varga X.

6. Proceed, Āgni, with pious praises, offering in due order the oblations (to the gods), for thou art their messenger, the bearer of oblations.

7. I invoke for you, (worshippers), Āgni, the ancient ministrant priest of men; I praise him with this hymn, I glorify him for you.

8. (Worship him who is) of wondrous works, who, gladdened (by offerings), is present like a friend, whom (the priests) by their sacrifices, according to their power, render propitious to the worshipper.

9. Pious worshippers, at the place of offerings adore\(^1\) with praise him who is gratified by worship, the completer of the sacrifice.

10. Let our sacrificers,* prepared (with their implements), present themselves before the chief of the Angirasas, who is the most renowned offerer of oblations amongst men.

Varga XI.

11. These thy vast blazing flames, undecaying Āgni, are most powerful, vigorous as horses.

---

\(^1\) The text has \textit{juju\textasciitilde{u}\textasciitilde{u}h}, "they have adored;" but the scholiast renders it \textit{up\textasciitilde{a}svad\textasciitilde{a}vam}, expressly stating that the first (the third) person is here put for the second, \textit{madhyamapuru\textasciitilde{s}hasya prathamapurush\textasciitilde{s}dyah}.

* Or "sacrifices," \textit{yaj\textasciitilde{a}d}h.
12. Do thou, who art the lord of food, give us riches, with male offspring: defend us, with our sons and grandsons, in battles.*

13. When Agni, the lord of men, is sharpened (by sacrifice), and, well pleased, is present in the abode of a man, he verily defends it against all evil spirits.¹

14. Hero, Agni, lord of men, hearing this my present praise, consume the guileful Rákshasas by thy flames.²

15. No hostile mortal shall have power by fraud over him who by the (sacred) offerers of the oblation presents (offerings) to Agni.³

16. The Rishi Vyāśwa, desirous (of propitiating) Varga XII. the showerer (of rain), has gratified thee, the bestower of wealth; so we too kindle thee for (the acquirement of) ample riches.

17. Usánas, the son of Kavi, has established thee, Játavedas, as the ministrant priest, thee as the offerer of sacrifice, for Manu.

18. All the consentient gods have made thee their messenger; mayest thou, divine Agni, who art the first (of the deities), quickly become the object of their worship.*

19. The pious mortal has appointed this immortal, purifying, dark-moving, mighty (Agni), his messenger.

20. Let us with uplifted ladles invoke him, the brilliant, bright-shining, undecaying, ancient Agni, who is to be adored by men.

Varga XIII. 21. The man who by the (holy) presenters of oblations makes offerings to him, receives (from Agni) ample nourishment, with male progeny, and fame.

22. The ladle charged with the oblation proceeds with reverence† at sacrifices to the ancient Agni, the first (of the gods), the cognizant of all that exists.

23. Let us, like Vyāśwa, glorify the brilliant Agni with these excellent and most pious praises.

24. Rishi, son of Vyāśwa, adore the far-spreading domestic Agni, with praises, like Sthūrayūpa.¹

25. Pious men glorify the ancient Agni, the guest of men, the son of the trees, for protection.

Varga XIV. 26. Sit down, Agni, on the sacred grass, in the presence of all those worshippers diligent (in pious works, induced) by their veneration (to accept) the oblations of men.

* Sāyana seems to take it, “mayest thou quickly become worthy of the sacrifice, (as bearing our oblations to them).”
† Or, “with the hymn,” stotrena namaskārena va.
27. Grant us (Agni) many desirable (things), grant us riches envied by many, (comprehending) vigour, offspring, fame.

28. Agni, (who art) the desired of all, the humbler (of foes), the youngest (of the gods), ever bestow riches upon the tranquil and constant man.¹

29. Thou verily art a liberal benefactor: bestow upon us, Agni, food, with cattle, and the gift of abundant riches.

30. Thou, Agni, art renowned; bring hither the veracious, the purely vigorous, the resplendent deities Mitra and Varuna.²

Sūkta IV. (XXIV.)

The deity is Indra, except in the last triplet, which celebrates the munificence of Rāja Varu, the son of Sushāman; the Rishi is Vaiyāśwa, or the son of Vyāśwa:* the metre is Uṣṇih, except in the last verse, which is Anushūkh.

1. Let us earnestly, friends, address our prayer to Varga XV.

bhūtāya stotrinām, is all the explanation, except that to the first is added tava prasādāt, "who enjoys tranquility from thy (Agni's) favour." [Sāyana may intend to explain the words as meaning "upon the various reciters of excellent hymns." The Gana-ratna-mahodadhi explains sushāman as ṣobhanam sāma priyavacchanam yasya (cf. Pān. 8. 3. 98). In v. 28 of the next hymn, sushāman is the name of a king.]

* i.e. Viśvamanas, as in the preceding hymn: see v. 7.
Indra, the wielder of the thunderbolt; for you I praise the chief leader (in battles), the resolute (opposer of foes).\textsuperscript{1}

2. Thou art renowned for strength; from the slaying of V\textit{\textasciitilde{\textsc{r}}\textsc{ita}}, thou art (famed as) \textit{\textasciitilde{\textsc{r}}\textsc{itrah\textasciitilde{\textfrak{a}}}n}: thou surpassest, hero, the opulent in the donation of thy riches.

3. Praised by us, bestow upon us riches of wonderful variety; thou, the lord of steeds, who, at the issue (of thy weapons)\textsuperscript{2} puttest thine enemies to flight, art the donor (of treasures).

4. Burst open to thy worshippers, \textit{\textsc{r}idra}, the highly-prized wealth: glorified by us, do thou who art endowed with resolution, bring (us wealth) with a resolute (mind).

5. Lord of steeds, in the recovery of the cattle the opponents resist not thy left hand nor thy right, thy enemies (resist thee) not.

6. I approach thee, thunderer, with praises, as (a cowherd goes) with cattle to the pasture; gratify the desire, satisfy the mind of thine adorer.

Sūkta V. (XXV.)

The deities are Mitra and Varuna, except in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth stanzas, in which they are the Viśwadevas: the Rishi is the son of Vyaśwa: the metre is Ushnīṣh, except in the penultimate stanza, where it is Ushniggarbhā.

1. You two are the protectors of the universe, Varga XXI. divine, and to be adored among the gods; therefore, (Viśwamanas), thou sacrificest to the pair who are observant of truth and endowed with real power.

2. Mitra and Varuna, doers of good deeds, (diffusers of) riches, who are the charioteers (of men),† well born of old, the sons (of Aditi), observant of vows, (you are worshipped by me).¹

* Sāyapa explains kuhayākrita as meaning, "Oh thou who art honoured by those who ask where Varu dwells," sa varuḥ kuṭra tisṭhatityetadichchhayā 'bhilakshanapratītair jiṃsadbhiḥ� prakṛita (Uśhas). Varuḥ he takes as voraḥ, sc. svabadena evadrakaḥ satruṇḍm, "overwhelmer of enemies."

† Or, perhaps, "bringers of riches," tanā rathya.
3. The great and veracious Aditi, the mother (of the gods), gave birth to those two who are possessed of all affluence, and shining with great splendour, for the (destruction of the) Asuras.

4. The great Mitra and Varuna, the two sovereign* and powerful † deities, the observers of truth, illumé our solemn rite.

5. Grandsons of mighty strength, sons of energy, doers of good deeds, liberal benefactors, they preside over the habitation of food.

6. Bestow (upon us) good gifts, viands, whether of heaven or earth: may the water-shedding rains attend upon you.

7. (These are they) who look upon the great deities as (a bull contemplates) the herd, sovereigns observant of truth and propitious to adoration.

8. Observers of truth, doers of good deeds, they sit down for the office of sovereignty; ‡ observant of obligations, endowed with strength, they acquire vigour.²

* Sāyaṇa, as usual, explains samrāj as "perfectly resplendent," samyag ḍīpyamānau; and so, too, in v. 7.

† Asurā is also explained as "impelling by being the indwelling principle," antaryāmitāyā prerakau.

‡ Cf. vol. i. p. 66, verse 10.

¹ A rather unintelligible verse, even with the help of the scholiast. [Sāyaṇa seems to understand it as referring to Mitra and Varuṇa as respectively presiding over day and night, ahorātrayor evyaddeho tejāsā.]

22. We have received from the son of \textit{Sushaman}, the descendant of \textit{Ukshan}, the overcomer (of foes), a well-going chariot of silver, yoked (with a pair of horses).

23. Among bay horses these two are pre-eminently) the destroyers (of foes), and of those eager in combat; the two strong bearers of men.

24. Through this new praise (of \textit{Mitra} and \textit{Varuna}) I have obtained at the same moment of the mighty prince, two fast-going sagacious* steeds, with whip and reins.

\textbf{Sūkta VI. (XXVI.)}

The deities are the \textit{Ashwins}, but of the last six stanzas \textit{Vayu}; the \textit{Rishi} as before, \textit{Viśwamanas}, the son of \textit{Vyāsya}, (or \textit{Vyas}a, the descendant of \textit{Angiras}); the metre of the first fifteen stanzas and the twenty-second, twenty-third, and twenty-fourth is \textit{Ush入户}; that of the sixteenth and three following is \textit{Gāyatrī}, as also of the twenty-first and twenty-fifth; that of the twentieth, \textit{Anushīthā}.

1. (\textit{Ashwins}) of irresistible strength, affluent \textit{Varga XXVI}. showerers (of benefits), I invoke your chariot amidst the pious, who are assembled to celebrate your presence.

* Sāyana explains \textit{viprau} as \textit{medhāvindm uchita}, “worthy of the praisers of a deity.”
2. (Say), Varu\(^1\) (thus), Násatyas, senders of rain, affluent showerers (of benefits), as you came to Susháman with your protections to (grant him) great riches,\(^2\) (so come to me).

3. Affluent in nourishment, we invoke you, who are desirous of (sacrificial) food, on this occasion at dawn\(^3\) with oblations.

4. Leaders (of rites), let your renowned all-conveying chariot come to us, and (do you) recognize the praises of the zealous (worshipper) for his prosperity.

5. Aświns, affluent showerers (of benefits), detect the guileful; verily, Rudras, vex your adversaries.

6. Dasras, who are gratified by sacred rites, of fascinating complexion,\(^4\) lords of rain, pass with your fleet (horses) completely round our entire (sacrifice).

7. Come to us, Aświns, with all-supporting riches, for you are opulent, heroic, overthrown of none.

8. Indra and Násatyas, who are most accessible, come to this my sacrifice: come, gods, to-day, with (other) divinities.

\(^{1}\) The text has only Varu, in the vocative, which the commentator amplifies—He varunáma rájann ovam bráhity Rishir vadati.

\(^{2}\) Máha tane, mahato dhándya, mahyam dyátam is supplied by the scholiast.

\(^{3}\) Ati kahapah, kahapdyá atikrame, “at the passing of night,” ushah-kálo.

\(^{4}\) Madhuvrñá is explained yo yuvayo rúpam paśyanti te tatraiva hrishtá bhavanti, “they who look upon your beauty are delighted.”
9. Desirous of you who are bestowers of wealth, we invoke you, as did (our father) \textit{Vyāśwa}: come, sagacious Āświns, hither with favourable intentions.

10. Praise the Āświns devoutly, \textit{Rishi}, that they may repeatedly hear thine invocation, and destroy the nearest (approaching enemies) and the \textit{Panis}.

12. Adorable showerers (of benefits), bestow daily upon me (some) of that (wealth) which is given by you, which is brought by you for the worshippers.

13. The man who is enveloped in sacrifices (offered) to you, like a woman with additional raiment,\textsuperscript{1} rewarding him, Āświns, you place him in prosperity.

14. Favourably disposed towards me, come, Āświns, to the dwelling of him who knows (how to prepare for you) the most copiously effused (libation) to be drunk by the leaders (of rites).

15. Affluent showerers (of benefits), come to our dwelling for (the libation) to be drunk by the leaders (of rites), for you bring the sacrifice to completion by praise, as the fatal shaft (slays the deer).\textsuperscript{2}

tion as devoted to you)."

17. Whether, immortal (Aswins), you rejoice in the water of the firmament, or in the dwelling of the worshipper, hear this my (invocation).

18. Verily this Swetayavari, the golden-pathed river, is of all rivers the especial bearer of your (praises).

19. Aswins, following a brilliant course, you acquire celebrity by the white river worthily praising you, the enricher (of the people on its banks).

20. Yoke your chariot-drawing horses, Vayu; bring them, Vasu, encouraged (to the sacrifice); then drink our Soma; come to our daily libations.

21. We solicit thy protection, Vayu, lord of sacrifice, wonderful son-in-law of Twashtri.

follows: tena (vishudhruhd) yathā vyādho mrigam abhilashhitam deśam prāpayati tatoṣtat stutyā yajnam avaikalayena samāptim prāpayathāḥ, “as a hunter by an arrow brings the deer to the desired spot (to its destination?), so ye by praise cause the sacrifice to attain completion.”}

1 Isira va grihe, yuvām ichchhato yajamānasya is Sāyana’s explanation.

2 The river is said to have praised the Aswins, as the Rishi lived on its banks. These banks are golden, and consequently enrich those who live near.

3 Sāyana explains Twashtri here by Brahmd, and refers for the connection to the Itihāsas and other authorities. Mahādharma (Yajur-Veda, 27. 34) says, Vāyu, or the wind, having taken water from Aditya, fertilizes it, as rain, and is therefore as it were his son-in-law, identifying Twashtri with Aditya.
22. We, the offerers of Soma, solicit riches from the sovereign, the son-in-law of Twas̄thri; (may we become) wealthy.

23. Establish, Vāyu, happiness in heaven;* bear quickly thy well-horsed (chariot); do thou, who art mighty, yoke the broad-flanked (horses) to the car.

24. We invoke thee who art of graceful form, extending through thy magnitude thy limbs in all directions,\(^1\) to our religious rites, like the stone (for bruising the Soma).

25. Divine Vāyu, foremost (of the gods), exulting in thine own mind, cause our rites to be productive of food and water.\(^\dagger\)

Sūkta VII. (XXVII.)

The Viśvadevas are the deities; Manu, the son of Viśvaśvat, is the Rishi: the metre of the odd verses is Brihati; of the even, Satobrihati.

1. Agni is the Purohita at the sacrifice: the Varga XXXI. stones, the sacred grass (are prepared) for the ceremony. I invoke with the holy verse the Maruts,

\(^1\) Āśvaprīṣṭham is, literally, “borne on a horse’s back;” but Sāyana here interprets āśwa by vydpta, and prishṭha by sarvāṅga.

\(^\dagger\) Sāyana seems to explain the latter clause, “Give us food and water, and so cause our rites to be duly performed.”
BRAHMĀNASPATI, and all the gods, for their desirable protection.\(^1\)

2. Thou comest (Agni), to the victim, to the dwelling\(^2\) (of the worshipper), to the touchwood, to the Soma, at dawn and at night: universal deities, givers of wealth, knowing all things, be the defenders of our pious acts.

3. Let the ancient sacrifice proceed first to Agni, then to the gods,—to the Ádityas, to Varuṇa, observer of obligations, to the all-resplendent Maruts.

4. May the universal deities, possessors of all opulence, destroyers of foes, be (nigh) to Manu for his prosperity: do you, who know all things, secure to us an abode safe from robbers\(^3\) through your unassailable protections.

5. Universal deities, united together and of one mind, come this day to us, (attracted) by the sacred praise addressed to you; and do you, Maruts, and the mighty goddess Aditi, (come) to the dwelling, (our) abode.

\(^1\) Sāma Veda, I. 48 [I. 1. 1. 5. 4. Sāyaṇa explains puṣṭhitā in its literal meaning, as “placed in front, (or on the east), on the uttara vedi.”]

\(^2\) Prithivim, which is explained idam devasadanam, “this chamber of the gods.” Oṣhadhiḥ may here also imply annual plants, according to Sāyaṇa. [Sāyaṇa renders uṣhade naktam oṣhadhiḥ, (“thou comest) to dawn and night (these being the times for the offering), and the soma-grinding stones.” He explains vasa-vah, as usual, by veda-yitāraḥ, “causers of habitations.”]

\(^3\) Ávrikam stenaḥsahitaḥ; or it may imply, “free from any annoyances, bādhāraḥsahitaḥ.”
6. Direct, Maruts, your beloved horses (to our rite): Mitra, (come to our) oblations; and may Indra, and Varuna, and the swift leaders, the Adityas, sit down on our sacred grass.

7. Bearing the elipt sacred grass, offering in due order the (sacrificial) food, presenting the effused Soma, and having the fires kindled, we invoke you, Varuna,¹ (and the rest), as did Manus.

8. Maruts, Vishnu, Aświns, Pūshan, come hither (induced) by my praise: may Indra, the first (of the gods), also come, the showerer (of benefits), he who is praised by (his) worshippers as the slayer of Vritra.

9. Unoppressive deities, bestow upon us a mansion without defect, so that, subduers (of foes), no one may injure our defences, whether from afar or nigh.

10. There is identity of race among you, deities, destroyers of foes; there is kindred² (with me your worshipper); therefore utter at once the command for our former prosperity and for new happiness.

11. Deities, possessed of all wealth, I, desirous of offering worship, address to you verily unprecedented praise, for the sake of obtaining desired affluence.

² The text has only asy āpyam, the scholiast says, with the Rishi of the hymn.
12. Devoutly praised (Maruts), when the adorable Savitri has risen above you, then bipeds and quadrupeds, and the flying birds, seeking (their objects), enter (upon their functions).

13. We would invoke each deity among you (gods) for protection, each deity for the attainment of our desires, each deity for the acquisition of food, glorifying you with divine praise.¹

14. May the universal gods with one consent be together the givers (of riches) to Manu; may they, both to-day and hereafter, be the bestowers of wealth upon us and upon our posterity.²

15. I glorify you, innoxious deities, in the place of praises: no harm befalls the man who, Mitra and Varuna, offers (oblations) to your glories.

16. He enlarges his dwelling, he has abundant food who offers you (oblations) to obtain a blessing: through his pious acts he is born on every side in his children; all prosper (through your favour) unharmed (by enemies).

17. He gains (wealth) without war, he travels along the roads with quick (horses), whom Aryaman, Mitra, and Varuna, alike munificent, and acting in concert, protect.

18. You enable him (Manu) to proceed by an unobstructed road; you grant him easy access to difficult passes: may the weapon (of the foe) be far from him, and, inflicting no injury, perish.

19. Divinities of benevolent vigour, since you preside over the rite* to-day, at the rising of the sun, since, possessors of all wealth, (you are present) at his setting, or at his waking, or at the meridian of the day;

20. Or since, all-wise deities, you accept the sacrifice, bestowing on the zealous donor (of the oblation) a dwelling (such as we may worship in), then, possessors of all wealth, distributors of riches, may we worship you in the midst (of that dwelling).

21. (Gods), who are possessed of all wealth, bestow† the desired (opulence) upon the intelligent Manu, offering oblations to you at sunrise, mid-day, and sunset.

22. We solicit of you; resplendent deities, as a son (of a father), that which is to be enjoyed by many; offering oblations, may we obtain that (wealth), Adityas, by which we may possess abundance.

1 The construction is so loose, that it is impossible to do more than conjecture the meaning. Yadvābhīpitva asurād ritam yat chhārdir yena vi dāṣuvre is explained yadā asmadyajnam prati yushmādakam adhiprāptau yajnam gachchhate havinahi dattavate yajamānyya griham prayachchhatha, “since you give a dwelling to the donor of the oblation proceeding to the rite, which is to bring you to our sacrifice,” or, “on your approach to our sacrifice.”

* Sāyaṇa says, “since ye uphold the house (rendered prosperous),” griham kalyāṇabhūtam dhārayatha.

† Sāyaṇa connects this verse with the next, “since ye give the desired (opulence) to Manu,” etc., “therefore we solicit of you,” etc.
Súkta VIII. (XXVIII.)

Deities and Rishi as before: the metre is Gadyatri, except in the fourth verse, where it is Pura-ushñiha.

1. May the three-and-thirty divinities sit down upon the sacred grass; may they accept (our offerings), and bestow upon us both (sorts of wealth).†

2. May Varuña, Mitra, Aryan, and the Agnis, with their wives, honouring the donors (of the oblation), and addressed with the sacrificial exclamation,—

3. Be our protectors, whether coming with all their attendants from the west, from the north, from the south, from the east.∗

4. Whatever the gods desire, that assuredly comes to pass: no one can resist their (will), no mortal withholds (their) offerings.†

5. Seven are the lances of the seven (troops of the Maruts), seven are their ornaments, they wear seven surpassing glories.

† i.e. cattle and money; or, may they give repeatedly. [Śāvaṇa explains vidan, “may they acknowledge us as offerers.”]

∗ Śāvaṇa artificially makes out six directions by taking nyak as the nadir, and understanding by ither the south and the zenith.

† Or, perhaps, as Śāvaṇa takes it, “even the non-offering mortal (must give offerings if they will it).”
Sūnta IX. (XXIX.)

Deities as before: the Rishi is Kaśyapa, the son of Maśchi, or Manu, the son of Viśswat; the metre is Dwipadā Vīrāj.

1. One (Soma) brown of hue, all-pervading, leader of the nights, ever young, decorates (himself) with golden ornaments.

2. One (Agni) intelligent, resplendent among the gods, is seated in his place (the altar).

3. One (Tvashṭri) immovable, stationed among the gods, holds his iron axe in his hand.

4. One (Indra) holds his thunderbolt wielded in his hand, by which he slays the Vṛitraś.

5. One (Rudra) brilliant and fierce, (yet) the distributor of healing medicines, holds his sharp weapon in his hand.

6. One (Pūshan) watches the roads, like a robber, and is cognizant of hidden treasures.

7. One (Vishnu) wide-stepping, has traversed the three worlds where the gods rejoice.

8. Two (the Āswins) travel with swift (horses) along with one (bride Sūryā), like travellers to foreign countries.

9. Two of like beauty and of royal rank (Mitra and Varuṇa), worshipped with oblations of clarified butter, have taken their seat in heaven.

1 Babhru applies properly to the Soma plant, but the other epithets indicate Soma, the moon.

2 Śunara, which is explained svēṣṭu rāṭriṇām neta.

10. Some (the Atris), when worshipping, call to mind the great sáman, wherewith they light up the sun.*

SÓKTA X. (XXX.)

Deities as before: the Rishi is Manu, the son of Vivasvat; each of the four stanzas is in a different metre, Gâyatri, Pura-ushnî, Brîhatî, Anuṣṭûbî.

1. There is no one among you, gods, who is an infant or a youth; you verily are all of mature existence.†

2. Destroyers of foes, gods, adored by Manu, who are three-and-thirty, and are thus hymned;

3. Do you preserve us, do you protect us, do you direct us (to our good); lead us not afar from the paternal paths of Manu,¹ nor from those still more distant.

4. Gods, who are here present, all to whom this full sacrifice is offered, bestow upon us, upon our cattle and horses, happiness far renowned.

* Cf. suprâ, Vol. III. p. 297. Sáyana explains the sáman as the trivrit, panchadâsa, etc.

Súkta I. (XXXI.)

The deities of the first four stanzas are the sacrifice and praise of the Yajamāna; of the next five, the praise of the same and his wife; the benediction pronounced upon the pair is the divinity of the rest: the Rishi is Manu, the son of Vivasvāt; the metre of the ninth and fourteenth verses is Anueṣṭubh; of the last four, Pankti; of the tenth, Pādanichrit; of the rest, Gadyātri.

1. He who offers oblations (to the gods, again) offers them: he pours forth libations and presents (the sacred cake),* he delights in reiterating the praise verily of Indra.

2. Indra protects from sin that man who offers him cakes and presents Soma mixed with milk.

3. A brilliant chariot comes to him, sent by the gods, with which, baffling all hostilities, he prospers.

4. In his house perpetual abundance, accompanied by progeny, (is present), and milch kine are milked day by day.†

5. Gods, may the husband and wife, who with one

6. Constantly associated, may they acquire appropriate (sacrificial) viands; may they be able to offer sacrifice; may they never be wanting in food (given by the gods).

7. They retract not (their promises) to the gods, they withhold not your praise, but offer abundant (sacrificial) food.

8. Blessed with youthful and adolescent offspring, and both having their persons richly ornamented, they pass (happily) their whole life.

9. Offering acceptable sacrifices, obtaining the wealth they solicit,* presenting gratifying (oblations to the gods), for the sake of immortality² enjoying personal union, they (wife and husband) worship the gods.

10. We solicit the happiness (afforded) by the mountains, the rivers, and Vishnu, associated (with the gods).

11. May the adorable Pûshan, the possessor of opulence, the most benevolent patron to all, come.

12. All men with (devout) minds are the unwearied* (praisers) of the irresistible deity (Pūshan), verily the (most) sinless of the Ádityas.†

13. Since Mitra, Aryaman, and Varuṇa are our protectors, may the paths of the sacrifice be easily traversed (by them).

14. I worship the divine Agni, the preceiver of you, (gods), with praise, (for the sake) of riches; the worshippers (cherish him), the bountiful perfecter of the sacrifice, like a friend.

15. The chariot of the devout worshipper quickly (prevails), as the hero (prevails) in all combats whatever: the celebrator of the sacrifice, who desires to propitiate the mind of the gods, overcomes those who are no sacrificers.

16. Devoted to the gods, pouring out to them libations, thou, worshipper, shalt not perish: the celebrator of the sacrifice, who desires to propitiate the mind of the gods, overcomes those who are no sacrificers.

Súkta II. (XXXII.)

Indra is the deity; the Rishi is Medháätíthi, of the race of Kañwa; the metre is Gáyatri.

Varga I.

1. Celebrate with songs the great deeds of Indra, the drinker of the stale Soma, when in his exhilaration.*

2. The fierce (deity) who, liberating the waters, has slain Sríbinda, Anarśani, Pipru, and the slave† Ahíṣuva.

3. Pierce the rain-holding domain of the vast Arbuda: achieve, Indra, this manly exploit.

4. I invoke the victorious handsome-jawed Indra for your protection, and to hear (your praises), as (a traveller invokes) the water from the cloud.1

* Sáyána seems to explain this: “Proclaim the deeds of the stale Soma, in the words of Indra when filled with exhilaration.”

† Sáyána makes Dása another proper name. Dásaṃ cha Ahíṣuvaṃ cha.
5. Exhilarated by the Soma draughts,* thou, hero, throwest open the pastures of the cattle and horses like a (hostile) city.

6. If thou art propitiated by my libation and Varga II. praise, and bestowest food (upon me), come with viands from afar.

7. Indra, who art pleased by praise, we are thine adorers; do thou therefore, who art the drinker of the Soma, be generous unto us.¹

8. Gratified by us, bring us undiminished food, Maghayan, for vast is thy wealth.

9. Make us (Indra) possessed of cattle, of gold, and of horses: may we prosper with abundant viands.

10. We invoke Indra, who is greatly to be praised, whose arm is stretched out for the protection (of the world), acting nobly for our defence.²

11. The slayer of Vṛitra, the accomplisher of a Varga III. hundred exploits in war, achieves them that he may be the giver of much wealth to his worshippers.

12. May Śakra give us strength, may the liberal

INDRA with all protections be the supplier of our deficiencies.¹

13. Glorify that INDRA who is the preserver of riches, the mighty, the conveyer beyond (calamity),* the friend of the offerer of the libation;

14. Him who comes nigh, the mighty, the firm in battles, the acquirer of fame,† the lord of vast riches through his prowess.

15. No one puts a limit to his glorious deeds, no one asserts that he is not generous.

Varga IV. 16. Verily no debt is due (to the gods) by those Soma-partaking Brāhmans offering libations;² the Soma is not drunk without the expenditure of boundless (wealth).‡

17. Sing praises to the adorable (INDRA), repeat prayers to the adorable (INDRA), address hymns to the adorable (INDRA).

18. The powerful INDRA, the discomforter of hundreds and thousands, unchecked (by foes), is adorable; he who is the benefactor of the sacrificer.

¹ Antardhārāh is explained okhidrdhrām apurakah, or okhidrd-pāḍhdyā, the filler up or coverer of flaws.

² A text is quoted to the effect that "he who has a son, or is chaste, is free from debt," that is, to the gods and manes, anrīno yah putri yade brahmachārī.

---

* Supdāra is more often explained "ready to be brought by praise."

† Sravojitam might also mean "the winner of wealth or food."

‡ Apratā is explained avistṛpadhānena, which would rather mean "by one who has not abundant wealth."
19. Indra, who art to be invoked of men, come to their offered viands, drink of (their) libations.

20. Drink of the (Soma) purchased by the milch cow,\(^1\) that (Soma) which is mixed with water, that which, Indra, is especially thine.

21. Indra, pass by the man who offers the libation in anger, him who pours it out upon a spot disapproved of; drink this presented Soma.\(^2\)

(Indra) the overpowerer, the subduer (of foes), the praise inspired by the gods;

28. Indra, who, in the exhilaration of the quaffed Soma, makes known among the gods all pious rites.

29. May those two golden-maned steeds, together exulting, bring him hither to the salutary (sacrificial) food.

30. Indra, the glorified of many, let thy horses, praised by Priyamedha, bring thee down to drink the Soma.

Sukta III. (XXXIII.)

Deity as before; the Rishi is Medhyatithi; the metre of the sixteenth and two following verses is Gayatri, of the last, Anuṣṭubh, of the rest, Brihati.

Varga VII. 1. We are pouring forth to thee the Soma juice like water: the praisers, strewing the clipt sacred grass, worship thee, slayer of Vṛitra, in the streams (falling) from the filter.¹

2. The leaders (of rites), repeating praises, shout to thee, Vasu, when the libation issues forth; when, Indra, bellowing like a bull, dost thou come to the dwelling, thirsting for the Soma?²

3. Resolute (Indra), bestow abundantly upon the descendants of Kāñwa thousands of viands; wise Maghavan, we earnestly soliciit thee for (wealth) of gold³ and cattle.

¹ Sāma Veda, 2. 215 [I. 3. 2. 2. 9; II. 2. 2. 12. 1].
² Ibid. 2. 216 [II. 2. 2. 12. 2, but with gamat for gamaḥ].
³ Piṣanga-rūpam, "tawny-coloured," is left unexplained by the Commentary. Sāma Veda, 2. 217 [II. 2. 2. 12. 3].
4. Drink, Medhyāttithi, and in the exhilaration of the draught sing to Indra, to him who has harnessed his horses, who, when the Soma is poured out, is present, the wielder of the thunderbolt, whose chariot is of gold.¹

5. He who is well-handed, both left and right, who is the lord, who is wise, the performer of numerous great acts, the giver of vast wealth, Indra, who is the demolisher of cities, who is gratified by praise, is glorified (by us).

6. He who is the subduer (of foes), the unresisted, Varga VIII. practised in combats,² possessed of vast wealth, the demander of the libation,³ the praised of many, who by his acts (of bounty) is like a milch cow to the competent (worshipper).

7. Who knows him drinking with (the priests) when the Soma is effused? what food has he partaken of? he, the handsome-jawed, who, exhilarated by the (sacrificial) beverage, destroys cities by his might.⁴

8. As a wild elephant emitting the dews of passion, he manifests his exhilaration in many places: no one checks thee, (Indra), come to the libation;

² Śmaśrushi prilah. Śmaśru is explained as yuddha, a very unusual sense.

³ Chyavana is literally he who causes to fall or flow, that is, the Soma.

thou art mighty, and goest (everywhere) through thy strength.\textsuperscript{1}

9. He who is fierce, unmoved (by foes) and firm, ready equipped for battle,—if Maghavan hear the invocation of his adorer, he will not go apart (from us) but come hither.\textsuperscript{2}

10. Verily (Indra), in this manner thou art the showerer (of benefits), brought by vigorous (steeds) to us, unarrested (by foes); fierce (Indra), thou art celebrated as a showerer (of benefits) when afar; thou art celebrated as a showerer (of benefits) when nigh.\textsuperscript{3}

\textbf{Varga IX.}

11. Showerers (of benefits) are thy reins, such also is thy golden whip; thy chariot, Maghavan, is a showerer (of benefits), so are thy two horses; and thou, too, Satakraitu, art the showerer (of benefits).

12. Showerer (of benefits), may the offerer of the libation to thee effuse the Soma as a showerer; straight-going (Indra), bring (us wealth): arrester of thy horses, the showerer (of the oblation) has prepared the bountiful Soma to be mixed with the waters for thee.

13. Come, most powerful Indra, to drink of the Soma ambrosia, (for without coming) this Maghavan, the achiever of many exploits, hears not our praises, our chants, our hymns.

\textsuperscript{1} Sáma Veda, 2. 1047 [II. 8. 2. 15. 2].

\textsuperscript{2} \textit{Ibid.} 2. 1048 [II. 8. 2. 15. 3].

\textsuperscript{3} \textit{Ibid.} 1. 263 [I. 3. 2. 3. 1, but with \textit{avild} for \textit{aritikāh}]. The usual abuse of \textit{Prishan} occurs in this and the two following verses.
14. Satakrau, slayer of Vritra, let thy horses, yoked to thy car, bring thee, the lord, riding in thy chariot, (to our sacrifices), avoiding those sacrifices (offered) by others.

15. Greatest of the great, brilliant drinker of the Soma, accept to-day this our present praise; may our sacrifices be most successful in exciting thine exhilaration.

16. The hero (Indra) who has (ever) guided us varga x. delights not in thy punishment, nor in mine, nor in that of any other.¹

17. Verily Indra said that the mind of a woman is not to be controlled, he declared also that her intellect was small.²

18. The two horses of Indra, hastening to the exhilaration (of the Soma), draw his chariot; the pole of the showerer rests upon them.

19. Cast thine eyes (son of Playoga) downwards, not upwards: keep thy feet close together; let not (men) behold thine ankles, for from having been a Brähman thou hast become a female.³

² According to the comment, this refers to a legend that Ásanga, the son of Playoga, the patron of the Rishi, had been changed to a woman; see the story in Vol. IV. p. 210.

³ Indra is supposed to say this to Ásanga as a female.
Súkta IV. (XXXIV.)

Deity as before; the Rishi is Nápatithi, the descendant of Káñwa, except in the three last stanzas, where the Rishis are the thousand Vásu-rochísás, of the race of Ángiras; the metre is Anuśṭubh in the first fifteen verses, Gāyatri in the three last.

Varga XI.

1. Come, Indra, with thy horses to receive the praise of Káñwa; do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.¹

2. May the grinding stone, yielding the Soma-juice as it utters a sound, bring thee hither with the noise; do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.²

² Sáma Veda, 2. 1159 [II. 9. 1. 16. 3].
3. The circumference of these (stones) shakes (the Soma) at this (rite), as a wolf (terrifies) a sheep; do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.¹

4. The Kañwās invoke thee hither for protection and for food; do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

5. I make offering to thee of the libations as the first drink is presented to the showerer;² do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

6. (Indra) master of the family of heaven,³ come varga XII. to us: do thou, who art the sustainer of the universe, (come) for our protection: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

7. Sagacious (Indra) bestower of numerous protections, granter of infinite wealth, come unto us: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

8. May (Agni) the invoker, adorable among the gods, the benefactor of man,* bring thee hither: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

³ Smatpurandhi is interpreted swargakusumbin.

* Sāyaṇa here explains manur-hitak as “placed by men in their houses,” but he allows the meaning in the text in his Commentary on I. 106. 5.
9. Let thy two steeds, humiliators of the pride (of foes), bring thee as (his) two wings (bear along) the falcon: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

10. Come, lord, from whatever direction, to drink the Soma offered with Śvāhā: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

Varga XIII. 11. Come to listen to our praises, when they are being recited,—bestow upon us delight: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

12. Indra, who art possessed of cherished steeds, come to us with (thy) well-fed and like-shaped horses: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

13. Come from the mountains, from above the region of the firmament: do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

15. Bring to us, by thousands, tens of thousands and hundreds (of good things): do you, ruling yonder heaven, O radiant with oblations, return thither.

16. We, the thousand Vasurochishas, and Indra (our leader), when we obtain vigorous herds of horses,—

17. Such as are straight-going, fleet as the wind, bright-coloured, light-footed, and shine like the sun,—
18. Then (having received) the horses, attached to the rolling-wheeled chariot, given from afar,* we depart to the middle of the forest.

SūRYA V. (XXXV.)

The deities are the Aświns; the Rishi is Śravaṇa, of the family of Atri: the metre of the first twenty-one verses is Uparishtiṛṣijyotis, of the twenty-second and twenty-fourth Pankti, and of the twenty-third Mahābrīhātī.

1. Associated with Agni, with Indra, with Varuṇa, Varga XIV. with Vishnu, with the Adityas, the Rudras, and the Vasus, and united with the dawn and with Sūrya, drink, Aświns, the Soma.

2. Powerful (Aświns), associated with all intelligences, with all beings, with heaven, with earth, with the mountains, united with the dawn and with Sūrya, drink, Aświns, the Soma.

3. Associated with all the thrice-eleven deities at this ceremony, with the waters, with the Maruts, with the Bhrigus, united with the dawn and with Sūrya, drink, Aświns, the Soma.

4. Be gratified by the sacrifice; hear my invocation; recognize, deities, all the offerings in this ceremony; united with the dawn and with Sūrya, bring us, Aświns, food.

5. Be gratified by our praise as youths are delighted (by the voices) of maidens: recognize, deities,

9. Ye hasten like two falcons to the offerer of the libation, ye alight upon the effused Soma as two buffaloes (hasten to water); united with the dawn and with Śūrya, come, Āświns, by the triple path.

10. Drink, Āświns, the Soma, and satiate yourselves; come hither; give us progeny; give us wealth; united with the dawn and with Śūrya, give us, Āświns, strength.

11. Conquer (Āświns) your foes; protect and

*Sūkta VI. (XXXVI.)

The deity is Indra; the Rishi as before: the first six verses are in the Śakvarī metre, the seventh in the Mahāpankti.

1. Thou art the protector of the effuser of the Varga XVIII. libation, of the strewer of the clipt sacred grass; drink joyfully, Ātakrātu, the Soma for thine exhilaration,—that portion which (the gods) assigned thee, Indra, lord of the virtuous, who art the victor over all (hostile) hosts, the conqueror of many,† the subduer of the waters, the leader of the Maruts.

2. Protect the worshipper, Mahāvan, protect thyself; drink joyfully, Ātakrātu, the Soma for thine exhilaration,—that portion which (the gods)

* Sāyana here takes vivakshaṇasya as an epithet of the speaker, i.e. "at the commenced adoration of me the offerer of libations;" elsewhere, as in viii. 21. 5, he takes the word as an epithet of the Soma, "heaven-bestowing," svargapraṇāśila.

† Uru jrayas. Sāyana explains jrayas here as vega, but in viii. 6. 27 he alternatively explained urujrayas as viśitrāvyāpin, "the wide pervader." We might thus render the passage, "the victor over all hostile hosts and over wide space."
assigned thee, INDRA, lord of the virtuous, who art the victor over all (hostile) hosts, the conqueror of many, the subduer of the waters, the leader of the joyfully, SĀTAKRATU, the Soma for thine exhilaration,—that portion which (the gods) assigned thee, INDRA, lord of the virtuous, who art the victor over all (hostile) hosts, the conqueror of many, the subduer of the waters, the leader of the Maruts.

The deities are Agni and Indra; the Rishi as before: the metre is Gayatri.

5. Accept these sacrifices whereby you have borne away the oblations; leaders of rites, Indra and Agni, come hither.

6. Accept this my earnest praise, following the path of the Gāyatrī; leaders of rites, Indra and Agni, come hither.

7. Rich with the spoils of victory, come, Indra Varga xx1. and Agni, to drink of the Soma, with the deities astir in the morning.

8. Hear the invocation, Indra and Agni, of Śyāvāśwa pouring out the effused juice, (and) the Atris, to drink of the Soma.

2. (Propitiated), Agni, by our new praise, baffle the hostile attempts of these against our persons, consume the enemies of those who are liberal (at sacred rites); may all our foolish* assailants depart from hence, may all our adversaries perish.

3. I pour into thy mouth, Agni, praises as others (fill it) with delicious butter; do thou amidst the gods acknowledge (them), for thou art ancient, the giver of happiness, the messenger of Vívasvat; may all our enemies perish.

4. He, who visible above the earth sustains the points of the horizon, is the measurer* (of the universe); that is the ancient abode of Varuna, to which we have access; he is our lord, like the keeper of cattle: may all our enemies perish.

5. He who is the sustainer of the worlds, who knows the hidden and secret names of the (solar) rays, he is the sage who cherishes the acts of sages, as the heaven cherishes numerous forms: may all our enemies perish.

6. In whom all pious acts are concentrated, like the nave in the (centre of the) wheel, worship him quickly who abides in the three worlds; as men assemble the cattle in their pasture, so do (our foes) collect their horses (to assail us): may all our enemies perish.

7. He who, passing amidst those (regions of the firmament), gives refuge to all their races, and all the deities precede the chariot of Varuna, when manifesting his glories to perform his worship: may all our enemies perish.¹

¹ The commentary here is defective, and the passage very obscure; the translation is not entitled to any reliance. The deity of the first triplet is Varuna; the metre Trishtubh: the deities of the second triplet are the Aswins, and the metre Anushtubh; the Rishi is Archananas or NabhaKa.

3. Divine Varuna, animate the sacred acts† of me engaging in this thy worship: may we ascend the safe-bearing vessel by which we may cross over all difficulties.

4. The sacred stones, Aswins, the pious worshippers, Nasatyas, have fallen upon their sacred functions, (to induce you) to drink the Soma: may all our enemies perish.

5. In like manner as the pious Atri, Aswins, invoked you with hymns, so (I invoke you), Nasatyas, to drink the Soma: may all our enemies perish.

6. In like manner as the wise invoke you for protection, so do I invoke you, Nasatyas, to drink the Soma: may all our enemies perish.

SUKTA I. (XLIII.)

The deity is Agni; Virupa, of the race of Angiras, is the Rishi: the metre is Gayatri.

1. These repeaters of laudations recite the praises varga XXIX. of the wise creative Agni, the uninterrupted sacrificer.*

2. Agni, Jatavedas, to thee, the liberal offerer (of the oblation), the all-beholding, I repeat earnest praise.

3. Thy fierce flames, Agni, consume the forest, as wild animals destroy (the plants) with their teeth.

4. The consuming smoke-banne red fires, borne by the wind, spread diversely in the firmament.

5. These fires separately kindled are beheld like the tokens of the dawn.

6. Black dust is raised by the feet of Jatavedas varga XXX. when he moves, when Agni spreads § on the earth.

* Astrita-yajvan is more literally "the invincible sacrificer."
† Sāyaṇa more frequently explains pratihary as "to accept, desire."
‡ Arokāḥ is an obscure word. Sāyaṇa explains it as drōchamaṇḍah pasavaḥ, but the Comm. to Satap. Br. iii. 1. 2. 18 explains it as madhye chhidrāṇi. May it mean here "(thy fierce flames) glancing, as it were, through the trees"? Cf. Böhtlingk and Roth, sub voce.
§ Sāyaṇa translates Agnir yad roḍhati kehami, "when Agni heaps (the dry trees) on the ground." Böhtlingk and Roth take roḍhati as from ruh, sc. "whatever grows on the earth;" thus connecting these last words of v. 6 with v. 7.
7. Making the plants his food, Agni devouring them is never satiated, but falls again upon the young (shrubs).

8. Bowing down (the trees) with his tongues (of flame), and blazing with splendour, Agni shines in the forests.

9. Thy station, Agni, is in the waters: thou clingingest to the plants, and becoming their embryo, art born again.

10. Thy lustre, Agni, lambent in the mouth of the ladle, shines when offered from (the oblation of) butter.

Varga XXXI.

11. Let us adore with hymns Agni, the granter (of desires), the eater of the ox, the eater of the marrow, on whose back the libation is poured.

12. We solicit thee, Agni, invoker of the gods, performer of sacred rites,* with oblations and with fuel.

13. Holy Agni, to whom oblations are offered, we worship thee in like manner (as thou hast been worshipped) by Bharigu, by Manus, by Angiras.

14. Thou, Agni, art kindled by Agni; a sage by a sage, a saint by a saint,† a friend by a friend.

15. Do thou, Agni, bestow upon the pious donor (of the oblation) infinite riches and food with male progeny.

16. Agni, (our) brother, who art elicited by strength, who hast red horses, and art (the performer) of pure rites, be propitiated by this my praise.

17. My praises hasten to thee, Agni, as cows enter their stalls (to give milk) to the thirsting calves.

18. To thee,\(^1\) Agni, who art the chief of the Angirasas, all people have severally recourse\(^*\) for the attainment of their desires.

22. Adore that Agni who shines brightly when fed with offerings of butter, who hears this our invocation.

23. We invoke thee, Agni, who art Jatavedas, listening (to our praises), exterminating our foes.

24. I praise this Agni, the sovereign of men, the wonderful, the superintendent of holy acts; may he hear me.

25. We invigorate like a horse that (Agni) whose might is everywhere present; who is noble, strong,† and benevolent.

26. Slaying the malignant, (driving away) our enemies, everywhere consuming the Rakshasas, do thou, Agni, blaze forth with bright (radiance).

7. (I worship) the beloved Agni, the ancient adorable invoker (of the gods), the wise,³ the frequenter of sacrifices.

8. Agni, best of the Angirasas, do thou, continually accepting these our oblations, conduct the sacrifice at the due seasons.

9. Brilliant-flamed giver of good, do thou, the knower, when kindled, bring the host of the gods hither.

10. We solicit the wise invoker (of the gods), the beneficent, the smoke-bannered, the resplendent, the banner of the sacrifices.

² Sāyaṇa here explains ritisvijam as ritau yashtavyam, “he who is to be worshipped in due season;” in v. 22. 2 he explained it as rītusyaṣṭāḍram, “he who offers in due season.”

11. Divine Agni, produced by strength, do thou protect us from the injurer, tear asunder our enemies.

12. The wise Agni, beautifying his body with the ancient hymn, has grown in might through the intelligent hymner.

\(^2\) Swarum, which Sāyaṇa leaves unexplained, is the first shaving or splinter from the sacrificial post; see Indische Stud. ix. p. 222. For its use in the sacrifice, see Kāty. 6, 4, 12; 6, 9, 12.

\(^3\) Ayuddhāla might mean "unopposed," but Sāyaṇa explains it as prāg ayoddhā era, which seems to mean as in the text, though Sāyaṇa explains it differently in i. 32. 6.

7. When Indra, the warrior, goes to battle, desirous of gallant steeds, he is the foremost of the lords of chariots.

8. Thunderer, smite all thy enemies that they may be scattered,—be to us a most abundant benefactor.

9. May Indra, whom no foes can harm, send before us a beautiful chariot for the acquisition (of our desires).

1 Sáma Veda, I. 3. 1. 3. 3.

2 Apsaḥ is elsewhere explained by Sáyana as "personal charms," "teeth," etc. (i. 124. 7), or "beauty" (v. 80. 6); here he explains it as "a beautiful (elephant)." Does he take it as = dantin? Grassmann explains it as meaning the bosom, or rather that part of the dress which covers it; and hence he takes it here as meaning the cloud which covers the earth and the mountains (i.e. Vritra).
abundant treasure, ready to offer, and unharmed (by calamity).

12. (The sacrificer) gives to thy praisers day by day hundreds and thousands of excellent and auspicious gifts.

13. We know thee, Indra, as the conqueror of wealth, the breaker of firm obstacles, the opener, and (guarding from harm) as a house.

14. Wise (Indra), overcomer of enemies, when we solicit thee the barterer, may the drops of the Soma exhilarate thee the exalted one.

15. Grant to us the possessions of that rich man who, through his niggardliness, reviles thee as to thy bestowal of wealth.

16. These friends, effusing the Soma, look on Varga XLV. thee, Indra, as men with their fodder ready (look) on their cattle.

17. We invoke thee here from afar for our protection, who art never deaf, and whose ears are always open to hear.

1 Śāyāṇa explains āḍḍrīṇam as āḍḍārtāram (cf. viii. 24. 4), and seems to connect it with dṛṅ̄hdā ṛṛyjāṁ. It is explained in the St. Petersb. Dict. as “anziehend, reizend,” and by Grässmann as “erschliessend, zugänglich machend.”

2 Pāṇi seems used here as in i. 33. 3, where it is said, “Mighty Indra, bestowing upon us abundant wealth, take not advantage of us, like a dealer,” mā pāṇir bhār asmaṇaḥ adhi, i.e. do not demand from us the strict price of thy gifts. Here Indra is represented as selling them for the offered soma-libations.

3 Sāma Veda, I. 2. 1. 5. 2.
18. If thou hearest this our prayer, then display thy invincible power and be our nearest kinsman.

19. Whenever, repairing to thee in our distress, we offer our praises, attend to us, Indra, as a giver of cattle.

20. Lord of might, we lean on thee as the aged on a staff; we long for thee in the sacrifice.

Varga XLVI. 21. Sing the praise to Indra, who is rich in wealth and bountiful, whom none can stay in battle.

22. When the Soma is effused, I pour out the libation to thee, showerer (of blessings), for thy drinking; satiate thyself, enjoy the exhilarating draught.¹

23. Let not fools, seeking protection, nor mockers trouble thee; favour not the enemies of the Brāhmans.²

24. Let (the worshippers) gladden thee here with the Soma mixed with milk, for the attainment of great wealth; drink it as the buffalo a lake.

25. Proclaim in our assemblies those perpetual and ever new riches which the slayer of Vṛitra sends from afar.

Varga XLVII. 26. Indra drank the Soma offering of Kadru, (he smote the enemies) of the thousand-armed; there did his might shine forth.³

² Brāhmaṇavidhāṅk, which Sāyaṇa explains brāhmaṇāṅkum dvesh-trīṃ. Benfey (Sāma V. Lex.) translates it, “Feind der Frommen.” This and the next verse occur in Sāma V. II. 1. 2. 7. 2, 3.

abl. of Kadrú, the well-known mother of the nágas. Benfey takes the isolated sahasrabdhvós as a Vedic dative without guṇa in the sense of “battle.” He translates the verse, “Der Kadru Trank hat eingeschlürft, Indra zur tausendarmgen Schlacht!” The Sáma Veda reads adadīśṭa for adedīśṭa.

\(^1\) These names are associated in i. 36. 18; 54. 6; 174. 9; and elsewhere. Nothing is known of Ahnavāyya. The St. Petersburg Dict. takes it as an adj. (a+āniva), “nicht zu leugnen, nicht zu beseitigen.” Perhaps the sentence may mean, “he prevailed indisputably in battle.”

\(^2\) Sáma Veda, I. 3. 1. 2. 1.

\(^3\) Go here means “water, rain.”

\(^4\) Sáyaṇa understands this, “do it not, for thou hast done it for us,—only make us happy.” Could it be that the worshipper had a feeling of nemesis? or would he monopolize all?
32. Indra, the least deeds of one like thee are renowned in the earth;¹ may thy care visit me.

33. Thine be those ascriptions of praise, thine those hymns, through which, Indra, thou blessest us.

34. Slay us not for one sin, not for two, not for three; O hero, slay us not for many.

35. I am afraid of one like thee, terrible, the smiter of enemies, the destroyer, who endures hostile attacks.

Varga XLIX. 36. Wealthy (Indra), may I never have to tell thee of the destitution of my friend or my son;² may thy mind be favourable towards me.

38. Showerer (of benefits), when the ready Soma was effused, thou didst devour much, without stint, rushing down like a gamester.⁴

² Sāyaṇa's interpretation of this verse is very obscure, as he explains śūnam by vṛiddham; but the verse is cleared up by his comment on ii. 27. 17, where he explains śūnam as śūnyam, ddridryam, "may I never have to tell a kinsman's destitution to an opulent, kind, and munificent patron."

³ This is said by Indra in answer to vv. 34, 35.

SÚKTA IV. (XLVI.)

Indra is the deity of the first twenty verses, the twenty-ninth, thirtieth, thirty-first, and thirty-third; that of the twenty-first and three following verses is the liberality of Páthu-śravas the son of Kanítra; that of the remaining verses is Váyu:¹ the metre varies; the Rishí is Vasa the son of Aswa.

Varga I.

1. O wealthy Indra, the leader (of rites), we belong to one like thee,² ruler of horses.³

2. Thee, thunderer, we verily know to be the giver of food, thee we know to be the giver of riches.

3. O Śatakraṭu, wielding a hundred protections, whose greatness the worshippers praise with their hymns.

4. Fortunate in sacrifice is that mortal whom the guileless Maruts, whom Aryaman and Mitra, protect.⁴

¹ The schol. on v. 33 remarks that Váyu may be considered the deity of vv. 21–24, since even where the gift is the direct subject, it must be regarded as the result of Váyu's favour.
² Sáyana adds, "since none other is like thee, we are thine."
³ Sáma Veda, I. 2. 2. 5. 9.
⁴ Ibid. I. 3. 1. 2. 3.
5. He who is directed by Āditya ever increases, possessing abundance of kine and horses and vigorous children; he increases in wealth longed for by many.

6. We solicit a gift from this Indra, the displayer varga II. of might, the fearless; we solicit wealth from the lord.

7. In him abide united all secure protections; lord of vast wealth, may his gliding steeds bear him to the expressed Soma juice for his exhilaration.

8. That exhilaration of thine, Indra, which is pre-eminent, which utterly destroys thy enemies, which wins wealth from men, and is invincible in battles;

9. Which is invincible in contests,—O thou desired by all,—well worthy of praise and the deliverer (from enemies); come to our oblations, most mighty one, giver of dwellings; may we obtain a stall full of kine.

10. Lord of wealth, visit us as of old, to give us cows, horses, and chariots.

11. Verily, hero, I find no limit to thy wealth; varga III. O Maghavan, the thunderer, bestow (thy gifts) quickly upon us, and bless our offerings with (abundant) food.

12. The graceful Indra, whose friends extol

1 Sāyāṇa says that this may also refer to the troops of the Maruts who accompany Indra.
2 Sāyāṇa explains nrijibhiḥ by satrubhyāḥ, “from thy foes.”
3 Sāyāṇa explains tarutṛi in viii. 1. 28 by jetṛi.

13. May \textit{Maghavan}, the wealthy, the slayer of \textit{Vṛitra}, stand before us as our defender in battles.

14. At\(^2\) the time of the exhilaration of the \textit{Soma}, sing, according to your hymns, with a loud voice, your\(^3\) wise hero \textit{Indra}, the humbler of enemies, the strong, the ever worthy to be praised.

15. (\textit{Indra}), invoked by many, speedily\(^4\) give me wealth; give riches, give abundance of food in battle.

\textit{Varga IV.}

16. (We praise thee), the lord of all riches, the subduer of this obstructor waging (attacks), — speedily give us abundant\(^5\) (wealth).

17. I desire the coming of thee, the mighty one;

\(^1\) Sāyaṇa takes \textit{viswo mānushāḥ} as “all the priests, adhwaryus, etc., associated with men,” \textit{sarve 'py adhwaryveddayo manushya-sambandhinaḥ.}

\(^2\) Sāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 3. 3.

\(^3\) Sāyaṇa takes \textit{vah} as \textit{yūyam}, or as \textit{yukhmākaṁ hildya}. \textit{Vacho yathā} he explains as “in the gāyatri or trīṣṭubh metre.” Benfey translates it, “im wahren Sinne des Worts.” Nāma Sāyaṇa explains, but apparently without any necessity, \textit{satrūṣṭamu nāmakam}, cf. Benfey’s Gloss. \textit{vṛishanāman}. The St. Petersburg Dict. takes it as simply “freilich, gerade.”

\(^4\) It is curious that Sāyaṇa seems to have misread the \textit{atha} of the text for \textit{adya}.

\(^5\) Here again Sāyaṇa seems to read \textit{adydpi} or \textit{apyadya} for \textit{atyatha}. \textit{Aṭi} should however be connected with the obscure word \textit{kṛipyataḥ}.

\(^1\) Sāyaṇa explains viśvamanushāṁ marutāṁ iyakṣaśi as etair iyyase marutāṁ sambandhi twam. But it would be better to render it, “thou showest favour to all men and the Maruts” (cf. vi. 49. 4), or “to the Maruts who are known to all men.”

\(^2\) Sāyaṇa generally explains ajman by gamanam (as in i. 166. 5) or sangráma (as in i. 112. 17); here he explains it balair balakarair udakaiḥ. Here it seems impossible to resist comparing Virgil’s “immensum ocelo venit agmen aquarum.”

\(^3\) Chodayanmate is explained by Sāyaṇa as āhanam prerayanti matir yasya, “thou whose mind sends wealth to his worshipper.” In v. 8. 6 it is applied to the eye, and he there explains it, “having the mind as its instigator.” Böhtlingk and Roth compare v. 43. 9, and translate it, “die Andachtsleitend, fördernd.”

1 Two of the epithets in this verse, bhujyum and púreyam, are applied in viii. 22. 2 to the chariot of the Aświns; and púreyam is there explained by Sáyunā as "going before (in battle)," and bhujyum as "the preserver of all."

2 This verse is supposed to be spoken by Aśwa or his friends. Sáyunā explains īvat as usual by gamanavad, gavādilakhaṇam, and púrlam as pūrtam; but Böhtlingk and Roth take īvat as = iyat, "such, so great," and púrlam in its sense of "pious works."

3 Kaníta is also explained by Sáyunā as "the son of a maiden," kanyadyāḥ putraḥ.

4 Sáyunā says, "having the head, back, and sides white (or bright);" he also omits one dāsa in his explanation.—This and the two following stanzas are spoken by Vása.

5 Sáyunā explains vitavāḍasah as krāntabāḍaḥ prāptabāḍaḥ vā; but it rather means "having sleek tails."
śravas, the son of kanīta; he, bestowing a golden chariot, has proved himself most liberal and wise, he has won most abundant fame."

25. Come to us, vāyu, to bestow great wealth and glorious strength; we have offered (libations) to thee the giver of abundant (wealth), we have offered immediately to thee the giver of great (gifts).

26. He who is borne on horses and surrounds varga vi. himself with thrice seven times seventy cows,—he comes to thee with these soma-libations and soma-priests, to offer to thee, drinker of the soma, drinker of the bright pure soma.

27. He who of his own will has been pleased to give me this honoured gift,—he, performer of good works, (has determined) on a pre-eminently good action, amidst aradvā, aksha, nahusha, and sukritwan.¹

28. He who is self-resplendent in his glorious body,³ who is bright, o vāyu, like ghee, has given me this food, brought by horses, brought by camels,⁴ brought by dogs.

29. I have now received (a gift) dear to the beneficent king, sixty thousand bulls vigorous like horses.

² These are either the officers of prithuśravas or other kings.
³ Sāyaṇa gives an alternative, "he who is lord over (the kings) Uchathya and Vapus."
⁴ The Schol. says that rajas means a camel or an ass.
30. As the cows to the herd, so repair the oxen; so the oxen repair to me.

31. Since, when the herd were wandering (to the wood), he called a hundred camels (to give them to me), and two thousand from among the white herds (of cows),

32. I, the sage, accept the hundred from the slave Balbútha, the cowherd;¹ we here are thine, O Váyu,—those who have Indra and the gods for protectors rejoice (through thy favour).

33. This tall maiden, adorned with gold, is led towards me, Vása, the son of Āswa.

Súkta V. (XLVII.)

The Adityas are the deities, in the last five verses they are associated with Usñas: the metre is Mahópankta; the Rishi is Trīta Aptya (cf. note on v. 13).

Varga VII. 1. Mitra and Varuṇa, ye are great, and great is your protection to the offerer; no evil, Adityas, harms him whom ye guard from the injurer; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

2. Divine Adityas, ye know the averting of evils; as birds (spread) their wings over (their) young, grant us happiness; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

3. Grant us that happiness of yours, as birds

(spread) their wings; O ye possessed of all wealth, we solicit all riches suitable for our dwelling; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

4. To whomsoever these wise Adityas grant a dwelling and the means of life, (for him) they master the wealth of every man;¹ your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

5. May our sins avoid us as charioteers inaccessible places; may we abide in Indra's happiness and in the protection of the Adityas; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

6. Only by painful means² does a living man³ Varga VIII. obtain the wealth which you bestow; but he whom you, divine Adityas, visit, wins great (riches); your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

7. Him fierce wrath⁴ touches not, nor heavy (calamity), to whom, Adityas, you have given great⁵

² Sc. by penance, religious observances, etc.
³ Sāyaṇa explains and as pṛāṇa-yuktā, "endowed with life," just as in iv. 30. 3 he explained it pṛāṇa-ṛṣṭeṇa balena; but it seems better to take it in both places as the particle "certainly." Might we translate the line, "verily men succumb through the loss of the wealth given by you"? In the second line Sāyaṇa unites dṣa vaḥ into one word, dṣavaḥ, "swiftly moving."
⁴ I have taken tigmam as agreeing with the neuter tyajat. Sāyaṇa makes it agree with tam, and translates the sentence, "him though fierce (or harsh) wrath touches not."
happiness; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

8. Deities, may we abide in you as warriors in their armour; do you defend us from great evil, do you defend us from little; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

9. May Aditi defend us, may Aditi grant us happiness, the mother of the wealthy Mitra, Aryaman, and Varuna; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

10. Grant to us, deities, that happiness which is a refuge, auspicious, and free from sickness, which is threefold and fit for a (secure) shelter; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

Varga IX. 11. Adityas, look down upon us as those who look from the shore; as (men lead) their horses to a secure Ghat, so conduct us along a good path; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

12. Let there not be prosperity here to our powerful (foe), nor to him who threatens or assails

1 This phrase tridhatu is explained by Sāyaṇa’s note on varūthyā in vi. 67. 2, and trivāratuha in viii. 18. 21, as protecting against cold, heat, and wind or wet.

2 Sāyaṇa takes spaṣṭaḥ as for spaṣṭaḥ, “visible.” It is derived from the lost root spaṣ “to see,” preserved in common Sanskrit in the words spaṣa “a spy,” and spaṣṭa, and the mutilated pasaṇa, cf. -spicio and σπέττωμαι. Sāyaṇa explains the image “as a man standing on the shore looks down on the water below or on some one in it.”
us;¹ but let there be prosperity to our cattle, our milk kine, and our male offspring desirous of food; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

13. Deities, whatever evil is manifest, whatever is concealed, (let it be not found) in TRITA ÁPTYA, keep it far from us;² your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

14. Daughter of heaven, (Ushas), whatever ill-omened dream threatens our cattle or ourselves, keep it, O brilliant one, far from TRITA ÁPTYA;³ your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

15. Daughter of heaven, whatever ill-omened dream threatens TRITA ÁPTYA,⁴ we transfer it to the worker of gold ornaments or to the maker of

¹ Rather, "neither to threaten nor to assail us."
² Sāyāna necessarily interprets the line in this way, as he holds that TRITA ÁPTYA is the Rishi of the hymn. Prof. Roth no doubt gives the true meaning when he says that TRITA ÁPTYA was a deity dwelling in remote distance, and consequently evil was sought to be transferred to him, cf. Atharva V. xix. 56. 4. He would render it, "keep it far from us in TRITA ÁPTYA." See Dr. Muir's Sanskrit Texts, vol. v. p. 336.
³ Here the dative TRITÁYA ÁPTÁYA might suggest the more appropriate rendering, "keep it far away for TRITA ÁPTYA." vv. 14-15 are prescribed in Áśvaláyana's Gṛihya Sūtras to be recited after an unpleasant dream.
⁴ It is singular that here Sāyāna gives an alternative interpretation, agreeing with Prof. Roth's explanation of stt. 13, 14, "whatever evil dream threatens the worker of gold ornaments or the maker of garlands, that evil, abiding in TRITA ÁPTYA (or the son of the waters), we TRITAS throw off from ourselves." This seems to mean, "we throw it off on TRITA ÁPTYA."
garlands: your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

Varga X. 16. Ushas, bear (elsewhere) the ill-omened dream\(^1\) for Trita and Dwita,\(^2\) who eat and do (in dreams) that (which is eaten and done amiss when awake) and who obtain that (inauspicious) portion; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

17. \(^3\)As (in the sacrifice) we put severally together the proper parts and the hoofs, and as we discharge a debt, so we transfer all the ill-omened dream that rests on Áptya;\(^4\) your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

18. May we be to-day victorious, and obtain (happiness); may we be free from evil; Ushas, may that ill dream depart, of which we were afraid; your aids are void of harm, your aids are true aids.

\(^1\) i.e. let the eating of honey, etc., perceived in a dream, produce happiness as in a waking state.

\(^2\) Here Sáyána has only the proper interpretation. For Dwita cf. Sat. Bráhmaṇa, i. 2. 3. 1.

\(^3\) Sáyána's explanation is, "as in the sacrifice they place together the kaldé, sc. the heart, etc., as fit to be cut to pieces, and the sapha, sc. the hoof, bones, etc., as unfit." He also proposes another explanation, in which the kaldé is the sapha or "hoof." But the words sapha and kaldé occur together in the Taitt. Sanhitá, vi. 1. 10, where the process of buying the Soma is described; and Sáyána there takes sapha as the eighth part of a cow, and kaldé as a very small portion.

\(^4\) Or we may take it, "we transfer all the ill-omened dream to Áptya."
Sukta VI. (XLVIII.)
The deity is Soma; the Rishi is Pragātha, the son of Kanwa; the metre is Tristubh, with the exception of v. 5, which is Jagati.

1. May I, the wise and devout, enjoy the delicious, abundantly honoured Soma food, which all gods and mortals, pronouncing sweet, seek to obtain.

2. Thou enterest within, and, unimpaired, thou avertest the anger of the gods; Soma, enjoying the friendship of Indra, mayest thou bring us to wealth as a swift (horse) its burden.

3. We drink the Soma, may we become immortal; we have attained the light (of heaven), we have known the gods; what now should the enemy do to us, or what, O immortal, should the aggriever do to the mortal?

4. O Soma, drunk by us, be bliss to our hearts, as a father is indulgent to a son or a friend to a friend; O Soma, worthy of wide praise, do thou, wise one, extend our years that we may live.

5. May these glory-conferring protecting Soma-streams knit together my joints as cows draw together a chariot falling in pieces; may they keep Varga XII.  6. Soma, kindle me like the fire ignited by attrition, brighten (our eyes) and make us rich; I praise thee now for exhilaration; come now, full of wealth, to nourish us.

7. May we partake of thee, effused, with a longing² mind as (men enjoy) paternal wealth; King Soma, prolong our lives, as the sun the world-establishing³ days.

8. King Soma, bless us for our welfare; we worshipers are thine, do thou recognize it; the enemy goes strong and fierce, O Soma; give us not over to him as he desires.

9. O Soma, thou art the guardian of our bodies, thou dwellest in each limb as the beholder of men;⁴ though we impair thy rites, yet, divine one, bless us, thou who art possessed of most excellent food and good friends.⁵

³ Sáyaña derives vāsara from vas, “to dwell” or “to clothe” (cf. viii. 6, 30), but it no doubt comes from vas, “to shine,” i.e. the shining days.
⁴ Sáyaña qualifies nyichakhaṇas as karaṇa-netṛṇam dṛṣṭāḥ, “the beholder of the performers of rites.”
⁵ Sáyaña, in vii. 32, 19, explains vasyaḥ as prāsasyaḥ.
10. May I obtain a wholesome friend who, when quaffed, will not harm me, O lord of bay horses; I ask of Indra a long permanence for this Soma which has been placed within us.

11. May those irremovable sicknesses depart; let Varga XIII. those strong (pains) which have made us tremble, be afraid; the mighty Soma has climbed into us,—we have attained that (draught) by which men prolong life.

12. That Soma which, drunk into our hearts, has entered, immortal, into us mortals,—to him, fathers, let us do worship with oblations; may we abide in his bliss and favour.

13. Soma, thou in conjunction with the fathers didst stretch out successively heaven and earth,—to thee let us do worship with oblations, may we be lords of wealth.

14. Guardian gods, speak favourably to us; let not dreams nor the censurer overpower us; may we be ever dear to Soma; possessed of brave offspring, may we utter our hymn.

15. Thou, Soma, givest us food from every side; thou art the bestower of heaven; enter us, beholder of men; O Soma, rejoicing with thy protecting powers, guard us from behind and before.

1 This st. occurs in Taitt. Sanh. ii. 2. 12, but with achchha for dyuḥ. Sāyana there explains pratiram as an epithet of Indra, as prakarṣheṣa vamandpadam tārayīḍram. The Scholiast adds, there is nothing contradictory in the praise of Indra occurring in a hymn especially addressed to the Soma, since Indra is the lord of the Soma.

SÚKTA I. (IX.)

The deity is Agni; the Rishi is Bharata the son of Pragátha; the metre is Prágyátha.

1. Agni, come hither with the fires, we choose thee as our invoking priest; let the presented offering anoint thee, the chief sacrificer, to sit down on the sacred grass.

1 Sáyaña, as often elsewhere (cf. i. 84. 20), understands by utayaḥ the Maruts as gantdṛaḥ ava gatau.

2 The MSS. of the Rig-Veda insert between the last hymn and the present one the eleven apparently spurious hymns called the Válakhilya, containing vargas xiv.—xxxii. They are not reckoned in the division by Manḍalas and Anuvákas (thns Sáyaña says, p. 614, "there are six súktas in the sixth Anuváka"), but they are included in that by Ashṭakas and Adhyáyas, and in the Sarvánuukrama. Professor Aunreacht has omitted them in his edition of the Rig-Veda, and given them in the Appendix; and Sáyaña takes no notice of them in his commentary. I have omitted them in my translation, just as Professor Wilson omitted the various Khilas in the previous Manḍalas; but it is important to bear in mind that they are never included in the collections of Parisiśṭhas and Khilas (see Professor Müller’s translation, vol. i. p. xxxiv). I propose to attempt a translation of these hymns in the Appendix.

2 Sáma Veda, II. 7. 2. 7. 1.
2. Angiras, son of strength, the ladles go to find thee in the sacrifice; we praise the ancient Agni in our offerings, the grandson of food, butter-haired.\(^1\)

3. Agni, thou, wise, art the creator (of consequences); O purifier, thou art the invoking priest, worthy of worship; bright one, thou art to be praised in our sacrifices by the priests with hymns, thyself the chief ministrant worthy to be rejoiced in.

4. Most youthful, eternal one, bring the longing gods to me guileless, to eat (the oblation); giver of dwellings, approach the well-placed food; rejoice, being set in thy place with praises.

5. Deliverer Agni, thou, the truthful and the seer, art widely spread; O kindled blazing one, the wise praisers wait on thee.\(^2\)

6. Most resplendent (Agni), shine forth and illumine (us); give happiness to thy people, to thy worshipper, for thou art great; may my priests\(^3\) abide in the bliss of the gods, subduing their enemies, possessing bright fires.

7. As, Agni, thou consumest old timber on the earth, so, cherisher of friends, do thou burn our injurer, whosoever evil-minded wishes (our ill).

8. Subject us not to a strong mortal enemy, nor

\(^1\) Similarly Agni is called ghritapriṅṭha, "butter-backed," in v. 4, 3. The pradīpta-kalasa-sthāniya-jvodha of Sāyana seems to be a misrecognition for pradīpta-keṣa-, cf. v. 37, 1.

\(^2\) Sāma Veda, I. 1. 1. 4. 8.

\(^3\) Sāyana explains suraṇaḥ by stotro medhāvīnaha, asmākam putrādāya ed, hymners or sons, etc. to the malevolent; O most youthful, guard us with thy unharming, delivering, auspicious protections.

9. Agni, protect us by one (rich), or protect us by a second; lord of strength, protect us by three songs; protect us, giver of dwellings, by four.¹

10. Protect us from every impious Rákshasa, shield us in battles; we approach thee, our nearest neighbour, our kinsman, for sacrifice and for increase.²

11. Purifying Agni, bestow upon us food-augmenting excellent wealth; and (bring) us, O meter-out of good, by auspicious guidance, (a treasure) desired by many and bringing its own fame,³

12. By which we may escape and destroy in battles our impetuous weapon-aiming enemies; O thou who by wisdom establishest our rites, bless us with food, prosper our wealth-obtaining offerings.

13. Agni tosses his horns, sharpening them as a bull;⁴ his sharp jaws are not to be resisted;⁵ he is mighty-toothed, this son of strength.

14. Since thou spreadest out on all sides, thy teeth, bull Agni, are not to be resisted; O offerer, ¹ This v. occurs in Sáma Veda, I. 1. 1. 4. 2; II. 7. 2. 4. 1; and in Yajur Veda, xxvii. 43. In the latter, Mahidhara explains the four as the Rich, Yajus, Sáman, and Nigada.

³ Sáma Veda, II. 7. 2. 4. 2.

⁴ Ibid. I. 1. 1. 4. 9.

⁵ Cf. Virgil, Georg. iii. 232.

⁶ Sáyana in his Comm. curiously takes na twice, once as = iva (hanava iva), and then again with pratidhrishe.
do thou make our oblation rightly presented; give us many precious (gifts).

15. Thou sleepest within thy mothers in the woods, mortals kindle thee; unwearied thou bearest the offerings of the sacrificer, then thou shinest among the gods.

16. The seven priests praise thee, Agni, giver of good things and unfailing; thou cleavest the cloud with thy fierce splendour; go forth, having overcome our enemies.

17. Now that we have cut the sacred grass, let us invoke for you Agni, Agni the irresistible; having placed the oblations, let us invoke Agni, abiding in many (places), the offerer of sacrifices for men.

18. (The sacrificer) worships thee by praises, Agni, with the experienced (priests) in the rite celebrated with beautiful Sáman hymns; bring us of thine own accord for our protection food of various kinds which may be always in our reach.

19. Divine Agni, worthy of praise, thou art

1 This refers to the two arapis or pieces of wood from which the sacrificial fire is produced by attrition. Cf. iii. 29. 2.
2 Sáma Veda, I. 1. 1. 5. 2.
3 Sáyaña gives another interpretation, taking janán not as asmad-virodhi-janán but asmán, "proceed to the gods with the oblation, having left us behind."
4 Addressed to the sacrificers or to the gods.
5 When Agni is satisfied, living beings obtain their desires by the rain which he causes. Cf. Manu, iii. 76.
6 Jaritri usually means "the singer of praises,"—here, as applied to Agni, it is explained by Sáyaña as stutya.
the guardian of men, the consumer of the Rákshasas; thou art great, thou the never-absent guardian of the (worshipper's) house, the protector of heaven, ever present in the dwelling.¹

20. O thou of brilliant wealth, let not the Rákshasa enter us, nor the torment of the evil spirits; Agni, drive away further than a gavyúti² from us poverty, hunger,³ and the strong demons.

Śūkta II. (LXI.)

The Ṛishi and metre are the same; the deity is Indra.

VARGA XXXVI. 1. May Indra listen to both these our hymns;⁴ may the mightiest Maghavan come to us, (pleased) with our devoted offering, to drink the Soma.⁵

2. Him, self-resplendent, have heaven and earth formed as the showerer, him (they have formed) for strength; therefore thou sittest down first of thy peers; thy mind loves the Soma.⁶

3. Indra, possessor of much wealth, pour the effused Soma within thee; possessor of (bright) coursers, we know thee, the over-powerer in battles, the unconquerable, the conqueror.

³ Sāyaṇa explains kshudham unnecessarily as kshapayitāram, "the destroyer."
⁴ i.e. whether recited (śastra) or sung praises (stotra).
⁵ Śāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 5. 8; II. 5. 1. 14. 1. (Satrāchyd dhiyād should rather mean, "come to us with thy whole mind," cf. viii. 2. 37.)

4. Indra, Maghavan of unbroken truth, it ever comes to pass as thou in thy knowledge may'st desire; by thy protection, O handsome-jawed, may we obtain food, speedily, O thunderer, subduing our enemies.

5. Indra, lord of rites, give us (our desire) with all thy helping powers;¹ hero, we worship thee as happiness, the glorious, the obtainer of wealth.²

6. Thou art the increaser of horses, the multiplier of cows; thou, deity, with thy golden body art a very fountain; none can harm the gifts laid up for me in thee; bring me whatever I ask.³

7. Thou art (bounteous), come; may'st thou obtain wealth to distribute to the worshipper;⁴ shower thy bounty, Maghavan, on me desiring cows, shower it, Indra, on me desiring horses.

8. Thou grantest many hundreds and thousands of herds as a gift (to the offerer). Uttering long praises,⁵ we, hymning Indra, the destroyer of cities, bring him before us for our protection.⁶

² Sāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 2. 1; II. 7. 3. 3. 1.
³ Sāma Veda, II. 7. 3. 2. 2.
⁴ Sāyaṇa's text leaves cherava in the first line unexplained. In the Sāma Veda Comm. it is explained chetayitre, which (like medhāvin) probably only means "the worshipper." The St. Petersburg Dictionary gives it as "begehend (ein heiliges Werk)."—Sāma Veda, I. 3. 1. 5. 8; II. 7. 3. 4. 1.
⁵ Benfey takes vipravachas as "Lieder der Lobsänger habend."
⁶ Sāma Veda, II. 7. 3. 4. 2.
9. INDRA, whether it be the unskilled or the skilled who celebrates thy praise, each rejoices in his desire for thee, O ŚATAKRATU, whose wrath presses ever forwards, who meetest the foe, proclaiming "it is I."

10. If the strong-armed slayer of enemies, the destroyer of cities, will but hear my invocation, we, desiring wealth, will with our praises call on INDRA ŚATAKRATU, the lord of wealth.

11. We are not evil who worship him,\(^1\) nor too poor to offer gifts, nor destitute of sacred fires,—since assembled together, when the Soma is effused, we make INDRA, the showerer, our friend.

12. We join (to our rite) the mighty INDRA, the subduer of enemies in battles, the inviolate, him to whom praise is due as a debt; he, the best of charioteers, knows (among steeds) the strong racer, and (among men) he, the bounteous, (knows) the offerer whom he is to reach.\(^2\)

13. INDRA, give us security from him of whom we are afraid; MAGHAVAN, be strong for us with thy protections; destroy our enemies, destroy those who harm us.\(^3\)

\(^1\) Sāyaṇa takes mandmahe as a transitive verb, cf. v. 6. 1; more probably it means "to appear,"—"we do not appear evil," etc.

\(^2\) Sāyaṇa’s explanation of this verse is obscure; he seems to take ādjinam twice over, with a difference in meaning in each clause. I have supposed that veda is to be repeated in the second clause; but this is doubtful.

\(^3\) Sāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 4. 2; II. 5. 2. 15. 1 (with ūtaye for ūtibhiḥ).
14. Lord of wealth, thou art (the bestower) of great wealth and a dwelling-place upon thy worshipper; as such, we invoke thee, bearing the Soma, O Maghavan, Indra, who art to be honoured with hymns.¹

15. Indra, the all-knover, the slayer of Vritra, the protector, is to be chosen by us; may he guard our (son), our last (son), our middle (son), may he protect us from behind and before.

16. Indra, protect us from the west,² from the south, from the north, from the east, protect us from every side; keep far from us supernatural alarm, keep far the weapons of the demons.

17. Save us, Indra, every to-day, every to-morrow, and every succeeding day; lord of the good, protect us, thy praisers, in all days, by day and by night.

18. Maghavan is the shatterer, the hero, great in wealth, and the conductor to victory³ (over our enemies). Satakramu, both thy arms, which grasp the thunderbolt, are the showerers (of blessings).⁴

² Sāyaṇa in vi. 19. 9 explained the four terms in the text as referring to the four quarters; here his Comm. makes them refer to the six directions in space, “protect us from the west, from the east, from below (this includes the upper direction), from the north (this includes the south).”
³ Sāyaṇa’s interpretation of śamipilo vīrydyā (samyaṁmiprayito patrūndm vīryakāraydya) may, perhaps, mean, “bringing us into successful collision with our enemies,” cf. his Comm. on Sāma V. i. 3. 2. 5. 7. The text more probably means, “mingling, or associated, with us to display his might.”
⁴ This and the previous verse occur in Sāma Veda, II. 6. 3. 7. 1, 2.
Sûkta III. (LXII.)

The deity is Indra; the Rishi is Pragâtha of the Kaûwa family; the metre Pankti, except in the seventh, eighth, and ninth verses, where it is Brihati.

Varga XL.

1. Present the offering of praise to Indra, since he enjoys it; (the priests) augment the ample food of the Soma-loving Indra with their recited hymns; Indra’s gifts are worthy of praise.

2. Without a fellow and unlike the other gods,1 he alone, unconquerable, surpasses the men of former times, he surpasses in might all beings; Indra’s gifts are worthy of praise.

3. He, the swift giver, wishes to bestow blessings (upon us) with his unurged courser; thy greatness, Indra, as thou art about to display thy powers, should be proclaimed; Indra’s gifts are worthy of praise.

4. Indra, come hither; let us perform for thee our sacred rites augmenting thy vigour; by which (rites), most mighty one, thou desirest to bless him who wishes for food; Indra’s gifts are worthy of praise.

5. Thou hast made thy mind, Indra, more resolute than the resolute, since thou (wishest to give the desires) of him who worships thee with the intoxicating Soma-juices and adorns thee with adorations; Indra's gifts are worthy of praise.

6. Indra, who is well-deserving of the hymn, looks down (with favour) upon us as a (thirsty) man (looks down) on wells; and being well-pleased he makes the energetic Soma-offerer his friend; Indra's gifts are worthy of praise.

7. Indra, by the example of thy power and knower Varga XLI.ledge the gods attain the same; O hymned by many, thou art the herdsman of the universe; Indra's gifts are worthy of praise.

8. Indra, I laud that might of thine which is near at hand to the worshipper,—(I laud thee) that thou slewest Vritra, O lord of rites, by thy strength; Indra's gifts are worthy of praise.

9. As a woman who shows no partiality wins her

1 Sāyaṇa takes yujam as dīmadnam; but the line rather means "he makes the skilled Soma-offerer's friend his friend."—Another interpretation is that he makes the Soma the friend of the worshipper.

2 Sāyaṇa takes gopati as "lord of waters" or "of hymns"; but in viii. 69. 4 he seems to adopt the common meaning. He would explain the construction of viṇḍavasya as if it characterized the go of gopatiḥ.

3 Śāma Veda, I. 5. 1. 1 (with upamāṃ).

4 Or, "for the sake of the offering."

5 Sāyaṇa takes samand as samānanamānaskā yoshit, and explains yugd as "years, half-years, seasons, months," etc.; but the explanation utterly breaks down. Prof. Roth explains the first line, "er macht die Menschen zu einem bewundernden Zuschauerkreis, d. h. zieht aller Augen auf sich."

10. Mahavâna, rich in cattle, (those who abide) in thy happiness have greatly augmented thy might when it was born, (they have greatly augmented) thee, Indra, and thy knowledge; Indra's gifts are worthy of praise.

11. May I and thou, slayer of Vritra, be closely united until wealth is obtained; hero, wielding the thunderbolt, even the niggard concedes (that our union gives wealth); Indra's gifts are worthy of praise.

12. Let us praise that Indra with truth, not with untruth, great is the destruction of him who offers not; but to him who offers abundant Soma-oblations, Indra's gifts are worthy of praise.²

² Said merely says, "to him who offers abundant Soma-oblations (bhûri jyotinshi) great is the favour conferred by Indra." I have ventured to connect it with the last clause, as Sâyaña does not explain this recurring burden. A more natural explanation would be, "to him who offers the Soma great are the blessings (bhûri jyotinshi)."
Sūkta IV. (LXIII.)

Indra is the deity, except in the last verse, which is addressed to the Devas; the Rishi as before; the metre of the first, fourth, fifth, and seventh verses is Anushūh; of the second, third, sixth, eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh is Gāyatrī, and of the twelfth Trishtubh.

1. He, (Indra), the chief of those to be honoured, Varga XLII. desirous of our offerings, approaches; he, the doors of whose favour, the sacred rites, Manu, the (universal) father, attained among the gods.¹

2. May the stones which press out the Soma never forsake Indra, the maker of heaven, nor the praises and hymns which are to be uttered.

3. He, the wise Indra, discovered the cows² to the Angirasas; I glorify that his might.

4. As in former times, so now too is Indra the blesser of the worshipper and the bearer of him who praises him; may he come among us auspicious for our protection at the oblation of the Soma.

5. Forthwith, Indra, as they offer to Agni the lord of Swāhā,³ the singers successively praise thy deeds, for the attainment of wealth.

6. In that Indra, whom the singers know as the unharthing, all past and future powers abide.

² When carried off by the Pañis, see i. 6. 5; i. 11. 5.

³ i.e. as they make the oblation to thee in the fire.
7. When praises are addressed to INDRA by the men of the five classes, he destroys their enemies by his might; he, the lord, is the abode of the worshipper’s homage.

8. This praise is thine, for thou hast achieved those exploits; thou hast guarded the road of our chariot-wheel (to the sacrificial rite).

9. When the various sustenance, given by INDRA, the showerer, is obtained, all men step out with wide strides for (dear) life; they receive it as cattle barley.

10. Presenting our praise, and desiring protection, may we with you (O priests) be lords of food, to offer sacrifice to (INDRA) attended by the Maruts.

11. Hero, by our hymns we offer praise to thee, who appearest at the time of sacrifice, and wearest auspicious splendour; with thee as our ally may we conquer (our enemies).

12. The Rudras, the showering clouds, and (INDRA) who rejoices with us in the battle-challenge which brings Vritra’s destruction, and who comes in his might to the reciter and singer of his praises,—may these gods, with INDRA at their head, protect us.¹

¹ Sāyana gives an alternative explanation of the first part of this verse, “May the showering mountain-like (or ‘filling,’ ‘gratifying’) Maruts, the sons of Rudra, allies in the battle-challenge which brings Vritra’s destruction.” This verse also occurs in Yajur Veda, xxxiii. 50, but Mahādharma’s Commentary differs widely from Sāyana’s. “May the gods who shower
Śūkta V. (LXIV.)

The Rishi is the same; the deity is Indra; the metre is Gāyatrī.

1. May our praises exhilarate thee; thunderer, Varga XLIV. make food for us, destroy the haters of the Brahmans.¹

2. Crush with thy foot the Pānis who offer no oblations; thou art mighty; there is none seer like unto thee.

3. Thou, Indra, art the lord of the Soma effused or not effused, thou art the king of all men.²

4. Come hither, come forth from heaven to our dwelling, shouting for the sake of men;³ thou fillest both heaven and earth.⁴

wealth upon us, the Rudras, and those who have stated festivals (parvatāḥ), who are unanimous in the battle-challenge for the destruction of Vritra,—may these gods with Indra at their head protect us and him who recites or mutters the praises, or, having accumulated wealth, offers oblations.” The St. Petersburg Dict. translates the clause yaḥ śaṃsate sthūvate dhāyi paja Indrajyes̄hā asmīn acantu devāḥ, in pretty close agreement with Sāyāna’s interpretation as followed in the text. “Die Götter mit Indra an der Spitze, der zu Gunsten des Anruftenden und Lobenden sich feist macht (oder ‘feist’ d. h. ‘kräftig ist,’) mögen uns gnädig sein.”

² Verses 2, 3 occur in Śāma Veda, II. 6. 1. 3. 2, 3.
³ Another interpretation is, “Come hither, and (having accepted the oblation) proceed gladly, praising the sacrificer (sc. divi for divam).
⁴ Sāyāna adds, “with splendour or with rain.”
5. Do thou burst, for thy worshippers, the gnarled cloud with its hundreds and thousands of showers.

6. We invoke thee when the Soma is effused by day, we invoke thee by night; fulfil our desire.

Varga XLV. 7. Where is that ever-youthful showerer, strong-necked and bowing to none? what hymner worships thee?

8. To whose offering does the showerer come down pleased? who can praise Indra?

9. In what character, O slayer of Vṛitra, do the sacrificial offerings honour thee, or the brave praises in the hymn? Who is nearest (in time of battle)?

10. For thee is this Soma effused among men by me of mortal race; draw near, hasten, drink it.

11. This is thy beloved most exhilarating Soma which grows in the Śaryanāvat Lake by the Sushomā river in the Arjūtiya country.

---

1 Parvata and giri both mean "cloud" as well as "mountain"; but as the former is a yogarūḍha pada (i.e. a compound term whose parts, when it is analyzed, have the same meaning as the whole), it is here taken in its analyzed sense as parvavat, "having knots," "gnarled."

2 So Śāyaṇa, but usually vriśabha means "a bull." For tuvigriva, cf. i. 187. 5.

3 Sāma Veda, I. 2. 1. 5. 8.

4 Śāyaṇa takes it thus, adding yuddhe to ka u evid antamaḥ. But it would have seemed more natural to connect these words with the preceding pasṭre.

5 Śāyaṇa explains mānuṣha jana by mayi (but cf. i. 48. 11), and pūrṇah by manushyasu mādhye or Purundmasu rājasu.

6 Cf. viii. 7. 29.—Śāyaṇa seems to have read adhi pṛitah for adhi priyāḥ; he places this lake in the back part of Kurukṣetra.

7 Śāyaṇa adds that the Soma thus grows in a very distant
12. Come to-day, Indra, hasten, drink this grateful Soma for our great wealth, and for thine own foe-crushing exultation.

The deity, the Rishi, and the metre the same.

2. Whether thou rejoicest in the ambrosia-fountain of heaven, or in some other heavenward-leading sacrifice (on earth), or in the ocean-like firmament of the waters;

3. Indra, by my praises I invoke thee, great and strong one, to drink the Soma, as a bull to eat (his fodder).

4. Let thy steeds, Indra, bearing thee in thy chariot, bring hither thy might, (may they bring hither) thy splendour, O divine one.

country (scil. to one in the South of India). According to Yāska, Nirukta, ix. 26, Arjukya is a name of the Vipāsa; see Professor Roth's Lit. and Hist. of the Veda, pp. 137-140.

1 Sāyaṇa explains chāru as charanaśila, “quickly moving;” but in ix. 61. 9 he explains it as kalyaṇa-svarūpa.

2 Sāyaṇa takes ghṛishvi as ātrāṇām gharaṇaśila; it more probably means “lively,” “vehement.”

3 The first part of this verse occurs in Śāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 4. 7; II. 5. 1. 13. 1.

4 Andhas properly means “food;” according to Sāyaṇa it here implies water as the cause of food. Yadeva samudra andhasas might mean, “or in the Soma-vat.”
5. Indra, thou art invoked, thou art praised, the great, the strong, the wielder of sovereignty; come hither and drink our libation.

6. Bearing the effused Soma and the sacrificial food, we invoke thee, Indra, to sit on our sacred grass.

7. Because thou art common to many worshippers, therefore, Indra, we invoke thee.\(^1\)

8. The priests have milked for thee with their stones this nectar of the Soma; drink it, Indra, well pleased.

9. Do thou, the lord, pass by all other worshippers and come quickly to us, and bestow on us abundant food.\(^3\)

10. May (Indra) the king give me cows adorned with gold; O gods, let not Maghavan be harmed.

11. Upon a thousand cows I obtain gold,\(^3\) abundant, delightful, wide-spread, and pure.

12. Plunged as I am in sorrow, my children,\(^4\) by the favour of the gods, obtain food, and are blessed with abundance in a thousand cattle.

\(^1\) Sc. we invoke thee before the others.

\(^2\) S\(\text{\textit{sra}}\)\(\text{\textit{vas}}\) may also mean "glory."

\(^3\) The Scholiast seems to explain this as if the cows came as it were laden with gold from Indra.

\(^4\) S\(\text{\textit{s\'aya}}\) takes n\(\text{\textit{ap\'a\'a\'h}}\) as a genitive singular—\(\text{\textit{arakh\'ita\'asya}},\) and would understand the verse, "destitute of a protector as I am and plunged in sorrow, (my dependents) by the favour of the gods," etc. But it is better to take n\(\text{\textit{ap\'a\'a\'h}}\) as a nominative plural.
Súkta VII. (LXVI.)

The Rishi is Káli the son of Prághátha; the deity is Indra; the metre is Prágdátha, except in the last verse, where it is Anush-tubh.

1. Throning together, (worship) for your protection Indra full of might and the revealer of wealth; (worship him), chanting the Brihat Sáman at his sacrifice where the Soma is effused; I invoke him as (men invoke) a beneficent master of a household.\(^1\)

2. He, the handsome-jawed, whom, in the intoxication of the Soma, the fierce (demons) withstand not, nor the firm gods, nor mortal (men),—who confers glorious wealth on him who reverently praises him, offers the Soma, and sings hymns;\(^2\)

3. He, Sakra, who is the purifier (of his worshippers), and well-skilled in horses, who is wonderful and golden-bodied,—He, Indra, the slayer of

\(^1\) Sáma Veda, I. 3. 1. 5. 5; II. 1. 1. 14. 1.

\(^2\) Sáma Veda, II. 1. 1. 14. 2, but reading madeshu sipram for made susipram.—Sáyaña does not explain ādṛitya; but the St. Petersburg Dict. derives it from ārī, "to tear," in the sense of "aufthuend d. h. mit offener Hand;" but Benfey prefers the usual meaning, and renders it "ehrfurchtvoll." The yah in the printed commentary should probably be placed before dátá, cf. var. Lect. Ādṛitya can hardly be taken with madáya, as it is always construed with the accusative; but it may apply to Indra, i.e. "who with favouring regard confers," etc. (cf. i. 103. 6). Made also can hardly be other than a locative, though Sáyaña takes it as a dative, and seems to connect it with ādṛitya.

\(^3\) This is a very obscure stanza. Sáyaña explains mṛikshaḥ by...
Veṣṭra, shakes the hiding-place of the numerous herd of kine.\textsuperscript{1}

4. He who verily pours forth to the offerer the buried wealth accumulated by many,\textsuperscript{2} he, Indra, the thunderer, handsome-jawed, borne on bay steeds, does as he pleases, (when propitiated) with sacrifice.\textsuperscript{3}

5. Hero, praised of many, what of old time\textsuperscript{4} thou didst desire from thy votaries, that, Indra, we hasten to bring to thee,—oblation and recited praise.

\textit{stotrinám śodhakaḥ or paricharaniyaḥ, and aśvyaḥ as aśvakuśalaḥ}; but he adds another explanation, which takes the two words together, as aśvah prakshāliyaḥ, “a well-washed horse.” Again, he explains kīyaḥ as adbhutaḥ, “wonderful,” but this seems only based on an etymological guess, kīm aśya katham jīta iti vachandat. The St. Petersburg Dict. takes mriksaḥ as a curry-comb or some such instrument, “Striegel, Kamm oder ähnlich,” (“Indra wird mit einem kratzenden Werkzeuge verglichen, das den Verschlüsse der Heerde aufreißt”), and kīya as some similar instrument.

\textsuperscript{1} Here, again, we have an obscure word in apd̐r̐iti. Sāyaṇa explains it as apavaranīyaṁ, “to be opened,” referring apparently to the cave of the Pānis (i. 6. 5).

\textsuperscript{3} The Sanhitā text reads puru-sambhr̩ītam as a compound; Sāyaṇa in his Comm. divides the two words, “the buried wealth, plenteous and accumulated.” He takes the wealth as the accumulated stores from former sacrifices.

\textsuperscript{4} Sāyaṇa says that sacrifice is here the upadhī or necessary preliminary condition.

\textsuperscript{4} Sāyaṇa makes the construction rather complicated by taking chid “as” (upamārdha, Nirukta, i. 4), “as of old time (thou received’st) from thy votaries, so now we hasten to bring thee what thou didst desire.”
6. Bearer of the thunderbolt, invoked of many, Varga XLIX. radiant, drinker of the Soma, be present at our libations for thy exhilaration; for thou art an abundant giver of desirable wealth to him who utters thy praises and effuses the Soma.

7. To-day and yesterday we have here refreshed him, the thunderer; bring to him to-day our libation effused for (success in) battle; let him now hasten hither on hearing our praise.

8. The obstructing robber, the destroyer of travelling enemies, is obedient to him in his ways; hasten, Indra, (drawn) by our gorgeous rite, welcoming this our hymn.

9. What act of might is there, unperformed by Indra? Who has not heard of his famous (heroism)? He, the slayer of Vṛitra, (is renowned) from his birth.

10. When were his mighty forces ever languid? When was aught undestroyed before the slayer of

2 Sāma Veda, II. 8. 2. 13. 2.

3 This is Sāyaṇa’s interpretation of vṛikaṣ chid vṛanā urdama-thiḥ (thus connecting the last word with the etymological root ur, “to go”); but Yāsaka (Nirukta, v. 21) takes the words literally, “the obstructing wolf, destroying the sheep,” which is far preferable.

4 Vayunēshu may also mean prajnāneshu, “in his counsels.”
Vṛitra? Indra by his energy overpowers all the huckstering usurers who see only this world's days.¹

11. Indra, slayer of Vṛitra, invoked of many, we, thy many worshippers, offer new hymns to thee, thunderer, as thy wages.²

12. Indra, doer of many great deeds, (other worshippers) invoke the manifold hopes and protections which abide in thee; but rejecting the enemy's oblations, come to us, bestower of dwellings; O mightiest, hear my appeal.

13. Indra, we are thine, therefore we, thy worshippers, depend on thee; other than thee, Maghavan, invoked of many, there is no giver of happiness.

14. Deliver us from this poverty, hunger, and calumny; give us (our desire) by thy protection and wondrous working; O mightiest, thou knowest the right way.

15. Let your effused Soma-juice be only (for Indra); O sons of Kali, fear not; that malignant (spirit) departs, of his own accord he departs.

¹ Cf. Nirukta, vi. 26. The text may also be interpreted "usurers and hucksters." Ahardriṣaḥ, lit. "seeing the day," is explained as seeing only the light of this world and dwelling in deep darkness after death. The Schol. refers to Manu, viii. 102, for a censure on usurers and traders.

² Sāyaṇa remarks that the use of wages as an illustration is not inappropriate, as both the hymns and the wages are given by a definite rule (niyamena).

³ Sāyaṇa explains saṁchīṣṭha in iv. 20. 9. as atiṣayena prājña, and in iv. 48. 3. ṣaktimattara.
Sūkta VIII. (LXVII.)

The Rishi is Matsya the son of Sammada,1 or Manya the son of Mitra and Varuṇa, or some fishes (matsyāḥ) caught in a net. The deities are the Adityas; the metre is Gayatri.

1. We solicit for protection those Kshatriyas, the Varga LI. Adityas, who bless (their votaries) abundantly to the attainment of their desires.

2. May the Adityas, Mitra, Varuṇa, and Aryaman, bear us across our distress, as they know it well.

3. To those Adityas belongs wonderful wealth, worthy of all praise, (laid up) for the offerer of oblations and the sacrificer.

4. Ye are great, Varuṇa, Mitra, and Aryaman, and great is your protection; your protections we implore.

5. Adityas, hasten to us ere our death, while we are yet alive; where2 are ye, hearers of prayer?

6. Whatever wealth, whatever dwelling is yours (to give) to the wearied offerer of libations,—with these speak to us a kindly answer.

7. Great, O deities, is (the guilt) of the sinner, but to the sinless is happiness; Adityas, ye are void of sin.

8. Let not the snare bind us; may Indra, the renowned, the subduer of all, deliver us for a glorious act.

2 Sāyaṇa takes kat as ke, “who?” but the Nirukta (vi. 27) explains it as kuo.

9. O deities, ready to protect, molest us not with the destructive net of our wicked enemies.¹

10. I address thee, who givest abundant delight, the great goddess Aditi, for the attainment of my desire.

Varga LIII. 11. Thou protectest on every side; let not (the net) of the destroyer hurt our children, in this shallow water full of mighty offspring.²

12. Wide-traversing, far-reaching goddess, put forth thy power to come to us, innocent ones, that our children may live.

13. Ye who are the heads of men, unharming, and of self-sustained glory, who, benevolent ones, protect our rites,

14. Adityas, deliver us from the jaws of the destroyers like a bound thief; O Aditi, (deliver us).

15. Adityas, let this net, let the malevolent design turn away from us innocuous.

Varga LIV. 16. Bounteous Adityas, by your protections we have continually possessed enjoyments from of old.

² Sāyana takes ugraputro this as a loc. agreeing with "water"; the St. Petersburg Dict. as a voc. agreeing with Aditi, "O mother of mighty children."
17. Wise deities, keep away from us, that we may live, the many doers of sin who come against us.¹

18. Adityas and Aditi, let that which releases us² as a prisoner from his bond, be ever the object of our praise and worship.

19. Not to us is there strength enough to burst from this (net); O Adityas, do you grant us your favour.

20. Let not this weapon of Vivasvat,³ this net made with hands, Adityas, destroy us before old age.⁴

21. Adityas, utterly destroy our enemies, destroy wickedness, destroy the closely drawn net, destroy evil everywhere.

¹ This verse might be better rendered, “O wise deities, ye help to life many a one who turns from sin.”

² According to Sāyaṇa, this may be either the net or your favour. In the former case the net itself is supposed by the favour of the gods to become as it were the instrument of deliverance.

³ i.e. Yama, properly the son of Vivasvat.

FIFTH ADHYÁYA.

SÚKTA IX. (LXVIII.)

The Rishi is Pritamedha of the race of Angiras; the deity of the first thirteen verses is Indra, and of the six last the gift of Riksha and Aśwamedha; the metre of the first, fourth, seventh, and tenth verses is Anuḥśubh, of the remainder Gāyatri.

Varga I.

1. Most powerful Indra, protector of the good, we bring thee here, rich in achievements and subduer of enemies, as a car for our protection and weal.¹

2. Great² in power, rich in deeds, mighty one, adorable,³ thou hast filled (all things) with thy universal majesty.

3. Thou⁴ mighty one, whose hands in thy might grasp the all-pervading⁵ golden thunderbolt.

4. I invoke (Indra) the lord of that might which

² Sáma Veda, II. 9. 1. 3. 2.
³ Māte is left unexplained by Sáyaṇa, unless pujāniya, 'adorable,' is its interpretation; he explains it as stotavya in viii. 18.
⁴ The St. Petersburg Dict. reads viśwaydmati as an epithet of Indra, "der überall seine Gedanken hat."
⁵ Sáma Veda, II. 9. 1. 3. 3.

vantam, the St. Petersburg Dict. as "bahnbrechend."
subdues all enemies and bows to none,—(I invoke him) followed by your onsets as his soldiers and (surrounded) by the protection of your chariots (O Maruts).

5. (I invoke him) to come to our help, whose might ever waxes more and more,—to whom men appeal for aid in various ways in battles.

6. (I invoke) Indra, the unlimited, worthy of Varga II. praise, the mighty, possessing excellent wealth, the lord of treasures (for his votaries).

7. To him, to him, Indra, do I direct my praise, that he may quaff the Soma to my great gain,—to him, the bringer of success, who rules over the praises of the offerers at the opening of the sacrifice.

8. Thou mighty one, whose friendship no mortal reaches, whose might no one attains.

9. Protected by thee, O thunderer, with thee as our ally, may we win great wealth in battles, that we may bathe in the water and behold the sun.

---

1 Sāma Veda, I. 4. 2. 3. 5. The construction of the latter part is obscure. Sāyaṇa gives another interpretation, which takes vaṣṇ as applying to the sacrificers instead of the Maruts, "I invoke him to come with his protections in the onsets of your soldiers and chariots." This partly agrees with Benfey, "Euren Gebieter allherrschender und unbeugsamer Gewalt ruf ich durch Lieder, dass er schützt die Menschen und die Wagen."

2 Sāyaṇa explains pūrvyām as yajna-mukhaśthām, but it might be taken in its usual meaning "ancient."

3 These words aṣeṣu stīrṣe are explained by Sāyaṇa, "that we may perform our accustomed bathings in the water, and, when the sun is risen, may set about our accustomed tasks."
10. We address thee with sacrificial gifts, (we address) thee with songs, O Indra most worthy of song, as thou hast protected me, the offerer of many praises, in battles.

11. Thou, the thunderer, whose friendship is sweet, sweet too is thy liberality, and thy sacrifice pre-eminently to be performed.

12. Give ample (wealth) to our own selves, give ample (wealth) to our children, give ample (wealth) to our dwelling,—grant us (our desire) that we may live.

13. We solicit a spacious (road) for our servants, a spacious (road) for our cattle, a spacious road for our chariot, and (an abundant) sacrifice.

14. Six princes come to me in pairs, bearing pleasant gifts, in the exhilaration of the Soma.

15. I receive two straight-going steeds from Indrota, two bay from the son of Riksha, two roan from the son of Aśwamedha.

16. (I receive) two steeds with excellent chariots

1 Purumāyyam, lit. "possessing much wisdom." The St. Petersburg Dict. takes it as a proper name.

2 Sēyaṇa here explains tame tame as ātmajāya tat-patrdya; but in vi. 46. 12 and vii. 104. 10 he explains it as given in the translation.

3 These princes with their respective fathers are the six of v. 14. The sons of Riksha and Aśvamedha had originally commenced the sacrifice, but Indrota and his father Ātiśīvya came to see it and added their gifts. The sons alone are mentioned; the son is the father's second self, pitri-patrayer abhedāt.
from the son of Atithigva, two with excellent reins from the son of Riksha, two with excellent ornaments from the son of Aswamedha.

17. I have received together\(^1\) (with my other gifts) six horses with their mares from the pious Indrota, the son of Atithigva.

18. Among these straight-going steeds is numbered a mature roan mare with excellent reins and whip.\(^2\)

19. O princes, givers of food, even the lover of calumny has thrown no censure on you.

Sūkta X. (LXIX.)

The Rishi is the same; the deity is Indra, except in the eleventh and twelfth verses; in the former half of the eleventh it is the Viṣve devaḥ, in the latter half and in the twelfth it is Varuṇa. The metre of the second verse is Uṣṇih, of the fourth, fifth, and sixth Gāyatrī, of the eleventh and sixteenth Pankti, of the seventeenth and eighteenth Bṛihati, of the rest Anushṭubh.

1. Present your sacrificial food with a threefold varga V. song of praise to Indu,\(^3\) gladdener of heroes; he will bless you in your religious rites to the accomplishment of your sacrifice.\(^4\)

\(^1\) Sakhā, i.e. together with the gifts of Riksha and Aswamedha. The Schol. remarks that the use of this word implies that Indrota's gift is incidental and no part of the original sacrifice.

\(^2\) Sāyaṇa takes kāśāvatī as dṛiptā, "proud," "spirited."

\(^3\) The Schol. explains this as Indra, "he who rules (ind) or besprinkles (und) with rain." Trisṭubham rather means here a song of praise generally.

\(^4\) Sāma Veda I. 4. 2. 3. 1 (with vandāv-virāya for mandāv-virāya). Sāyaṇa here takes purandhī as bahuprajñayā, but in vii. 97. 9 he took purandhit as bahwir stutiḥ.
2. (Invoke) for yourselves the author of the dawns, (I invoke) for you the roarer of the rivers; (I invoke) for you the lord of the inviolable ones; (O sacrificer), thou desirest kine.

3. These white* kine, giving milk like wells, mix the Soma for him at the three oblations, rising (in consequence) to the brilliant home of the sun,* the birthplace of the gods.*

4. Worship* with thy praise, as he himself knows,*—that lord of kine, Indra, the son of truth,* the protector of the good.*

1 Sáma Veda, II. 7. 1. 9. 1. Benfey translates it "der Morgenröthen Sänger, Sänger der immer nahenden, den Herrn der unverletzbaren, der Küh', begehrest du für euch."

2 Nada is here explained utpádaka; Indra is called the author of the dawns as being identified with the sun, as one of the twelve Ādiyás.

3 Aghnyánám, sc. cows.

4 Or "brindled," priṣni being sometimes explained as sukla and sometimes as nándeváraṇa.

5 Sáyaṇa adds, "It is well known that cows attain heaven by being of use to the sacrifice."

6 This verse occurs in the White Yajur Veda, xii. 55, and is there thus explained by Mahádhara, "These various heaven-fallen (waters), liquid and rich in food, mix the Soma for this sacrifice in the birth-place of the gods (i.e. the year, sc. year by year), at the three bright oblations."

7 Sáyaṇa explains yathá vīde here as yathá svodmánam stutapraháram jánáti, but in 9. 106. 2 as yathá loke jñáyate.

8 Or "son of the sacrifice."

9 Sáma Veda, I. 2. 2. 3. 4; II. 7. 1. 1. 1.
5. Let the brilliant bay (horses) drop him down on the cut grass, where we will hymn his praise.
6. The cows have milked the intoxicating draught for Indra, the thunderer, when he finds it near him.
7. When Indra and I ascend to our home, the world of the sun, then, having drunk the sweet (Soma), let us be united in the twenty-first sphere of the (universal) friend.
8. Worship Indra, worship him pre-eminently, worship him, ye of the family of Priyamedha; let your sons also worship him; worship him as a strong city.
9. The drum utters its sound, the leathern guard twangs, the tawny bowstring leaps to and fro; let the hymn be raised to Indra.
10. When the bright fertilizing rivers flow with diminished waters, then take the overflowing Soma for Indra to drink.

1 Ibid. II. 7. 1. 1. 2.
2 Ibid. II. 7. 1. 1. 3.
3 The sun is the friend of all beings, and his sphere is the twenty-first according to the Aitareya Bråhmaṇa, i. 30, "twelve are the months, five the seasons, three the worlds, yonder sun is the twenty-first." Cf. Śatap. Bråhm. I. 3. 5. 11; Chhând. Upan. ii. 10. 5.
4 Sáma Veda, I. 4. 2. 3. 3.
5 Sáyaṇa only says "gargara, a kind of musical instrument."
6 The word maḥ may also mean "cows,"—i.e. "when the white milk cows come with scanty milk."
7 Sc. from an absence of rain.
8 The great difficulty here consists in the two words anapaphur and apaphuru. Sáyaṇa seems to prefer an interpreta-
11. Indra drank (the Soma), Agni drank it, the Visvas Devāh were gladdened; let Varuna fix his dwelling here; the waters have praised him as cows (low) meeting their calves.

12. Thou art a glorious god, Varuna, across whose palate the seven rivers keep pouring as a fair-flowing (stream) into an abyss.

(though he also gives that in the text) which makes both these words equally mean praeriddha, "when the bright fertilizing rivers (or the white milch cows) flow with full waters (or with distended udders), then take, etc." In vi. 48. 11 he explains dhenum orjadhram anapashpharam as "release the cow unbestricken," anapahddhanityam; and in iv. 42. 10, tam dhenum dhuttam anapashphurantim as "grant us that cow (riches) uninjured," anavahinsitam. But Mahidhara in his comm. on this last verse in the White Yajur Veda, vii. 10, explains anapashphurantim as "not going to another," i.e. "not running away," which will give a good sense in all the passages (cf. Prof. Goldstucker's Dict.). Similarly, the St. Petersburg Dict. translates anapashphurath as "not struggling against being milked," and apashpharam as "bursting forth," i.e. "when the white milch cows come without starting away, then take the guashing Soma for Indra to drink."

1 Another interpretation of dpah is "hymns," from a forced derivation, dpana-siddha.

2 The last words surmyam suhirdam iva are left unexplained in the Comm.; I have followed Yaska's interpretation, Nirukta, v. 27. Sāyāga has given a current metaphorical explanation of them in his Introd. vol. i. p. 38, where they are quoted as applied by the grammarians to enforce the need of studying grammar, the seven rivers being taken to mean the seven declensional affixes (cf. Ballantyne's Mahābhāshya, p. 34, where another explanation is offered, "across whose palate the seven rivers keep flowing as
13. He who directs towards the worshipper his well-yoked prancing steeds,—he, (Indra), the swift bearer of blessing, (produces) rain,—he, who being comparable only to himself¹ is delivered (from all his enemies).

14. Śakra verily overpowers; Indra overpowers all his enemies; he, worthy of love, abiding beyond, cleaves the cloud smitten² by his thunder-voice.

15. (Indra), like a young boy, has mounted his splendid chariot; he makes ready³ for his father and mother the great deer-like many-functioned cloud.

16. Handsomed-jawed (Indra), householder, mount (fire penetrates and purifies) a beautiful perforated iron image⁴).

Sāyāṇa, however, here takes the seven rivers as the Ganges, etc., and Varuṇa’s palate as the ocean. Prof. Roth takes sūrmyam sushīram as fem. acc. agreeing with kākudam, “welchem die sieben Flüsse zuströmen, wie in einen schaumenden hohlen Schlund.”

¹ Sāyāṇa obscurely interprets upamā as upamāna-bhūta. The St. Petersburg Dict. takes it as an adverb, “in close proximity.”

² The words odanam pachyamānām would usually mean “rice when cooked;” but Sāyāṇa takes odana as “a cloud” on Yāska’s authority (Naigh. i. 10), and pachyamna as tādyamāna, but cf. the next verse.

³ Here Sāyāṇa seems to take pach in its usual signification, “to cook, to mature;” he explains it as vrishtyabhimukhām karotī, “Indra makes the cloud ready for raining.” Mṛgā, “deer-like,” he explains as “wandering hither and thither like a deer,” or “to be sought by all.” Perhaps we might translate the line as a rude metaphor of primeval times, “he roasts (with his thunderbolt) the wild mighty buffalo (the cloud) for his father and mother.”
thy golden chariot; then let us meet mounted together on that bright thousand-footed brilliant auspiciously-moving sinless (car).

17. (The priests), presenting praise, thus worship that self-resplendent (Indra); they obtain his well-stored wealth, when (his horses) bring him on his way for the offering.

18. The Priyamedhas have reached the ancient dwelling-place of these deities, having strewed the sacred grass and placed their oblations after the manner of a pre-eminent offering.

Súkta I. (LXX.)

The Ṛishi is Puruhashman of the race of Angiras; the deity is Indra; the metre of the first six verses is Prágyátha, of the next six Bṛihati, of the thirteenth Usáhí, of the fourteenth Anuṣthuḥ, of the fifteenth Puruṣusáhí.

Varga VIII. 1. I praise that Indra who is the lord of men, who proceeds irresistible in his chariots, the breaker-through of all armies, the pre-eminent one, the slayer of Vítra.

1 Or "their praises."

2 Púrvám anu prayatim; Sáyaṇa explains púrva by mukhya, "principal," and anu by lakshikṛitya. But it might mean, "after the manner of former offerings," cf. i. 126. 5.

3 Sáma Veda, I. 3. 2. 4. 1; II. 3. 1. 15. Sáyaṇa explains tārutā by tārakaḥ, which may mean "deliverer;" in viii. 1. 21 he explained it by jéla, "conqueror."
2. 1 PURUHANMAN, honour that INDRA for thy protection, for in thy upholder there is a twofold might; he holds in his hand (to smite his enemies) the glorious thunderbolt great as the sun in heaven.

3. None can touch him by his deeds, who has made INDRA his friend by sacrifices,—(INDRA) ever giving fresh strength, to be hymned by all, great, unconquered, of ever-daring might. 3

4. "(I laud) him who is not to be withstood, the mighty, the conqueror in hostile hosts; whom, when he was born, the strong rushing cows welcomed and the heavens and the earths praised.

12. Most powerful Indra, in thy favour towards us, take these cows in thy hand, as fried grain, to give to us; yea, take them twice in thy favour towards us.

13. Associated priests, give good heed to the sacrifice, for how can we (worthily) perform the praise of (Indra) the destroyer, who is the recompenser of enemies, the sender of reward, the unvanquished?

14. Indra, the common object of our worship, thou art praised by many sacrificing Rishis; for it is thou, destroyer of foes, who thus givest calves in succession to thy worshippers.

1 In i. 122. 3 Sáyana identifies Parvata with Parjanya; in vii. 37. 8 he calls him a god, the friend of Indra; here he describes him as a rishi, the friend of Indra, tava sakhi-bhūtaḥ Parvata rishiḥ.

2 Amanusham, Sáyana explains it as "the enemy of the men who sacrifice to Indra."

3 Bhajaḥ, which Sáyana explains as satrúndam bhajayitā; Prof. Wilson translated it in viii. 3. 24 "the despoiler of enemies." In ii. 14. 10 Sáyana explained it phalasya dátáram rakhitáram cha.

4 Ekam ekam, "one by one," i.e. according to Sáyana "many." He adds that "calves" here includes "cows."
15. May Maghavan, taking them by the ears, lead the cows with their calves from our three (destructive enemies), as the owner leads a goat to drink.¹

Śūkta II. (LXXI.)

The deity is Agni; the Rishis are Sudriti and Purumśila, or either of them may be the Rishi; the metre of the first nine verses is Gāyatri, of the remaining six Prāṇātha.

Varga XI.

1. Agni, do thou protect us by great wealth from every niggard and mortal foe.²

2. O thou who wast born loved, no human anger can harm thee,—thou only art the lord of night.³

3. Son of strength, auspicious in brilliance, associated with all the gods,⁴ give us all-desirable wealth.

4. That sacrificing mortal whom thou, Agni, protectest, the niggardly cannot separate from wealth.

¹ Sāyaṇa in this interpretation reads vatsam na for vatsam naḥ, and explains it as vatsa-sahidāḥ. Ṣauradevayāḥ he explains as "cows," i.e. connected with, or won in, battle (ṣauradevam).

² Sāma Veda, I. 1. 1. 6. Sāyaṇa explains mahābhīṣṇ by mahādbhīr dhanaśī, or by pujābhīṣṇ, "by our worship." In his comm. on the Sāma V. he takes it as mahādbhīṣṇ pālanaśī, "by thy great protections." Arātāḥ also may either mean "from the non-giver," or "from the non-giving (i.e. niggardliness) of every one."

⁴ Sāyaṇa reads sa no vasava upamāṣi (from v. 9) for sa no viṣṇv-bhīṣṇ devodbhīṣṇ.
5. Wise (Agni), he whom in his performance of the sacrifice thou incitest to attain wealth, by thy protection walks (lord) among crowds of cattle.¹

6. Thou, Agni, givest to the offerer wealth comprehending many male descendants; conduct us to affluence.

7. Defend us, Jātavedas; deliver us not over to the malevolent, to the man whose thoughts are evil.

8. Agni, let not the godless take away the wealth which thou, the divine, hast given, for thou art the lord of treasures.

9. Son of strength, the friend, the giver of dwellings, thou metest out abundant treasure to us thy praisers.

10. Let our voices come near the beautiful (Agni), him who bears devouring flames; let our sacrifices with our oblations come near him, for our protection, who is rich in wealth and rich in praise;²

11. (Let them come near) Agni, Jātavedas, son of strength, for the giving of all desirable good things; who is doubly immortal as (perpetually burning) amongst mortals, and as the supremely exhilarating ministrant-priest amongst the sacrificers.³

² Sāma Veda, II. 7. 2. 8. 1.
³ Sāma Veda, II. 7. 2. 8. 2. Sāyaṇa gives another interpretation, “who is doubly immortal (amongst gods) and amongst men,” d being equivalent to oha. Viśi, which he explains as put for the plural vikṣu yajamāna-rūpāṇu, more probably means “in the house,” or “in the family.”
12. I praise Agni, (O sacrificers), for the inauguration of your divine offering; (I praise him) when the sacrifice is proceeding; (I praise) Agni first of the gods, at our rites; (I praise) Agni when the enemy approaches; (I praise) Agni for the attainment of land.¹

13. May Agni in his friendship give us food,² for he is the lord of all desirable things; we solicit abundance for our sons and grandsons from Agni, who is the giver of dwellings and the protector of our bodies.

14. Laud with thy hymns for our protection Agni, whose splendours lie outspread;³ laud Agni for wealth, O Purumílha, for other offerers are lauding that far-famed one on their own behalf; solicit of Agni a house for (me) Sudíti.⁴

15. We praise Agni that he may keep off our enemies; we praise Agni that he may give us joy and security; he may well be worshipped as the giver of dwellings to the Rishis, he who is as it were the protector of all men.

² Or taking naḥ for mahyam and sakhya as a dative (against the accent), "may Agni give food to me his friend."

Sūkta III. (LXXII.)
The deity is Agni or the praise of the oblations; the Rishi is Ḥarita, the son of Pragatha; the metre is Gāyatrī.

1. (Priests), present the oblation, for (Agni) has come; the Adivaryu again offers (the sacrifice), well-skilled in its offering.

2. The Hotri sits down by (Agni’s) hot flame, rejoicing in his friendship towards the offerer.

3. For the sake of the offerer, they seek by their skill to place Rupā in the forefront; they seize him, as he sleeps, with their tongues.

4. (Agni), the giver of food, scorches the vast bow (of the sky); he mounts the water; he smites the cloud with his tongue.

5. Roaming like a calf and bright-shining, he finds here no hinderer; he seeks a chanter to praise him.

6. As soon as the great stout harness of his horses is seen (in the sky), the traces of his chariot,

1 Sāyāna takes aṃṣu as here equivalent to Agni; the St. Petersburg Dict. translates it “the stalks of the Soma-plant.”

2 So. “with their hymns,” the cause being used for the effect.

3 Sāyāna here takes jāmi as pravṛiddham, sarvam atirichya eartamānam, but the true meaning is probably “his own.” He gives another interpretation of the latter part of the verse as referring to a forest-conflagration, in which case vanam and drishadam are taken in their usual acceptation, “he mounts the forest, he smites the rock with his tongue.”

4 Iha “here” may either mean “in this world,” aṁmin lokes, or “in the sky,” antariksha; in the latter case Agni will mean the lightning, and the praiser (aṁbya) will be the thunder.
7. Seven milk one (cow), the two direct the five, on the resounding shore of the river.\footnote{Ekāṃ, “the one (cow),” is explained as the gharma, or earthen vessel so called, which is used to boil milk, etc., in the Pravargya ceremony. The “seven” are the seven officiating priests or assistants, two of whom, the pratiprathātri and the adhvarya, are said to direct in the performance the other five, viz. the yajamāna or institutor, the brāhmaṇa (or brāhmaṇa), the hotṛ, the āgniḍhara, and the prastotri. The “resounding shore” refers to the exclamations used in the sacrifice performed by the rishi of the hymn.}

8. Invoked by the ten\footnote{Sc. red, white, and black.} (fingers) of the worshipper, \textit{Indra}\footnote{Sāma Veda, II. 7. 3. 16. 3.} has caused the cloud to fall from heaven by his threefold ray.\footnote{Sc. the \textit{gharma} or \textit{mahavira}, the contents of which are thrown into the \textit{Ahavanīya} fire. The St. Petersburg Dict. takes \textit{avata} (which properly means “a cistern”) as a metaphor for a cloud (see under \textit{parijman}).}

9. The three-hued\footnote{ The fingers are called “the ten sisters” in iii. 29. 13.} fresh impetuous (blaze) goes swiftly round the sacrifice; the priests anoint it with butter.

10.\footnote{Sāyaṇa says that Indra may also here stand for Agni or Aditya.} They pour out with reverence the inexhaustible cauldron,\footnote{ Sāyaṇa explains \textit{kshedāy} by \textit{raṣminā}, and \textit{triṃritā} by \textit{tri-prakāra-vartanavatā}, “revolving in three ways.” \textit{Khedāy} occurs again in 77. 3, and is there explained \textit{rajyād}. The St. Petersburg Dict. explains it as “vielleicht Hammer, Schlägel oder ein ähnliches Werkzeug dem Indra zukommend.”} as it goes round circular above and with an opening below.
11. The reverent priests drawing near pour the vārga XVI. superfluous butter into the large (spoon), when they set the cauldron down.

12. "Draw nigh, ye cows, to the cauldron; (the two kinds of milk) in the sacrifice are plentiful and fruit-giving; both ears (of the vessel) are golden.

13. "Drop into the milked (stream) the admixture, which reaches, (as it boils), heaven and earth; set the bull in the liquor."

5 The milk of a cow and a goat is poured into the Gharma or Mahāvīra. Rapiṣṭha is a very hard word (see Benfey's Glossary). Sāyana gives several attempts to explain it; thus it may be dhrapati phalaprate, "giving fruit to one who is about to begin," or lipesvar aśvinor dātavyo, "to be presented to those who desire to receive it (sc. the Aświns)," or (since rapi is "to praise"), mantreṇa dātavya or dohanīya, "to be rightly offered or milked (aśū) with hymns." Mahādhara gives a totally different explanation, which is adopted by Benfey; he takes rapi as ripa (but Naigh. iii. 7 gives only pusu), and renders the line "O cows, approach the altar-trench (chātwidla), for heaven and earth (maḥi) give beauty to the sacrifice; both your ears are golden."
7 This is the goat's milk which is poured into the cow's milk in the Gharma.
8 Or the Aświns. Cf. Nīrūkta, xii. 1.
9 The 'bull,' vriśhabha, is explained as Agni, and the liquor (rāṣā = rasi) is the goat's milk. Sāyana adds, "The goat is dedicated to Agni, hence the contact of its milk with fire is proper."
14. "They know their own abode; 2 as calves with their mothers, so they severally assemble with their kin.

4 Or swar may be taken, like divi, as “in the sky.”
5 This is the literal meaning of saptapadim, but Sāyaṇa explains it as “the middle tone with gliding foot, which is personified in the cow that is milked into the gharma,” sarpaṇa-swabhava-paddam madhyamikam vacham gharmanahug-rupendavasthitam. (The thunder is often called the madhyamikā vāch, and we have in i. 164. 28, 29 a similar comparison of the lowing cow, while being milked, to the cloud as it thunders while raining.) The cow (soma-krayani) which is given as the price of the Soma, has to take seven steps, and it is considered to be vāch personified, see Taitt. Sanhita, vi. 1. 7, 8. The St. Petersb. Dict. takes saptapadim as an epithet of isham urjām, “für alle Bedürfnisse genügend.”

Sūkta IV. (LXXIII.)
The deities are the Aświns; the Rishi is Gopavāna of the family of Atri, or Saptavadhri; the metre is Gāyatrī.

1. Rise, Aświns, on my behalf, as I prepare to varga xviii. sacrifice; yoke your car; let your protection abide near me.

2. Come, Aświns, in your chariot which moves quicker than the twinkling of an eye; let your protection abide near me.

3. Aświns, ye covered the hot (fire) with cold (water) for Atri;¹ let your protection abide near me.

4. Where are you? whither are you gone? whither have you flown like hawks? Let your protection abide near me.

5. If to-day, at some time, in some place, ye would but hear my invocation,—let your protection abide near me.

6. The Aświns are earnestly to be invoked in varga xix. emergency; I enter into closest friendship² with them; let your protection abide near me.

7. Aświns, ye made a sheltering house for Atri;³ let your protection abide near me.

² Cf. var. lect., and the commentary on i. 36. 12.
³ Sāyaṇa adds, "When being burned in the cell of the consecrated fire."
8. Ye stayed the fire from its fierceness for Atri, while he praised you acceptably; let your protection abide near me.

9. Through his praise of you Saptavadhri set the fire’s flame-point (to his basket);¹ let your protection abide near me.

10. Come hither, lords of abundant wealth, hear this my invocation; let your protection abide near me.

Varga XX. 11. Why is this (repeated invocation) addressed to you as if you were decrepit like old men?² Let your protection abide near me.

12. Aświns, your relationship is common and ye have a common kinsman;³ let your protection abide near me.

13. Your chariot, Aświns, moves swiftly through the worlds, through heaven and earth; let your protection abide near me.

14. Come to us with thousands of herds of cattle and horses; let your protection abide near me.

² Sāyaṇa explains it, “as we see in the world that an old man does not come, though often called, so too is it with you.”

³ Sāyaṇa’s Comm. is here obscure, but he explains the text as meaning that the two Aświns were both born from the wife of the sun (sc. Vivasvat), who had assumed the form of a mare. (Cf. vii. 72. 2 and the passage from the Brihaddevatā quoted in the Comm.) He seems to explain the common kinsman as meaning either the sacrificial ladle or the rishī himself (cf. viii. 27. 10).
15. Pass us not by\(^1\) with your thousands of herds of cattle and horses; let your protection abide near us.

16. The purple-tinted Dawn has appeared, the mistress of the sacrifice\(^2\) spreads her light; let your protection abide near me.

17. Āśwīnas, the splendidly-brilliant (sun cleaves the darkness) as the woodman with his axe a tree; let your protection abide near me.

18. \(^3\)O bold Sāptaavatarī, distressed by the entangling and detaining (basket),\(^4\) break through it as through a city; let your protection (Āśwīnas) abide near me.

Sūkta V. (LXXIV.)

The Ṛishi is Gopavāna; the deity of the first twelve verses is Āgni, of the last three the donation of king Śrutāryan (who had offered an āśvamedhika on the bank of the Parushāṇi); the metre of the first, fourth, seventh, tenth and last three verses is Anushṭubh, of the second, third, fifth, sixth, eighth, ninth, eleventh, and twelfth Gāyatrī.

1. "Food-desiring (priests, worship) Āgni, who is Varga XXI.

\(^2\) Rīдавari is sometimes explained as yajnavati, sometimes as satyavati, “truthful.”

\(^3\) This is supposed to be addressed by Saptavardhī to himself, or by Gopavana to Saptavardhī.

\(^4\) So Sāyaṇa; but krishnoyaḥ bāhuilo viṣā probably means “distressed by the black people.”

5. In the realms (of the sky) where the foot finds no resting-place, Indra shattered the cloud⁵ to bring increase to the Bráhmans.⁶

6. Indra smote (rain) from the clouds with his Varga XXX. far-stretched arrow, he secured boiled rice (for men).

7. That single shaft of thine, Indra, which

³ Cf. note on viii. 72. 8.
⁴ Yāśka comments on this verse in Niruktā v. 11. He gives the explanation in the text as that of the ceremonialists (yājinikāḥ) which applies the verse to the thirty uktha vessels presented at the mid-day offering; the naivruktāḥ take the verse as referring to the fifteen days and nights in which the collected light of the moon is gradually absorbed. Yāśka is evidently uncertain as to the meaning of the word kāyukey, which he explains in several ways, either as a neuter plural agreeing with sardāṣei, or as a nom. sing. agreeing with Indra.

thou makest thy ally, is hundred-pointed, thousand-feathered.

8. Forthwith increased (by our offerings), do thou, mighty and firm, by that (weapon) bring (wealth) for sustenance to us thy praisers, our children, and our wives.

9. These gigantic far-reaching efforts\(^1\) were put forth by thee; thou didst fix them firm in thy thought.

10. The wide-traversing Sun, despatched by thee, brings (to the world) all these (waters which thou createst); he brings hundreds of cattle and rice boiled in milk; it is Indra who slays the water-stealing boar.\(^2\)

\(^1\) Chyaunndni is generally explained as bālāṇi, "powers," "energies"; here Śāyaṇa takes it as referring to "the mountains," as the supporters or stays of the earth, bhūmeḥ kila baddhdhaḥdrraṇḍi (see var. loc.), cf. vii. 99. 3.

\(^2\) The Scholiast offers two interpretations of this verse. The first, that of the grammatical school (nairukta), is given in the text. The sun (here called Viṣṇu), as the bringer of rain, is said to bring the cattle and food which the rain produces; the "boar" vardha is one of the personifications of the cloud as smitten by Indra's thunderbolt (cf. Nirukta v. 4). The mythological school (aisthasika) take the verse more literally, and their explanation is given in the Charaka Brāhmaṇa. The legend is, however, told more distinctly in the Taitt. Sanh. vi. 2. 4. It is there related that "the personified sacrifice concealed itself from the gods, and assuming the form of Viṣṇu, entered the earth. The gods, stretching out their hands, sought in vain to lay hold of it; but wherever it turned, Indra, outstripping it, stood in front of it. It said to him, ‘Who is this that, outstripping me, always stands in front of me?’ He answered, ‘I slay in inaccessible places, but who art thou?’ ‘I can bring out from inaccessible places.’ Then it said to him, ‘Thou sayest that thou canst slay in inaccessible places,—if this be so, the boar vamamoshā (Vāmamusha in Ch. Br.) guards for the asuras, behind the seven mountains, the wealth which the gods must obtain; prove thy title by slaying that boar.’ Indra, seizing up a tuft of darbha-grass, pierced those mountains and slew him. Then he said to the sacrifice, ‘Thou saidst that thou couldst bring out from inaccessible places; bring him out from thence.’ It brought out all the instruments of the sacrifice [according to the Comm. the altar, soma-jars, cups, etc.], and gave them to the gods.” The legend of the Charaka only differs in making the boar hide behind twenty-one stone cities. The seven mountains, according to the Schol., are the four dikṣās or initiatory rites and the three upāsās; the boar vamamoshā (“stealer of precious things”) is the personified ceremony of pressing the soma-juice. The whole legend appears to have arisen from the present passage and that in I. 61. 7.
11. Far-darting is thy well-made auspicious bow, unfailing is thy golden arrow; thy two warlike arms are ready equipped, destructively overthrowing, destructively piercing.¹

The Rishi and deity are the same; the metre is Gāyatrī, except in the last verse, where it is Brāhmi.

1. (Accepting) our offering of sacrificial viands, O Varga xxxi.

¹ This difficult verse is explained in Yāska’s Nirukta, vi. 38; but his explanation of rīdupe chid rīduvriḍā is very doubtful and confused, cf. Prof. Roth’s Comm. The St. Petersburg Dict. explains the words “like two bees delighting in sweetness,” taking rīdu as for mṛidu, sc. the madhu or soma-juice.
hero Indra, bring us thousands and hundreds of cows.

2. Bring us condiments, cows, horses, and oil, (bring us) with them precious\(^1\) golden (vessels).

3. O resolute one, bring us many ear-ornaments; giver of dwellings, thou art renowned.

4. There is no prosperer other than thou, no divider of the spoil, no giver of boons; O hero, there is no (leader) of the sacrificer other than thou.

5. Indra cannot be brought low, he cannot be overpowered,—he hears, he sees all.

6. Unharmed he brings low the wrath of mortals; ere any one can reproach him, he brings him low.

7. The belly of the Soma-drinker, the eager slayer of Vritra, is filled by the sacrificer’s offering.

8. In thee, O drinker of the Soma,\(^2\) are treasures stored, and all precious things and unblemished gifts.

9. To thee my desire hastens, seeking barley,\(^3\) cows and gold,—to thee it hastens seeking horses.

\(^1\) Sāyāṇa explains mand by mananiyāṇī, the St. Petersb. Dict. takes it as “a vessel” or “a weight,” i.e. “with a weight of gold.” Grassmann compares ṅvā.

\(^2\) i.e. Soma, here applied to Indra, as possessing it (somaevan) or as identified with it after drinking it.

\(^3\) Yava (ṣa) properly means barley, but may be here used generally. The St. Petersburg Dict. remarks sub v., that in the Atharva Veda, and still more in the Brāhmaṇas, yava and vṛīḍi (rice) are the principal kinds of corn, while rice is not mentioned by name in the Rig Veda.
10. I take my sickle also in hand, Indra, with a prayer to thee; fill it, Maghavan, with a handful of barley already cut or piled.¹

Sûkta X. (LXXIX.)

The Rishi is Krîtu of the race of Brîgu; the deity is Soma; the metre is Gâyatrî, except in the last verse, where it is Anushťubh.

1. This all-creating Soma, obstructed by none, the conqueror of all, the producer of fruit,² the seer, the wise, (is to be praised) with a hymn.

2. He covers what is naked, he heals all that is sick, the blind sees, the lame walks.

3. Soma, thou offerest us a wide shelter from the wasting enmities wrought by our foes.³

4. O Rîjîshin,⁴ by thy wisdom and might drive away the enmity of our oppressor from the heaven and the earth.

5. The petitioners seek for wealth, they attend

¹ It would appear as if the field were a barren one and the poet sought from Indra a harvest which he had not sown.

² Vîsvagît and udhîśid are also the names of two special Soma ceremonies, and the Soma may be addressed under these names as the principal means of their accomplishment.

³ Yajur Veda, 5. 35. Sáyanya seems to take yantása as bhavasa; Mahîdhara explains it, “thou the restrainer (yantà) from enmities, etc., thou art a wide shelter.”

⁴ i.e. thou who possessest the remains of the Soma, offered in the third savana, cf. Taitt. Samhitā, vi. 1. 6. Rîjîshin is translated in the St. Petersburg Dict. “vorstürzend, ereilend.”

in thine acts, and never failing, dwell, Soma, auspiciously in our hearts.

not, O king; smite not our hearts with thy brightness.

9. When in my house I watch against the enemies of the gods, then, O king, drive away those who hate us,—O showerer of blessings, drive away those who would harm us.\(^2\)

Sûkta XI. (LXXX.)
The Rishi is Eka dys, the son of Nodhas; the deity of the first nine verses is Indra, of the last the Devas; the metre is Gdyatri, except in the last verse, where it is Trishtubh.

Varga XXXV. 1. Other than thee, Satakratu, I know no be-stower of happiness; Indra, do thou make us happy.

2. O thou, the invulnerable, who hast always in former times protected us for the battle, do thou, Indra, make us happy.

---

1 There is no Comm. for this last clause.

2 Sāyaṇa explains midhvaḥ "effuser of the soma," somarasasya sekatāḥ, but it seems more natural to take it here as elsewhere (as ii. 8. 1. of Agni) phalasya sekatāḥ, or (as vii. 89. 7, of Varuṇa) kamdunām sekatāḥ.
3. Director of the worshipper, thou art the guardian of the offerer; help us mightily.

4. Indra, protect our chariot; though now left behind, set it in the front, O thunderer.

5. Up, why sittest thou still? make our chariot the first; our food-seeking\(^1\) offering is near thee.

6. Protect our food-seeking chariot; everything is easy for thee to do; make us completely victorious.

7. Indra, be firm (in battle), thou art (strong as) a city;\(^2\) to thee, the repeller (of enemies),\(^3\) comes this auspicious sacrifice, offered in due season.

8. Let not reproach reach us; far off is the goal; there is the wealth stored; may our enemies be excluded.

9. When thou assumest thy sacrificial fourth name,\(^4\) we long for it; then thou forthwith carriest us as a protector.

\(^1\) Here, as elsewhere, Sāyana explains vdjayu by *annam iho khhat; the St. Petersburg Dict. takes it as “wettau fend, eilig”; Grassmann renders it “gütterreich.” Sāyana explains Srava by annam as usual, i.e. havirlakshānam. The clause may perhaps mean “the race is glorious and swift.”

\(^2\) Or, according to another interpretation, “be firmly settled (in our sacrifice), thou art the fulfilier of desires,” pūrakāḥ kāmānām asi.

\(^3\) Nishkritam is here taken actively, i.e. Nishkartiāram. It may be also taken passively, “this auspicious sacrifice comes to thy appointed (place).”

\(^4\) The four names are explained to be the nakṣatra or constellation-name, (i.e. Arjuna, as connected with the constellation

2. "We know thee the achiever of many great deeds, the bestower of many gifts, the lord of much wealth, vast in size, and full of protection (for thy worshippers).

5. May (Indra) sing the prelude, may he sing the accompaniment,¹ may he listen to our hymn as it is chanted; may he, endowed with wealth, accept us favourably.

6. Bring us (gifts) with thy right hand, and with thy left bestow them on us; exclude us not, Indra, from wealth.

7. Come hither, and bring us, daring one, with thy resolute (mind), the wealth of him who is pre-eminently a niggard amongst men.

8. O Indra, give us abundantly that wealth which is thine, and which is to be obtained by the wise (worshippers).

SÚKTA II. (LXXXII.)

The Rishi, the deity, and the metre are the same as in the preceding hymn.

Varga I.

1. Hasten, slayer of Vṛitra, from afar or from nigh, to the exhilarating (Soma-libations) in the sacrifice.

2. Come hither, the strong intoxicating Soma is effused; drink, since thou art boldly devoted to it.

3. Rejoice thyself with this food,—may it forthwith avail to (quench) thy foe-restraining anger, may it produce happiness, Indra, in thy heart.

4. O thou who hast no enemies, come hither; thou art summoned from the resplendent heaven to the hymns at this our rite near at hand in this world illumined (by the sacred fires).\(^1\)

\(^1\) It would be more obvious to take upame rochane divaḥ, with the St. Petersb. Dict., as "in the highest splendour of heaven." Sāyaṇa, however, takes divaḥ as svatejasā dipyamāndā dyulokāt, "from the world of heaven illumined by its own splendour," i.e. by the deities residing there; rochane as agnibhir dipyamāne loke, and upame as samaye śmadiye yajne cha.
5. Indra, this Soma, effused for thee by the stones and mixed with milk, is offered auspiciously (in the fire) for thy exhilaration.

6. Indra, hear with favour my call; be present Varga II. at the drinking of this our libation mixed with milk, and be satisfied.

7. Whatever Soma has been poured into the cups and the bowls for thee, drink it, Indra,—thou art the sovereign.

8. Whatever Soma is seen in the vessels like the moon (reflected) in the waters, drink it,—thou art the sovereign.

9. Whatever Soma the hawk bore for thee with its feet, having won it, till then inviolate, from the (guardians of the) upper worlds, drink it,—thou art the sovereign.

---

1 The Soma-libations are poured from two kinds of vessels, the chamasas, i.e. cups, and the grahas, or saucers (here called chamu), cf. Haug, Ait. Br. transl. p. 118.

2 Sáma Veda, I. 2. 2. 8.

3 i.e. it is thus seen in the eight grahas. Sáyana gives another interpretation of apâu “in the waters” as antariksha “in the sky,” nirmalatayā, the Soma being likened to the moon for its purity.

4 This alludes to the legend given in the Taitt. Sanhitá, vi. 1. (cf. also Ait. Bráhm. iii. 25–27), which tells how the Gáyatri as a hawk brought the Soma from heaven. The portions which she seized with her feet became the morning and the midday libation, that which she seized with her bill became the evening libation.
Sūkta III. (LXXXIII.)

The Rishi and metre are the same as in the preceding hymn; the deities are the Viṣṇe devāḥ.

Varga III.

1. We solicit that mighty protection of the desire-raining deities in our own behalf, for our own help.¹

2. May those (deities) Varuṇa, Mitra, and Aryaman, be ever our allies and supremely wise helpers.

3. Charioteers of the sacrifice, do you conduct us through the many wide-spread (forces of our enemies)² as in ships across the waters.

4. Be wealth ours, Aryaman,—wealth worthy to be praised, Varuṇa; it is wealth which we ask.

5. Mighty in wisdom, repellers of enemies, ye are the lords of wealth; be not mine the wealth, Adityas,³ which belongs to sin.

Varga IV.

6. Bounteous deities, whether we dwell at home or go abroad on the road,⁴ we invoke you only to be nourished by our oblations.⁵

---

¹ Sāma Veda, I. 2. 1. 5. 4.

² Sāyaṇa's comm. is not quite clear, but I have taken it as in ii. 27. 7. If we omit the words na 'śmān (found only in B.) and take naḥ for asmākam, his interpretation will run, "conduct our (sacrifices) to completion through the many wide-spread (forces of our enemies)."

³ I think that na is omitted in the Comm. before prāṇaptu.

⁴ The Schol. explains this, "whether we remain at home to perform the agnihodra, etc., or go forth in the roads to collect fuel, etc."

⁵ Or "to enrich us with wealth."
7. 'Come to us, Indra, Vishnu, Maruts, and Adityas, from the midst of these your brethren.\(^3\)

8. Bounteous (deities), we forthwith proclaim aloud that brotherhood of yours in your mother's womb, (first) in common union, then as born in diverse manner.\(^3\)

9. Bounteous (deities) with Indra as your chief, be present here in your radiance; again and again I praise you.

Súkta IV. (LXXXIV.)
The deity is Agni; the Rishi is Uśanas the son of Kavi; the metre is Gāyatrī.

1. I praise Agni your most beloved guest, dear Varga.\(^4\) as a friend, who brings wealth as a chariot;

2. 'Whom the gods have set like a wise seer in a twofold function among mortals.\(^5\)

\(^1\) Yajur Veda, 33, 47. \(^2\) Sc. Mitra, etc.
\(^3\) This alludes to a legend partly given in Taitt. Sanhitá, vi. 5. 6. There Aditi is represented as offering a certain offering to the gods, and as conceiving four of the Adityas on eating the remainder which they gave to her. Thinking to conceive a still nobler offspring, she next eats the whole of the second offering herself, but she only conceives a barren egg. She then offers the third offering to the Adityas and conceives Vivasvat. But this legend says nothing of the birth of Pūshan and Aryaman as alluded to in the Scholiast.
\(^4\) Sáma Veda, I. 1. 1. 1. 5. II. 5. 1. 18. 1.
\(^5\) Sáma Veda, II. 5. 1. 18. 2, reading prāyāmeyam and iti for prachetatosam and adha.

\(^*\) Agni's two functions are the Gárhapatya and Aḥavanīya fires, or it may refer to his offices connected with the sacrifice in heaven and earth.
3. Ever-youthful (Agni), protect thy offerers, hear our praises, and thyself guard our offspring.¹

4. Divine Agni Angiras, son of food,² with what voice (shall I utter) my praise to thee, most excellent scion of enemies?³

5. Son of strength, what worshipper’s (offerings) shall we present to thee with devoted mind, and when shall I utter to thee this praise?⁴

6. Cause all our praises to bring to us excellent dwellings and abundance of wealth in food.⁵

7. Whose many offerings dost thou gladden, Agni,—thou who art the lord of the house,⁷ and whose praises bring wealth of kine?

8. They keep him bright in their houses, (Agni,) famed for glorious deeds, the mighty one who presses forward in battles.

³ Sāma Veda, II. 7. 2. 6. 1. For a different explanation of varāya manyate see viii. 82. 3.

⁴ Sāma Veda, II. 7. 2. 6. 2. Benfey translates kasya manasā yajnasya “mit welcher Feier Ersinnung?”

⁵ Sāma Veda, II. 7. 2. 6. 3.

⁶ Sāma Veda, I. 1. 1. 3. 14, with pariṇasi and satpate for pariṇasaḥ and dampatə.

⁷ Sāyaṇa takes dampatə as jāyōpatisvarāpa, since Agni abides in the gārhapatya fire, but cf. viii. 69. 16. The last clause may mean “whose praises are heard in the rite which brings wealth of kine.”
9. He who dwells at home with all-efficient protections, whom none can harm, but who himself harms (his enemies),—he, अग्नि, (thy worshipper,) waxes strong with heroic offspring.

Sूक्त ५. (LXXXV.)

The deities are the अश्विन्स; the ऋषि is कृष्णa of the family of अंगिरास; the metre is गद्यात्रि.

1. नसात्यास, अश्विन्स, come ye to my invocation, वarga भीि. that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

2. अश्विन्स, hear this my hymn, this my invocation, that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

3. कृष्णa invokes you, अश्विन्स rich in sacrifices, that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

4. Leaders (of all), hear the invocation of कृष्णa, the hymner, who praises you,—that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

5. Leaders, give to the sage who praises you an unassailable dwelling, that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

6. अश्विन्स, come to the house of the offerer who वर्गा भीि. thus praises you, that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

7. Ye who possess showering wealth, yoke the ass to your firmly-built chariot, that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.1

---

1 Yajur Veda, 11. 13, has part of this verse, but much of it is quite different. Sāyaṇa takes the verse as addressed to the अश्विन्स, Mahiḏhara as addressed to the adhvaryu priest and the sacrificer, or to the sacrificer and his wife.
8. Āświns, come hither with your three-seated\(^1\) triangular car, that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

9. Nāsatyas, Āświns, hasten quickly to my praises, that ye may drink the exhilarating Soma.

Sūkta VI. (LXXXVI.)

The deities are the same; the Rishi is Viśwāka the son of Kṛṣṇa, or Kṛṣṇa himself; the metre is Jagati.

Varga IX.

1. Dāstras, physicians, sources of happiness, ye both were (the objects) of Dakśa’s praise;\(^2\) Viśwāka now invokes you for the sake of his son; sever not our friendships,\(^3\) but fling loose (your reins and gallop hither).

2. How Viṃanas once praised you, and ye gave him understanding for the attainment of excellent wealth! Viśwāka now invokes you for the sake of his son; sever not our friendships, but fling loose (your reins and gallop hither).

3. Gladdeners of many, ye have given to Viśh-

\(^1\) For trivandhureṇa cf. i. 34. 9; i. 47. 2; viii. 22. 5, etc. Sāyaṇa continually vacillates in his interpretation; here he takes it as trīphalakāsamsaṅghatitena, “compacted of three pieces.” He also gives as a second interpretation of trīvīrd “defended by three sets of plates.”

\(^2\) This seems to allude to the thousand rīks uttered by Dakṣa or Prajāpati, i.e. the Āświna Śastra, which was won by the Āświns in a race, see i. 116. 2 (Comm.) and Ait. Brāhm. iv. 7.

\(^3\) Sc. as worshipper and the object of worship.
This prosperity for the attainment of excellent wealth; Viṣwaṅka now invokes you for the sake of his son; sever not our friendships, but fling loose (your reins and gallop hither).

4. We summon that hero to our protection, (the enjoyer) of wealth, the possessor of the Soma, who now dwells afar off and whose hymn is most pleasing (to the gods) like his father’s; sever not our friendships, but fling loose (your reins and gallop hither).

5. The sun-god by truth extinguishes his beams (in the evening); he spreads abroad (in the morning) the horn of truth; truth verily overcomes the might of the eager assailant; therefore sever not our friendships, but fling loose (your reins and gallop hither).

1 This is the name of the rishi’s son or grandson.
2 The Rishi here prays for the presence of his absent son Vishṇāpū. The Schol. only adds in explanation that “it is for the son to protect the father.”
3 Rijishin is generally an epithet of Indra and is always explained by Śāyāna as here, “possessor of the stale Soma” rījīka (cf. iii. 32. 1; 36. 10, etc.); but there is a word rījīka in i. 32. 6, applied to Indra, which Śāyāna there explains as “enemy-repelling,” and rijishin must have some such meaning here. The St. Petersburg Dict. always explains it in the Rig-Veda as “vorstürzend, erüelend.”
4 Śāyāna takes the stanza as a praise of truth, satya-praṣamed. He seems to explain the verse as implying that as the sun swerves not from his appointed course, and as truth or adherence to right conquers earthly foes, so the Aświns must fulfil the duties of ancient friendship and hear the rishi’s prayer.
Sūkta VII. (LXXXVII.)

The deities are the Aświns; the Rishi is Dyumnīka the son of Vasishtha or Priyamedha of the family of Āngiras or Krīṣṇa; the metre is Prāgāṭha.

Varga X.

1. Aświns, your praise is filled with plenty as a well (with water) in time of rain; hasten hither; it is especially dear to the Soma when it is effused in the brilliant (offering); drink, leaders (of rites), as two Gauras (drink) at a pool.

2. Drink, Aświns, the exhilarating (Soma) as it drops (into the vessels),—seat yourselves, leaders, on the sacrificial grass; rejoicing in the house of the worshipper, drink the sacred beverage with the oblation.

3. The worshippers have invoked you with all

---

1 i.e. it brings abundance to the worshipper. (In 89. 2, dyumnī is explained "glorious.") Another interpretation takes Dyumnī as for Dyumnīko, "Aświns, Dyumnīka is your praiser."

2 Cf. viii. 4. 3.

3 Gharma may also be taken for the earthen pot called makhā-vira, and signify the milk boiled in it. "Drink, Aświns, the exhilarating (Soma) and the milk."

4 Literally "in the house of the man" manuṣho duroṣe, i.e. the sacrifice which is as a home to the deities, cf. v. 76. 4.

5 Or this clause may mean "protect our lives together with our wealth."

6 Priyamedhāś, literally "those whose sacrifices are acceptable." The commentator also suggests that it may refer to the Rishi Priyamedha (viii. 68. 69), the plural being used as honorific.
your protections;¹ come in the early mornings to the dwelling of him who has clipped the sacred grass, to the offering loved (by all the gods).

4. Aświns, drink the exhilarating Soma, sit down in your radiance on the sacrificial grass; waxing strong (through the libation), come from heaven to our praises, as two Gauras to a pool.

5. Come, Aświns, with your glossy steeds; Das-ras, riding in golden chariots, lords of good fortune, upholders of truth, drink the Soma.

6. We, your wise praisers, invoke you to the enjoyment of the sacrificial viands; come quickly, Dasras, at the sound of our praise, Aświns, graceful in your movements, abounding in mighty deeds.

Śūkta VIII. (LXXXVIII.)
The deity is Indra; the Rishi is Nādhās of the family of Gotama;
the metre is Pragyātha.

1. ²We offer praise with our hymnus, as cows (low) Varga XI. to their calf in the stalls,³ to that handsome Indra of yours, (O priests), the overcomer of enemies, who rejoices in the excellent⁴ beverage.

¹ Or viśuddhir ātibhiḥ may mean “with prayers for all desirable blessings.”

² Yajur Veda, 26. 11. Sáma Veda, I. 3. 1. 5. 4; II. 1. 1. 13. 1.
³ Sáyana takes svanareshu in this sense, but he quotes Yāsaka
(Nir. v. 4) to show that the word may also mean “days.” (Cf.
Prof. Roth’s note in his edition, p. 56.) Sáyana takes it as ‘days’ in the first clause, “we praise thee in the days,” and ‘stalls’ in the second.

⁴ I take vasoh, or rather the gloss vásayītuḥ, as Sáyana explains it in vi. 16. 25.
2. 1We solicit the radiant bounteous (Indra), surrounded by powers as a mountain (by clouds), the supporter of many, 2—we solicit him) speedily for renowned 3 food, rich in cattle, and multiplied an hundred and a thousand fold.

3. The vast firm mountains cannot stop thee, Indra,—whatever wealth thou wouldst give to a worshipper such as I, none can hinder thee therein. 4

1 Śāma Veda, II. 1. 1. 13. 2.
3 Sāyaña's explanation of kshumantam is not clear, but he seems to take it as “causing praises by means of the children which it will produce,” sabdavantam, anena putrādikam lakṣhyate, stotradní kurvāṇam. Kshumantam vājam occurs in ii. 1. 10; 4. 8; and is there explained sabdavantam kirtimantam. (Grassmann explains it as ‘nahrungsreich.’) Sāyaña adds that another interpretation of the verse takes all the adjectives as agreeing with vājam. 4 Śāma Veda, I. 4. 1. 1. 4.
5 This seems the obvious meaning of the words ā tvāyaḥ arka ūtaye vavartati yam Gotamā ajījanam. But Sāyaña, holding the eternity of the Veda, explains the line, “this hymn (or this praiser) brings thee hither for their protection, whom they have made manifest (in their sacrifice).”

2 This is a certain Sáman, but here it means a mighty hymn.
3 That is, the Viśve deváḥ produced the sun for Indra by means of the Brihat Sáman. Mahidhara takes it as meaning that they produced Indra’s own wakeful radiance thereby.
4 Yajur Veda, 33. 95.
5 Sáyaṇa takes abhiṣastih as ‘injuries’ or ‘the injurers,’ sc. enemies. Mahidhara, as usual, takes it as ‘calumnies,’ abhipádpán.
6 Sáyaṇa explains yemire by tváṃ niyachchhanti, but Mahidhara more correctly preserves the middle meaning (cf. V. 32. 10), “the gods anxiously devote themselves to win thy friendship.” Cf. Sáyaṇa’s own explanation in viii. 98. 3.
3. Priests, utter forth the hymn to your great Indra; let Satakratu, the slayer of Vritra, smite Vritra with his hundred-edged thunderbolt.¹

5. Maghavan, who hast none before thee, when thou wast born for the slaying of Vritra, then thou didst spread abroad the earth, then thou didst prop up the heavens.³

6. Then was the sacrifice produced for thee, then too the joyous hymn; then didst thou surpass all, whatever has been or will be born.⁴

as men heat the Gharma with Sáman-hymns;¹ (sing) the acceptable Brihat-Sáman to him who is to be honoured by song.

Súkta X. (XC.)

The deity and Rishi are the same; the metre is Prágátha.

1. ²May Indra, who is to be invoked in all Varga XIII. battles, regard our hymns and our libations,—he, the slayer of Vritra, who crushes the mightiest (foes),³ who is worthy of his praise.

2. ⁴Thou art the chief giver of wealth, thou art truthful and makest thy worshippers rulers; we solicit (blessings) worthy of thee, lord of vast riches, mighty son of strength.⁵

² Sáma Veda, I. 3. 2. 3. 7; II. 7. 1. 2. 1, but with Indra and its adjectives in the accusative for the nominative, and bhúshata for bhúshatu, i.e. “(priests) honour Indra, etc.”

³ Paramajyáḥ also occurs in viii. 1. 30. Sáyaña’s first explanation is inadmissible, “he whose bowstring (jyá) is most excellent (páramá)” (cf. Wilson’s transl. vol. iv. p. 217); but he adds another, taken in the text, rightly connecting it with the root jyá, to which he gives the sense of hímád. (Benfey in his Dict. connects this root in the sense of ‘overpowering’ with bála, bídí.) The St. Petersburg Dict. explains it “die höchste Obergewalt habend.”

Sáma Veda, II. 7. 1. 2. 2.

Sáyaña obscurely explains this phrase, “son of strength,
3. INDRA, who art the object of hymns, unexaggerated praises are offered by us; lord of bay steeds, accept these fitting hymns, which we have meditated for thee.

4. Thou art truthful, MAHAVAN; unhumbled thyself, thou humblest many enemies; most mighty thunderer, cause wealth to meet thy worshipper.

5. Thou, Indra, lord of strength, art the glorious possessor of the offered Soma; alone with (thy thunderbolt), that protector of men, thou smitest the enemies that none else could oppose or drive away.

because produced as the cause of strength in order to destroy enemies” (cf viii. 92. 14). This strength, or victory through strength, is the final cause of his production or manifestation by the rite; and the final cause being then taken for the efficient, ‘strength’ may thus be called the father.

1 Anatidbhuta is an obscure word; Sáyána explains it sarván atikramya na bhavanti, indragnaparyapakámi yathárthabhútaámi. The St. Petersb. Dict. explains it “unübertroffen,” and derives it from atibhúta with an alliterative reference to adbhuta.

2 Yajna is also explained by Sáyána as stotra in i. 88. 5.

3 Sáma Veda, I. 3. 2. 1. 6; II. 6. 2. 12. 1, but with savasas pati for -pate, purv anuttas for anuttá, and charshánipdróiti for -dhritá.

4 Sáma Veda, II. 6. 2. 12. 2.

5 Asura is explained balavan práñavan.

6 This is Sáyána’s interpretation, following Yáská, Nir. v. 22. More probably it means “thy protection is as a vast cloak,” or “hide,” see Prof. Roth’s note in his edition.
Sókta XI. (XCI.)

The deity is the same; the Rishi is Apálá the daughter of Atri; the metre is Anushtubh, with the exception of the first two verses, which are Pankti.

1. A young woman going to the water found Varga XIV.

1 Sáyaṇa quotes a legend from the Śātyāyana Brāhmaṇa to illustrate this hymn. Apálá the daughter of Atri, being afflicted with a disease of the skin, was repudiated by her husband; she returned to her father's hermitage, and there practised penance. One day she went out to bathe, intending to make a Soma offering to Indra, and as she was returning, she found some Soma plants in the road. She gathered them and ate them as she walked. Indra, hearing the sound of her jaws, thought it was the sound of the Soma stones, and appeared to her, asking whether there were any Soma stones bruising there. She explained the reason of the sound, and Indra turned away. She called after him, "why dost thou turn away? Thou goest from house to house to drink the Soma, now then drink the Soma ground by my teeth and eat fried grains of barley." She then added, without paying him respect, "I know not whether thou art Indra, but if thou comest to my house I will pay thee due honour." Feeling however sure that it was really Indra, she addressed the latter half of the third verse to the Soma in her mouth. Indra then, falling in love with her, drank the Soma as she wished. She then triumphantly exclaimed (v. 4): "I have been repudiated by my husband and yet Indra comes to me." Indra then granted her a boon and she thus chose, "my father's head is bald, his field is barren, and my body is destitute of hair; make these things grow." Indra granted the three boons. For this hymn and legend, cf. Prof. Kuhn in Indische Stud. i. pp. 118, 119, and Prof. Aufrechte, òb. iv. 1-8; Grimm, in his Deutsche Myth. p. 1118-21, and Norddeutsche Sagen, p. 443.
Soma in the path; as she carried it home she said, I will press thee for INDRA, I will press thee for ŚAKRA.¹

2. Thou who goest from house to house a hero bright in thy splendour, drink this Soma pressed by my teeth, together with fried grains of barley, the karambhā,³ cakes, and hymns.

3. We wish to know thee, but here we know thee not. O Soma, flow forth for INDRA first slowly, then quickly.⁴

4. May (INDRA) repeatedly make us powerful, may he do abundantly for us, may he repeatedly make us very rich; often hated by our husband and forced to leave him, may we be united to INDRA.

5. These three places,—do thou cause them all to grow,—my father’s (bald) head, his (barren) field, and my body.

6. This field which is our (father’s), and this my body, and the head of my father,—do thou make all these bear a crop.⁵

The deity is the same; the Rishi is Śrutakṛṣṇa or Sukṛṣṇa of the race of Angirasa; the metre is Gṛytri, except in the first verse, where it is Anushṭubh.

1. "Sing, priests, that Indra, who drinks your Varga XV. offered beverage,—the foe-subduing Satakratu, most liberal of men."

2. "Proclaim that deity as Indra, who is invoked by many, who is praised by many, who is worthy of songs and renowned as eternal.

3. "May Indra who causes all to rejoice, be the

1 Sāyaṇa says that Indra dragged her through the wide hole of his chariot, the narrower hole of the cart, and the small hole of the yoke, and she cast off three skins. The first skin became a hedgehog, the second an alligator, the third a chameleon. I suppose, with Prof. Aufrecht, that the hole or space of the chariot and cart represents the opening between the four wheels; the hole of the yoke seems to me to mean the opening through which the animal's head passed, corresponding to Homer's ιεόρλην, II. 19. 406.

5. Loudly praise that Índra that he may drink the Soma,—it is this which gives him strength.

6. The god, having quaffed its exhilarations, by the strength of the divine (Soma) has conquered all worlds.

7. Bring hither for our protection Índra the conqueror of many, who pervades all your praises;

8. The warrior, whom none oppose and none can harm, the quaffer of the Soma, the leader whose deeds cannot be hindered.

9. O thou worthy of our praise, thou who knowest all things, repeatedly give us riches, protect us by the wealth of our enemies.

10. Come to us, Índra, from thence with food of an hundredfold strength, of a thousandfold strength.

³ This is a very obscure verse; Sáyaṇa follows the explanation given by Yáska, Nir. v. 18. The epithet patnivantaḥ "with their wives or protectresses" is said to allude to the two kinds of water, the Vasatvargyaḥ and the Ekadandhaḥ, used in the Soma offerings. (Cf. Ait. Bráhm. ii. 20.) At the time of the Avahṛitha, or concluding ceremonies of purification, the ritsa or stale Soma is thrown into the waters. The epithet níchumpanaḥ, which Yáska explains níchantena prīṇāti, is derived by Mahiddhara (Yajur V. 3. 48) from the root chup 'lentè incedere,' and similarly the St. Petersb. Dict. explains it 'schlüpfig.'

The deities are the Maruts; the Rishi is Vindu or Pútadaksha of the family of Angiras; the metre is Gāyatri.

1. ¹The cow (Pṛiṣṇi), the food-desiring mother of the wealthy Maruts, drinks (the Soma),—she is worthy of all honour, who yokes (the mares) to their chariots,

2. She, in whose presence all the gods observe their functions, and the sun and moon move in peace to enlighten the world.

² Sáma Veda, I. 3. 1. 1. 6.
³ Ribhukshaṇa was the eldest and Vája the youngest of the three brothers. The Ribhus have a share in the evening libation between Prajápati and Savitri, see Ait. Bráhm. iii. 30. This verse is addressed to the Ribhus in the evening libation on the ninth day of the Dwádaśáha ceremony (iš. v. 21).
⁴ Sáma Veda, 1. 2. 2. 1. 5.
⁵ Cf. i. 23. 10; ii. 34. 2, etc.
3. Therefore all our priests in their worship always sing the Maruts that they may drink the Soma.¹

4. This Soma is effused (by us); the self-resplendent Maruts drink of it, and the Āświns.²

5. Mitra, Aryaman, and Varuṇa drink (the Soma), purified by the straining cloth, abiding in three places,³ and granting posterity.⁴

6. Indra also is eager in the morning to drink this effused (Soma) mixed with milk, as a priest (to praise the gods).⁵

Varga XXIX. 7. When do the sages flash like waters across (the sky)? when do the Maruts, pure in vigour, destroyers of enemies, come to our offering?

² Sāma Veda, I. 2. 2. 3. 10; II. 9. 1. 8. 1. The construction would rather indicate that svardjaḥ is an epithet of asya (somasya), not of marutaḥ.

³ Sāma Veda, II. 9. 1. 8. 2.

⁶ Sāma Veda, II. 9. 1. 8. 3.
8. O shall I to-day possess your protection, mighty deities, beautifully bright in yourselves (though un-adorned)?

9. (We invoke) those Maruts to drink our Soma, who have spread out all the things of earth and the luminaries of heaven.

10. O Maruts, I invoke you, resplendent, of pure vigour, to drink this Soma.

11. I invoke those Maruts to drink this Soma, who have established heaven and earth.

12. I invoke that band of the Maruts, abiding in the clouds, the showerers, to drink this Soma.

Śūkta II. (XCV.)
The deity is Indra; the Rishi is Tiraschī of the family of Angiras; the metre is Anushūkh.

1. O Indra worthy of praise, when the Soma is Varga XXX. effused, our songs hasten to thee as a charioteer (to his goal); they low towards thee as cows towards their calves.¹

2. Indra worthy of praise, let the bright Soma-libations come to thee; drink thy portion of the beverage; Indra, in all places it is fit for thee.

3. Drink to thy fill, Indra, the effused Soma brought by the hawk,² thou art the lord of all the divine hosts,³ thou art the self-resplendent.

¹ Sāma Veda, I. 4. 2. 1. 8. ² Cf. i. 80. 2. ³ Sāyaṇa takes gāswatnāṁ with viṣām, as bahāṇaṁ marud-gaṇāṇāṁ sarveṣhāṁ devagaṇāṇāṁ cha.
4. Hear, Indra, the prayer of Tiraschi who worships thee, and satisfy him with wealth bringing gallant offspring and cattle,—for thou art mighty.¹

5. To him who has made for thee this newest joy-giving hymn, do thou, Indra, (extend) thine ancient truthful providence to which all hearts are known.²

Varga XXXI.

6. Let us praise that Indra whom our chants and hymns have magnified; we worship him, desirous to honour his many deeds of might.³

7. 'Come let us praise the purified Indra with a pure Sáman and with pure recited hymns; let the pure (Soma) mixed with milk gladden him waxing strong.⁴

8. 'Come to us, Indra, purified; purified with thy pure protecting hosts; purified establish wealth in us; purified and now worthy of the Soma, rejoice.

9. Purified, Indra, give us wealth; purified give

⁴ Sáma Veda, I. 4. 2. 1. 9; II. 6. 2. 9. 1, with sūddhaś in the second line for sūddha.

Sáyaṇa illustrates this and the following verses by a legend from the Sátyáyana Bráhmaṇa. Indra, after the slaughter of Vritra, being polluted by the guilt of Brahmanicide, begged the Rishis to purify him by their Sáman hymns. They accordingly said these verses and he became purified; and they then offered him the Soma, etc.

to thy worshipper precious things; purified thou smitest thy enemies; purified thou desirlest to give us food.\(^1\)

Súkta III. (XCVI.)

The deity of the hymn is Indra, except that in the last part of the fourteenth verse the Maruts and in the fifteenth Indra and Bháspati are addressed; the Rishi is Dyutána, the son of the Maruts, or Tisáchi; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the fourth verse, where it is Viráj.

1. For him the dawns prolonged their rising; for Indra the nights uttered auspicious voices by night;\(^2\) for him the waters, the mothers, the seven rivers, stood, offering an easy passage for men to cross over.

2. By him the thrower, unaided, were pierced asunder the thrice seven table-lands\(^3\) of the mountains heaped together; neither god nor mortal could do what he, the showerer, in his fullgrown strength has done.

3. Indra's iron thunderbolt is grasped firmly in his hand; enormous strength resides in his arms; when he goes forth (to battle) there is ample employment for his head and his mouth,\(^4\) and (his followers) rush near him to hear his commands.

\(^1\) Sáma Veda, II. 6. 2. 9. 3.

\(^2\) Sáyapa's explanation is, "All men read the Veda, etc., in the latter half of the night; therefore the voices of the night were auspicious; they studied the Veda under Indra's direction."

\(^3\) For this legend compare sukra, p. 150.

\(^4\) i.e. his head is employed in fitting the helmet, etc., and his eyes in seeing the enemy; and the mouth issues its various orders.
4. I think thee the most worthy among those worthy of sacrifice; I think thee the overthrower of the imperishable (mountains); I think thee, Indra, the banner of warriors; I think thee the showerer (of blessings) to men.

5. When, Indra, thou graspest in thine arms thy pride-humbling thunderbolt to smite Ahi, when the mountain-clouds loudly roar and the cows loudly bellow, then the Brahmanas offer their worship to Indra.

6. Let us praise that Indra who produced all these things, to him all beings are subsequent; may we maintain friendship with Indra by our hymns, let us bring the showerer (of blessings) near us by our praises.

7. "All the gods who were thy friends forsook thee, flying away at the snorting of Vritra; O Indra, let there be friendship to thee with the Maruts; then dost thou conquer all these hostile armies."

1 Sāyāna adds another interpretation "of the heroes not to be overthrown."

2 Another but less likely interpretation is "the manifest of thyself to thy worshippers."

3 The cows are the waters pent within the clouds.

4 Sāyāna explains brahmāṇah as "the Brāhmans," or as "the mountains, etc."

5 Sāyāna takes mitram as for maitrim; but he offers another interpretation, "let us say by our hymns 'may we be friends with Indra.'"

6 Sāma Veda, I. 4. 1. 4. 2.

7 Cf. Ait. Brāhm. iii. 20. The Maruts alone did not leave him.
8. These sixty-three Maruts\textsuperscript{1} were worthy of sacrifice, nourishing thy vigour like cows gathered together; we come to thee, do thou grant us our portion; so will we produce strength in thee by this offering.

9. Thy sharp bow, the host of Maruts, and thy thunderbolt who, Indra, has ever withstood? The Asuras are weaponless and abandoned by the gods, drive them away by thy discus, O Rjiśihin.\textsuperscript{2}

10. Send forth an excellent hymn to great (Indra), the strong, mighty, and most fortunate, (that he may prosper) my cattle; utter many praises to Indra who is borne by praise,\textsuperscript{3} may he speedily give much wealth to me.

11. Send forth thy praise to mighty Indra who is borne by hymns, as (a sailor sends a traveller) in a ship across the rivers; bring to me by thy rites that \textsuperscript{1} Trīḥ Śaśṭiḥ would properly mean ‘thrice sixty,’ but Śāyana takes it expressly as sixty-three, and explains it by adding that there were nine companies of the Maruts, each composed of seven. The White Yajur Veda, 17. 81–86 (cf. 39. 7), gives six companies of seven each; and Śāyana in his Comm. on Taitt. Saṃh. i. 5. 11, where he quotes ii. 2. 5, (saptagāṇa vasi Marutah) similarly gives the same number (42), but with apparently differing names; he adds however, “the other gāṇa is to be sought in another ākāhā.” Here he quotes five gāṇas from the Saṃhitā, iv. 6. 5; a sixth, he says, is found in a Khila or supplementary portion, and the three gāṇas remaining to make up the total of 63 he takes from the Taitt. Aranyaka, iv. 24, 25.

13. The swift-moving Krisna with ten thousand (demons) stood on the Amsumati; by his might Indra caught him snorting (in the water); he, benevolent to man, smote his malicious (bands).

1 Sama Veda, I. 4. 1. 4. 1, withmithiim nrmanad adhadrh as the last clause.

2 Sayaña illustrates this and the following verses by a legend that Indra, aided by Brihaspati and the Maruts, slew the asura Krisha, who with 10,000 other asuras had occupied the river Amsumati, which is said to be the Yamuna. He adds a different legend from the Brihaddevatas, which, however, not being declared by a rishi, is not to be implicitly received. (On this cf. Muller's remarks in Var. Lect.) This other account is to the effect that the Soma, being afraid of Vrtra, took refuge with the Kurus by the river Amsumati. Indra followed it with Brihaspati and the Maruts, and begged it to return. It however refused, and attempted to resist; but it was ultimately conquered and carried back to the gods, who drank it and in consequence vanquished the demons. Drapea is a common word for Soma, 'the dropping,' and can hardly mean 'swift-moving' as Sayaña takes it. Benfey refers the line to the cloud, taking Amsumati as the sunlight, 'In die Amsumati sinkt niedereilend, herschretend mit zehntausenden der schwarze.'
the river Aṃśumati, (I have seen) Kṛishṇa standing there as (the sun) in a cloud; I appeal to you, showerers; conquer him in battle."

15. Then the swift-moving one shining forth assumed his own body by the Aṃśumati, and Indra with Bṛhaspati as his ally smote the godless hosts as they drew near.

16. "As soon as thou wast born, Indra, thou wast Varga xxxv. an enemy to those seven who had no enemy; thou recoveredst the heavens and earth when concealed (in darkness); thou causest joy to the mighty worlds.

17. Thunderer, thou, the resolute one, didst smite that unrivalled might with thy bolt; thou destroyest Śūshna with thy weapons, thou recoveredst the cows, Indra, by thy wisdom.

18. Thou, showerer, wast the mighty destroyer of the hindrances of thy worshippers; thou didst set free the obstructed rivers, thou didst win the waters which the Dāsas had mastered.

19. He who noble in his exploits rejoices in the

1 This is Indra's speech to the Maruts. I suppose the simile means that, though the demon thinks to conceal himself, he is seen as clearly by Indra as the sun is behind a cloud.

2 Sāyaṇa explains adviṣa as "not shining, dark," or "not to be praised" (Virgil's "illaudati").

3 Sāma Veda, I. 4. 1. 4. 4.

4 Sc. Kṛishṇa, Vṛtra, Namuchi, Śambara, etc. Another interpretation is "thou wast an enemy to those who had no enemy, on behalf of the seven sages (the Angirasas), i.e. in order to recover their cows."
Soma-libations, he whose wrath cannot be repelled and who is wealthy as the days, he who alone performs the rites for his worshipper,—he, the slayer of Vṛitra, men say, is a match for all others.

20. Indra is the slayer of Vṛitra, the cherisher of men; let us invoke him, worthy of invocation, with an excellent hymn; he is Maghavan, our protector, our encourager, he is the bestower of food that brings fame.

21. As soon as he was born, he, Indra, the slayer of Vṛitra, the chief of the Ribhus, was worthy to be invoked; he, performing many sacred acts for men, is worthy to be invoked for his friends like the quaffed Soma-juice.

Sōkta IV. (XCVII.)
The deity is Indra; the Rishi is Rebha of the family of Kaśyapa; the metre of the first nine verses is Brihati, of the tenth and thirteenth Atijagati, of the eleventh and twelfth Uparishad-brihati, of the fourteenth Triṣṭubh, of the fifteenth Jagati.

1. Indra, lord of heaven, with those good things which thou hast carried off from the Asuras do thou prosper, O Maghavan, thy praiser and those who have spread for thee the clipped grass.

2. Those horses, those cows, that imperishable wealth which thou hast seized (from thy enemies),

1 Śāyāṇa adds "wealth is produced in the days, not in the nights."
2 Śāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 2. 2.
—bestow them on the sacrificer who offers the Soma and is liberal to the priests,—not on the niggard.

3. Let him, Indra, who sleeps away careless of the gods and offering no sacrifices,—let him lose his precious wealth by his own evil courses,¹ and then do thou stow him away in some hidden place.

4. Whether, Sakra, thou art in the far-distant region, or whether, slayer of Vritra, thou art in the lower,²—the sacrificer longs to bring thee, Indra, from thence by his hymns as by heaven-going³ steeds;

5. Or whether thou art in the brightness of heaven, or whether in some region in the midst of the sea, or whether, mightiest slayer of Vritra, in some abode in the earth, or whether in the firmament,—come to us.

6. Indra, drinker of the Soma, lord of strength, now that our Soma-libations have been effused, do thou gladden us with wholesome food⁵ and ample wealth.

² Sāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 3. 2.
³ Whether thou art in the heaven or in the firmament.
⁴ Sāyaṇa takes dyugat as an instrumental plural with its case-termination dropped. The St. Petersb. Dict. takes it as an adverb "durch den Himmel her."
⁵ Sūrīrāvata "truthful, right," is also explained "accompanied by truthful words;" Sāyaṇa adds that it really means "accompanied by children." It should rather be "gladden us with generous gifts."
7. Leave us not, Indra, but share our joy; thou art our protection, thou art our kindred; Indra, leave us not.¹

8. Sit with us, Indra, at the oblation to drink the Soma; Maghavan, perform a mighty protection for thy worshipper, (seated) with us at the oblation.

9. Thunderer, neither gods nor mortals equal thee by their acts; thou surpassest all beings by thy might, the gods equal thee not.

10. The assembled (priests) have roused Indra, the leader, the conqueror in all battles; they have created him (by their hymns) to shine,—him the mightiest in his acts, the smiter of enemies for spoil, the terrible, the most powerful, the stalwart, the furious.

11. The Rebhás have together praised Indra that he may drink the Soma; when (they praise) the lord of heaven that he may wax strong (by the oblations), then he, observant of pious rites, is united to his strength and his protecting guards.⁴

⁴ Sc. by the praises of the worshippers he acquires strength, and the Maruts are his guards.

13. Again and again I invoke the strong Indra, Maghavan, who alone really possesses might, the irresistible; may he draw nigh through our songs, most bounteous and worthy of sacrifice; may he, the thunderer, make all things prosperous for our wealth. 3

14. Indra, mightiest Sakra, thou knowest how to destroy those cities (of Sambara) by thy strength; at thee all worlds tremble, thunderer,—heaven and earth (tremble) with fear.

15. Indra, hero assuming many forms, may that truthfulness of thine protect me; bear us, thunderer, over our many sins as over waters; when, radiant Indra, wilt thou give us some wealth, desirable to all, manifold in its kinds?

Śūkta V. (XCVIII.)

The deity is Indra; the Rishi is Nṛimedha of the family of Āstreṣas; the metre is Uṣṇih, but in the seventh, tenth and eleventh verses it is Kakubh, and in the ninth and twelfth Para-ūṣṇih.

Varga I.

1. Sing a Sāman to Indra, a Brihat to the mighty sage, to the performer of religious rites, the all-knowing one who longs for praise.¹

2. Thou art the conqueror, Indra; thou hast lighted up the sun; thou art the maker of all, the lord of all the gods, the mighty.²

3. Thou hast pervaded the light of the sky, illumining heaven by thy splendour; the gods, Indra, submissively solicit thy friendship.

4. Come to us, Indra, beloved one, triumphant, and whom none can conceal—lord of heaven, vast on all sides as a mountain.¹

³ Sāma Veda, II. 3. 2. 22. 3.

5. Truthful drinker of the Soma, thou surpassest heaven and earth; O Indra, thou art the fosterer of him who prepares the libation, thou art the lord of heaven.²

6. Thou, Indra, art the stormer of many hostile cities, the slayer of the Dasyu, the fosterer of man,³ the lord of heaven.

7. Indra worthy of hymns, we send our earnest praises⁴ to thee as men going by water (splash their friends) with handfuls.⁵

8. As the lake (swells) with the rivers, so our praises, O hero, O thunderer, augment thee as thou growest more and more⁶ day by day.

⁵ Sáma Veda, I. 5. 1. 2. 8; II. 1. 1. 23. 1, with some variations.
⁶ Or “desires,” “prayers,” cf. i. 81. 8.
⁷ The schol. adds “in sport.” Sáyaṇa, in his Comm. on the corresponding phrase in the Sáma V. (not found in the Bibl. Ind. ed.), udeva gmanta udabhiḥ, explains it “as men going by the water, i.e. a river, or the waters, i.e. the sea (I read in Benfey’s quotation samudrālakṣahānaḥ), desire an eightfold gain.” Benfey translates it “wir sprengten dir, wie Wellen über Wellen gehn.”
⁸ Sáma Veda, II. 1. 1. 23. 2.
⁹ Sáyaṇa takes brahmāṇi vāvṛṣāṇamsam “swelling with our praises even more than the lake.”
9. (The priests) by their hymn yoke in the swift deity's huge broad-yoked chariot the two Indra-bearing steeds yoked at a word.

10. Indra, all-beholding Mahavan, bring us strength and wealth; (we solicit thee) the host-overpowering champion.3

11. Thou hast been our father, O giver of dwellings, thou our mother, O Satakratu; we pray for that happiness which is thine.

12. Mighty Satakratu, invoked by many, I praise thee desirous of offerings; do thou give us wealth.6

Sūkta VI. (XCIX.)

The deity and Rishi are the same; the metre Pragatha.

1. Thunderer, thy worshippers, ready with their oblations, have to-day and yesterday made thee drink (the Soma); listen, Indra, here to us who offer thee praise, and come thou to our dwelling.6

2. Handsome-jawed lord of steeds, rejoice (in the libation); we pray to thee, thy votaries come to

1 Sāma Veda, II. 1. 1. 23. 3, adding svar-viśā.
2 Sāma Veda, I. 5. 1. 2. 7; II. 4. 2. 13. 1.
3 So Sāyana, supplying tvām āyāchāmahe. The true construction is undoubtedly "bring us a host-overpowering champion," sc. a son.

thee; INDRA, worthy of praise, may thy food be a pattern and excellent.¹

3. ²As the gathering (rays) proceed to the sun, so (the MARUTS proceed) to INDRA, and by their power divide all his treasures among those who have been or will be born; may we meditate on our share.³

4. Praise him the bestower of wealth, whose gifts are never evil; INDRA’s gifts are fortunate; he directs his mind to the gift and mars not the desire of his worshipper.⁴

5. INDRA, thou conquerest in battles all opposing hosts; O opposer who beatest down those who would oppose, thou art the smiter of the wicked,

¹ Sáma Veda, II. 2. 1. 14. 2, with ukthya for ukthyd. Sáyana takes upamáni as upamána-bhútáni; it means rather ‘magnificent.’
² Sáma Veda, I. 3. 2. 3. 5; II. 5. 2. 14. 1, reading jâto janimáni and didhimáḥ. Yajur Veda, 33, 41.
³ This is an obscure verse and Yásaka’s interpretation (Nir. vi. 8) throws but little light. Sáyana gives another explanation, in which he takes bhakshata as=bhajata, and not as=vibhajante, ‘(O worshippers), as the gathering (rays) proceed to the sun, so do you enjoy all the wealth of Indra; and let us possess like an inheritance the treasures which by his power (he distributes) to him that has been or will be born.’ Mahídhara’s explanation seems much simpler and better, ‘the gathering (rays) proceeding to the sun distribute all Indra’s treasures (to living beings, sc. as rain, corn, etc.); may we too by our power leave those treasures as an inheritance to him who has been or will be born.’
⁴ Sáma Veda, II. 5. 2. 14. 2, with alaśhirātim for anarṣarātim.
the bringer (of evil to thine enemies), and the destroyer of all.¹

6. "Heaven and earth follow thy destructive energy as mothers their child; since thou smitest Vṛitra, all the hostile hosts, Indra, faint³ at thy wrath.

7. (Worshippers), summon hither for protection him who never grows old, the repeller (of enemies), himself never repelled, the swift conqueror, the driver, the best of charioteers, unharmed of any, the augmenter of water.⁴

8. We solicit for our protection Indra, the consecrator of others⁵ but himself consecrated by none, produced by strength,\(^1\) possessing an hundredfold protection, possessing hundredfold knowledge, a common deity to many, hiding treasures in his storehouse and sending wealth (to his votaries).

Sūkta VII. (C.)

The deity is Indra, except in the tenth and eleventh verses, where it is Vāch; the Rishi is Nema of the family of Bharīv, except in vv. 4, 5, where it is said to be Indra; the metre is Trīṣṭúbh except in the sixth verse, where it is Jagati, and in the seventh, eighth and ninth, where it is Anushṭúbh.

Varga IV.

1. I here go before thee\(^2\) with my son, the Viśve Devas follow after me; if, Indra, thou keepest wealth for me, then put forth thy strength on my side.\(^3\)

2. I offer the beverage of the exhilarating drink first to thee, let the effused enjoyable Soma be placed within thee; be thou a friend on my right hand, then will we two smite our many enemies.

3. Offer fervently, my war-loving companions, true praise to Indra, if he truly exists; Nema says "verily there is no Indra;" who has ever seen him? whom shall we praise?

anīśkrītam may perhaps illustrate the application of the term evṛtya to the supreme Being in Praśna Upan. ii. 11, cf. Śankara’s comm. “prathamajatvad ānanyaya samskartur abhāvad āsamāskrīto evṛtyaṁ tvam svabhāvata eva ṣuddhah.” Grassmann explains śkrītam anīśkrītam as ‘director, thyself undirected.’

\(^1\) Cf. viii. 90. 2.

\(^2\) Sāyaṇa adds “to conquer my enemies.”

\(^3\) i.e. if thou wisihest to give me the wealth of my enemies, come and help me to overcome them.
4. (Indra speaks) "Here I am, worshipper, behold me here; I overpower all beings by my might; the offerers of sacrifice magnify me by their praises; I, the shatterer, shatter the worlds.

5. "When the lovers of sacrifice ascended to me sitting alone on the back\(^1\) of my well-loved (firmament), then my mind verily proclaimed to my heart, 'my friends with their children are crying to me.'"

6. Verily all those deeds of thine, Maññavat, are to be proclaimed, which thou hast achieved for him who offers libations in the sacrifices; that wealth of Parávat,\(^2\) collected by many,\(^3\) thou hast opened to Sarabha, the kinsman of the Rishi.

7. Haste now severally forward; he is not here who stopped your way,—has not Indra let fall his thunderbolt in the very vitals of that enemy?\(^4\)

---

\(^1\) Haryatasya prishthe is explained by the Schol. as kántasya antarikshasya prishthe. Cf. Plato, Phædrus, ἐπὶ τῶν οὐρανῶν νύσσα.

\(^2\) Sáyaña only adds "a certain enemy so called." Párvata probably means "brought from afar."

\(^3\) Sáyaña takes puru-sambhritam adverbially (but perhaps only as an alternative rendering, see var. lect.); "that wealth of Parávat thou hast opened to Sarabha, so that it now is collected by many." He only adds that Sarabha was a Rishi.

\(^4\) I have ventured to give an independent version of this verse, as I do not quite understand Sáyaña's Comment. He apparently reads ni for the na of the second line, and seems to explain the verse: "that enemy who was running forward and stayed not apart and did not hinder you,—Indra has thrown (nyapipatat) his bolt in the vitals of that enemy."
8. Suparna, rushing swift as thought, passed through the iron city; then having gone to heaven he brought the Soma to the thunderer.¹

9. The thunderbolt lies in the midst of the sea, covered with the waters; (the foes) flying in front of the battle bring offerings of submission to it.

10. When Vāch, the queen, the gladdener of the gods, sits down (in the sacrifice) uttering things not to be understood, she milks water and food for the four quarters (of the earth); whither now is her best portion gone?²

11. The gods produced the goddess Vāch; her

¹ This alludes to the legend of the Gāyatrī as a bird fetching the Soma from heaven. Sāyaṇa explains dyaśim "iron" as hiraṇmayim "golden," in allusion no doubt to the other legend which represents the cities of the demons as made of iron on the earth, silver in the firmament, and gold in heaven (Ait. Brāhm. i. 28).

² Sāyaṇa quotes the Nirukta xi. 28, and explains Vāch here as the thunder (cf. viii. 69. 14); by the "best portion" he understands the rain, "which sinks in the earth or is taken up by the sun's rays." The verse appears to mean the same as Tennyson's lines in the "Talking Oak":

> "Low thunders bring the mellow rain > Which makes me broad and deep."

The sacrifice brings rain ushered in by thunder; and then it is asked "whither is the thunder gone now that it has passed?"

do animals of every kind utter; may she, Vách, the all-gladdening cow, yielding meat and drink, come to us, worthily praised.

12. O Vishñu my friend, stride forth lustily; O heaven, give room to contain the thunderbolt; let us smite Vṛitra, let us open the rivers; let them flow, set free, at the command of Indra.

SÚKTA VIII. (CII.)

The deities of the first four verses and part of the fifth are Mítra and Varuna; of the rest of the fifth and the sixth the Adityás, of the seventh and eighth the Aświns, of the ninth and tenth Váyu, of the eleventh and twelfth Súrya, of the thirteenth Usha or Súryaprabha, of the fourteenth Pavamána (Váyu), of the fifteenth and sixteenth the Cow. The Rishi is Jamadagni of the family of Bṛhaspati; the metre of the first, second, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth verses is Prágyátha; of the third Gáyatri; of the fourth Satobrihati; of the thirteenth Brihati; of the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth Trishûbha.

Varga VI.

\[ {\text{1 Súyána adds "whether their utterance be articulate or inarticulate."}} \]

\[ {\text{2 Súyána here quotes the following passage from the Brihaddevatá. "Vṛitra had enveloped the three worlds and stood there in his fierce energy; Indra could not conquer him, and he went to Vishñu and said, 'I will smite Vṛitra, do thou stride forth and stand by my side, and let the heavens give room for my uplifted thunderbolt.' Vishñu consented and did so, and the heavens gave an open space. All this is related in this verse."}} \]
the sacrifice, who brings quickly Mitra and Varuṇa to the offerer for the attainment of his desires.¹

2. Those two leaders of rites, great in might, far-seeing, resplendent, and most far-hearing, perform their deeds, like two arms,² by the help of the rays of the sun.

3. Mitra and Varuṇa, he who hastens to appear before you, becomes the messenger of the gods; he wears an iron³ helmet, he exults in his wealth.

4. He who has no pleasure in questioning, nor in repeated calling nor in dialogue,—defend us to-day from him and from his encounter, defend us from his arms.

5. O thou rich in offerings, sing to Mitra, sing to Aryaman, a reverential hymn produced in the sacrificial chamber;⁴ sing a propitiating address to Varuṇa; sing a hymn of praise to the kings.⁵

explanation, and gives it thus: “Verily that man who worships Mitra and Varuṇa for the attainment of his desires and the giving of oblations, becomes thereby perfectly tranquil and able to perform the sacrifice” ( ridhag devatātaye).
² Sāyaṇa adds, as an explanation, “that is, they obtain the sacrifice as the arms accomplish an object.”
³ Sāyaṇa says “golden,” as often elsewhere ( ayaś-pirshā).
⁴ Sāma Veda, I. 3. 2. 2. 3, with varūthyo for varūthyam.
⁵ Sāyaṇa explains varūthyam as yajnagrihe bhavam; the St.
Petersb. Dict. gives it as “Schutz gewährend.”
6. It was these who sent the red victory-giving\(^1\) Vasu,\(^2\) the one son of the three (worlds); they, the invincible, the immortal, overlook the abodes of men.

7. O associated Násatyas, come both of you to my uplifted glorious praises and my rites, come to partake of my offerings.

8. Deities rich in food, when we solicit your bounty, that (wealth) which demons cannot thwart,—then, helping\(^3\) our praise directed to the east, come, leaders of rites, worshipped by Jamadagni.

9. Come, Váyu, to our heaven-reaching sacrifice with its beautiful hymns of praise; this bright Soma has been kept for thee, poured out upon the middle of the straining cloth.\(^4\)

10. The ministrant priest comes\(^5\) by the straightest paths, he brings the oblations for thy enjoyment;

\(^1\) Elsewhere Sáyaña explains jénya when connected with vasu as jétavya, "what is to be conquered or won," cf. ii. 5. 1, vii. 74. 3; here he takes it actively as jayásddhanam. The St. Petersb. Dict. explains it as "edel von Abkunft, érválo, acht, wahr."

\(^2\) Sáyaña by his explanation vášakam seems here to take Vasu as for Vásum, sc. the Sun, as one of the Vásus, as he adds "they send him for the dispelling of the darkness of the three worlds." But it would be more natural to take it in its ordinary meaning 'wealth,' i.e. gold. "It was these who sent the red gold victory-giving," or "the reward of victory."

\(^3\) Perhaps rather "inspiring," cf. iv. 6. 1.

\(^4\) Yajur Veda, 33, 85.

then, lord of the Niyut steeds, drink of both kinds, the Soma pure and that mixed with milk.

11. Verily thou art great, O Sun; verily, Áditya, Varga VIII. thou art great; the greatness of thee, the great one, is praised; verily thou art great, O god.¹

12. Verily, O Sun, thou art great in fame; O god, thou art indeed mighty among the gods in might; thou art the slayer of the Asuras,² and the preceptor (of the gods); thy glory is widespread and to be marred by none.

13. She who was created beautiful and bright, bending downwards and receiving all praise, has been seen within (the world), like a brindled cow, advancing to the ten regions (spread out) like arms.

14. Three kinds of creatures went to destruction;

¹ Sáma Veda, I. 3. 2. 4. 4; II. 9. 1. 9. 1. with paníṣṭama mahñá for panasyate addhá. Yajur Veda, 33. 39.
² Sáma Veda, II. 9. 1. 9. 2. Yajur Veda, 33. 40.
⁴ This is explained to be Ushas, the dawn, or the light of the Sun.
⁵ This very obscure verse is explained in the Satapatha Bráhmaṇa, ii. 5. 1, which gives a legend to the effect that Prajápati desired to create, and after intense meditation produced in succession three kinds of creatures—birds, small snakes (sáterípa), and serpents; but they all died. He then reflected on the cause of the failure; and, perceiving it to be the want of nourishment, he caused milk to be produced in his own breasts. After this he the others came before Agni; the mighty one¹ (the Sun) stood within the worlds; (Váyu), the purifier, entered the quarters of the sky.

15. (She who is) the mother of the Rudras, the daughter of the Vasus, the sister of the Ádityas, the home of ambrosia,—I have spoken to men of understanding,—kill not her, the sinless inviolate cow.

16. The divine cow, who herself utters speech and gives speech to others,² who comes attended by every kind of utterance, who helps me for my worship of the gods,—it is only the fool who abandons her.

SÚKTA IX. (CII.)
The deity is Agni; the metre is Gáyatri; the Rishi is Pravoga of the family of Briigu or Agni Bárhaspatya or Pavaka, or one or both of the two Agnis, the sons of Sahas, called Gṛihapati and Yavishtha.

Varga IX.

1. Divine Agni, the ever young, the wise, the protector of the household, it is thou who givest abundant food to the worshipper.

2. Resplendent one, do thou, the all-knower, bring the gods hither with this our reverential hymn of praise.

created a fourth kind which were thus fed and lived. The 'others' are those which thus survived.

¹ 'The mighty one' is explained as the Sun. Sáyaña, however, adds that others (as, e.g. the Sátapatha Bráhmaṇa) take it as Prajápati.

² Sáyaña adds that men are silent while they are hungry, but begin to speak when they have eaten food.
3. O ever youthful one, with thee as our ally, the sender of wealth, we overcome (our enemies) for the attainment of food.

4. ¹Like Aúrya Bhṛigu² and like Apnavána,³ I invoke the pure Agni, dwelling in the midst of the sea.⁴

5. I invoke Agni dwelling in the midst of the sea, the wise one, roaring like the wind, mighty, with a voice like Parjanya’s.

6. I invoke Agni dwelling in the midst of the Varga X. sea, like the energy⁵ of Savitri, like the enjoyments granted by Bhaga.⁶

7. ⁷(Draw) near to Agni the strong, the mightiest,

¹ Sáma Veda, I. 1. 1. 2. 8.
² For the legend of Aúrya, the descendant of Bhṛigu (he is sometimes called the son, sometimes the grandson, and sometimes only the descendant), see Muir’s Sanskrit Texts, i. 447, 476. He became the submarine fire. Benfey takes Aúrvabhrigu as a dwandwa compound, “like Aúrya and Bhṛigu.”
³ We have Apnavána mentioned as one of the Bhṛigu in iv. 7. 1.
⁴ Sáyaṇa explains samudravásasam by samudramadhyavartinam. It should properly mean “clothed or hidden by the sea.”
⁵ Sáyaṇa only explains sarasavat by prerakasya devasya prasavam, but cf. viii. 100. 12.
⁶ Sáyaṇa only explains Bhagasyevait bhuyim by Bhagákhyasya devasya bhogam iva. The St. Petersburg Dict. explains bhuyi “Gewährung von Genuss, Gunst,”—i.e. “like the favour of Bhaga.”
him who expands (with his flames), the grandson of the invincible ones.¹

8. (Draw near) that he may deal with us as a carpenter deals with the timber he has to cut; may we become renowned by his skill.²

9. Among the gods Agni has to do with all the successes (of men); may he come to us with abundance of food.³

10. Praise at our rite Agni, the most glorious of all ministrant priests, the foremost in the sacrifices.

11. (Praise him) the dweller in the sacrifice, of purifying radiance, who shines, the chief of the gods and omniscient, in the houses (of the sacrificers).

12. O priest, glorify him, who is welcome and strong as a horse, and who like a friend conquers all our foes.⁴

13. The sister praises of the worshipper rise to thee, proclaiming thy glories; they stand kindling thee in the presence of Vāyu.⁵

² Sāma Veda, II. 3. 1. 20. 2.

³ Sāma Veda, II. 3. 1. 20. 3.

⁴ The St. Petersburg Dict. explains ydtaṣṭṣṭjanam "die Leute vereinigend."

⁵ Sāma Veda, I. 1. 1. 2. 3; II. 7. 2. 14. 1.

14. 'The waters find their place in him, for whom the triple-jointed grass is spread unlimited and untied (in the sacrifice).

15. 'Auspicious is the place of the god who pours forth all desires with his inviolable protections; auspicious is his appearance like the Sun's.

16. Divine Agni, blazing with radiance, through Varga XII. our oblations of ghat, bear (our sacrifice) to the gods and offer it.

17. The gods, as mothers, have borne thee Angiras, the seer, the immortal, the bearer of the oblation.

18. The gods seat thee in thy place, O wise Agni, the seer, the messenger, the most excellent, the bearer of the oblation.

19. No cow is mine, and no axe is at hand to cleave wood, but yet I bring both these to thee.

20. 'Most youthful (Agni), when we offer any kinds of timber to thee, do thou accept them all.'

1 Sáma Veda, II. 7. 2. 14. 2.

2 The waters rest in Agni, who abides as lightning in the firmament.

3 Sáyaña does not explain tridhatu, but in the Sáma Veda he explains it by trparvan. He adds that the sacred grass is not tied in bundles in the sacrifice.

4 Sáma Veda, II. 7. 2. 14. 3. 5 For nishedre cf. iv. 7. 5.

6 This is partly found in Yajur Veda, 11, 73.

7 Sáyaña here quotes a passage from the Taittiriya Samkh. v. 1. 10, to the effect that in ancient times they only offered to Agni wood cut with the axe, until the rishi Prayoga by this verse caused him to accept wood blown down by the wind or by other accidents.
21. Whatever timber the ant has gnawed, whatever the emmet has infested,—may it all be welcome to thee as gñhī.¹

22. Let a man, when he kindles Agni, perform the ceremony with a (devout) mind; he kindles him with the priests.²

SÅUKÅ X. (XII.)
The deity is Agni, who is associated with the Maruts in the last verse; the Rishi is Sbrñhári of the family of Kaññá; the metre of the first four verses and the sixth is Bñháti, of the fifth Virñádrñápá, of the seventh, ninth, eleventh, and thirteenth satbdriñháti, of the eighth and twelfth kákuñh, of the tenth hrañññásti, of the fourteenth anuññññhá.

Varga XIII. 1. ³He, in whom they offer the sacrifices, has appeared,—he who knows all ways; our praises rise to Agni, auspiciously born, the helper of the Árya.⁴

³ Sáma Veda, I. 1. 1. 5. 3; II. 7. 1. 11. 1, with nakñññhántu for nakñññhánta.
⁴ Árya here seems to mean the member of the Aryan race as opposed to the non-Aryan. Sáyñña explains it by utññnañca, a man of the highest caste.
⁵ Sáma Veda, I. 1. 1. 5. 7; II. 7. 1. 11. 3, with deva Indññáñ for deván aññññhá, and śarññññi for sánññvi.
⁶ This is an obscure verse, and Sáyñña does not explain it at all clearly. The Sáma Veda text takes na not as a negative,
3. Since men tremble before those who perform the sacred sacrifices, therefore do ye devoutly worship in the solemn rite Agni the bestower of thousands of kine.¹

4. Agni, bestower of dwellings, that mortal whom thou wishest to lead to wealth, and who gives offerings to thee, possesses of himself a strong son, a reciter of hymns and a lord of great wealth.²

5. Lord of vast wealth, he (thy worshipper) spoils with his steed food laid up even in strongholds, he possesses imperishable wealth; in thee divine we ever possess all desirable treasures.

6. To him the invoker of the gods, who ever varga XIV. rejoicing distributes all wealth to men,—to Agni proceed our praisés like the principal cups of the exhilarating Soma.³

7. The liberal worshippers with their hymns honour thee harnessed to the car like a horse;⁴

our guest, the giver of dwellings, praised by many,—(Agni) who is the excellent invoker of the gods, who offers an excellent sacrifice.

13. Agni, giver of dwellings, let not those come to harm, who approach thee in whatsoever manner with hymns of praise; the worshipper who offers his libation and duly performs the rite praises thee that thou mayst be the bearer of the sacrifice.

14. Agni, who hast the Maruts as thy friends, come with the Rudras to drink the Soma; come to the praises of Sobhari; delight thyself at our solemn rite.

Mandala IX.

Anuvaka I.

Ashtaka VI. Continued.

Sūkta I. (I.)

The Rishi is Maduchchhandas, of the family of Viśwāmitra, the deity, as of the entire ninth Mandala (except hymn 5 and part of hymns 66 and 67) is Soma Pavamana; the metre is Gāyatrī.

1. Flow, Soma, in a most sweet and exhilarating varga XVI. stream, effused for Indra to drink.¹

¹ Sāma Veda, I. 5. 2. 4. 2; II. 1. 1. 15. 1. Yajur Veda, XXVI. 25.
2. ¹The all-beholding destroyer of Rákshasas has stepped upon his gold-smitten birthplace,² united with the wooden cask.

3. Be the lavish giver of wealth, most bounteous, the destroyer of enemies; bestow on us the riches of the affluent.³

4. Come with food to the sacrifice of the mighty gods, and bring to us strength and sustenance.

5. To thee we come, O dropping (Soma); for thee only is this our worship day by day, our prayers are to thee, none other.

Varga XVII.

6. The daughter of the Sun purifies thy gushing streams through the eternal outstretched hair.⁴

¹ Sáma Veda, II. 1. 1. 15. 2. Yajur Veda, XXVI. 26, with ayohate drone for ayohatam druṇā.

³ Sáma Veda, II. 1. 1. 15. 3.

⁴ The daughter of the Sun is explained as śraddhá, “faith,” according to the text of the Vája-saneyins, “Verily śraddhá is the daughter of the Sun, she purifies him.” The hair is the hair-sieve used for straining the soma juice.
7. The ten sister-fingers seize thee in the sacrifice, on the final day (of the oblation).¹

8. The fingers press the Soma, they squeeze it glittering like a water-skin; its juice becomes threefold,² enemy-averting.

9. The inviolable kine mingle this fresh Soma with their milk for Indra to drink.

10. In the exhilaration of this draught the hero Indra smites all his enemies and bestows wealth (on his worshippers).

Súkta II. (II.)

The Rishi is Medhātithi of the family of Kaṇwa; the deity and metre as before.

1. Flow on, Soma, seeking the gods, hastening Varga XVIII. on in thy purifying course; enter Indra, O Indu, the showerer.³

2. O Indu, do thou, the mighty showerer (of blessings), most glorious Upholder, send us food, and sit down in thine own place.⁴

3. The stream of the effused creative Soma milks

out the joy-giving ambrosia; the accomplisher of holy rites veils itself in the waters.

4. (Soma), when thou wilt veil thyself in the milk, the mighty streaming waters flow to thee, the mighty one.

5. The juice-distilling Soma, the sustainer, the supporter of heaven, is purified in the water,—favouring us, (it is poured) into the straining cloth.

6. "The mighty golden-hued showerer of blessings utters a sound as it drops, beautiful as a friend; it shines (in the heavens) with the sun.

7. O Indu, by thy power the busy voices are hallowed which adorn thee as thou droppest for our exhilaration.

8. We ask thee for exhilaration, thee the giver of the highest world to thy foe-crushing worshipper,—great are thy praises.

---

1 Sāma Veda, II. 4. 1. 3. 3. Sāyaṇa explains the last clause as referring to the Vasāṭivāri water with which the Soma plants are sprinkled.

2 Sāma Veda, II. 4. 1. 3. 4.

3 Sāma Veda, II. 4. 1. 3. 5.

4 Sāma Veda, I. 6. 1. 2. 1; II. 4. 1. 3. 6, reading didyute for rochate.

5 Mitro no, which Sāyaṇa explains as yathā sakhd. Benfey takes it "wie Mitra wunderbar, glänzend."

6 Sāma Veda, II. 4. 1. 3. 7, but with Indra for Indo.

7 Sāma Veda, II. 4. 1. 3. 8, but with praṣastaye maha for praṣastayo mahiḥ.
9. Indu, do thou, longing for Indra, stream upon us with a shower of ambrosia, like a raining cloud.¹
10. Indu, thou art the giver of kine, of children, of horses, and of food; thou art the primeval soul of the sacrifice.²

Sûkta III. (III.)
The Rishi is Sunahsepa, the son of Ajigarta; the deity and metre as before.

1. This divine immortal (Soma) hastens as a bird varga XX. to settle on the sacrificial vessels.³

2. This divine (Soma), expressed by the fingers, and dropping inviolable, rushes against the enemies.⁴

3. This divine (Soma), as it drops, is adorned (with hymns) by the sacrifice-desiring priests as a horse for battle.⁵

4. This strong one, as it drops, seems to encompass all desirable things with its power and seeks to bestow them upon us.⁶

5. This divine (Soma), as it drops, prepares its chariot (to come to us); it flings us our boons, it utters a sound.⁷

⁷ Sâma Veda, II. 5. 2. 2. 4.
6. This divine (Soma), praised by the priests and giving wealth to the worshipper, plunges into the waters.¹

7. Making a sound as it drops in a continued stream, it rushes across the worlds into heaven.²

8. As it drops, completing the sacrifice, it passes across the worlds inviolable to heaven.³

9. Divine and expressed for the gods by an ancient birth, the golden-hued (Soma) flows into the straining-cloth.⁴

10. Produced at our rite and producing abundant food, the Soma, efficacious in sacrifices, flows effused in a stream.⁵

SÚKTA IV. (IV.)
The Rishi is HIRANYASTÚPA of the family of ANGIRAS; the deity and metre are the same.

Varga XXII. ⁶

1. "Pure-dropping (Soma), bounteous food, welcome (the gods at our rite) and overcome (the demons); and make us happy.

2. "Soma, give us brightness, give us heaven, give us all good things; and make us happy.

6. "By thy wisdom and thy protections may we long behold the sun; and do thou make us happy.

7. "Bright-weaponed Soma, shower upon us wealth abundant for both worlds; and make us happy.

8. "O thou who art unvanquished in battle, smiter of enemies, shower wealth upon us, and make us happy.

9. Pure-dropping (Soma), they glorify thee with the holy rites for their own upholding;" make us happy.

10. "Indu, bring to us varied wealth, abundant in horses and all-reaching; and make us happy.

ŚUTA V. (V.)
The deities in this hymn are the Aṁris other than Narāśansa;¹ the Rishi is Asita or Devala of the family of Kaśyapa; the metre is Gāyatrī, except in the last four verses, where it is Anushṭubh.

Varga XXIV.

1. The pure-flowing (Soma) shines forth in its brightness, the universal lord,—the showerer of blessings, the rejoicer, uttering a loud sound.²

2. The pure-flowing Tanūnapāt,³ rushes sharpening its splendour on the height and hastens through the sky.⁴

3. The pure-flowing bright (Soma), the bounteous giver, worthy of all praise, shines forth in its might with the streams of water.

4. The bright golden-hued pure-flowing one rushes in its might, strewing the sacred grass in the sacrifice with its points towards the east.

5. The bright golden doors, praised by the priests together with the Soma, rise up from the vast horizon.

³ Sāyaṇa explains Tanūnapāt as a name of Soma, according to the text, adbhyo 'nāvoc jāyante, tatoḥ soma jāyate, "from the waters are born beams, from these is born Soma."
⁴ i.e. according to Sāyaṇa, to the dronakalasa, according to the text "he takes the Agrayāma libation with two streams."
6. The pure-flowing (Soma) longs for the fair-formed wide-reaching mighty Night and Dawn not yet visible.

7. I invoke the two divine priests, the two deities who behold men—the pure-flowing (Soma) is radiant\(^1\) and the showerer (of benefits).

8. May the three beautiful goddesses, Bháratí, Saraswáti, and mighty Ilá, come to this our offering of the Soma.

9. I invoke Tváshtri, the first-born, the protector, the leader; the golden-coloured pure-flowing Indu is Indra, the showerer, the lord of all creatures.

10. Pure Soma, consecrate with thy streaming ambrosia the green bright golden-hued Vanáspati with its thousand branches.

11. O all ye gods, come together to the consecration of the Soma,—Váyu, Vṛiháspati, Súrya, Agní, and Indra.

Súkta VI. (VI.)

The Rishi is the same; the deity is Soma Pavamána; the metre is Gáyatri.

1. \(^2\)Soma, who art the showerer (of benefits), devote to the gods, favourable to us, flow with thy exhilarating stream into the woollen sieve.

---

\(^1\) So Sáyana, but most probably this is an identification of Soma Pavamána with Indra, just as in the next verse Indu (i.e. Soma) is identified with Indra.

\(^2\) Sáma Veda, I. 6. 1. 10, with aryá várobhiṣ.
2. Indu, do thou, as sovereign,\(^1\) effuse that exhilarating juice, and pour forth vigorous steeds.

3. Rain out through the filter, while pressed, that ancient exhilarating fluid, and pour us forth strength and food.

4. The quickly-falling drops, as they filter, follow Indra and reach him, like waters rushing down a declivity.

5. That which sporting in the wood and spurting beyond the sieve, the ten sisters\(^2\) press, as (men rub down) a strong horse,—

6. That desire-showering liquor, effused for the drink of the gods and for our exhilaration,—mix with milk for prowess in battle.

7. The divine Soma, when effused, flows to the divine Indra in a stream, since its milk fattens\(^3\) him.

8. The soul of the sacrifice, the effused Soma, flows with speed bringing blessings, and maintains his ancient seer-hood.

9. Most exciting (Soma), devoted to Indra, as thou pourest forth the exhilarating juice for his drinking, thou emittest sounds\(^4\) in the secret (hall of sacrifice).

\(^1\) Literally "as Indra," i.e. acting as sovereign.

\(^2\) The ten fingers, as in IX. 1. 7.

\(^3\) Sāyāṇa derives the reduplicated form pīpayat from the causal of pyai; but the St. Petersb. Dist. derives it from pi, "its milk swells."

\(^4\) This refers to the uparavas or round "sounding-holes," which are dug in the ground, and over which the two boards, used for Sókta VII. (VII.)
The Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. The excellent streams (of the Soma), feeling a union with Indra, flow forth in the ceremony by the path of sacrifice.

2. That which is to be praised as the oblation among oblations is immersed in the great (holy) waters, the stream of honey, the pre-eminent.

3. The pre-eminent (Soma), the showerer of benefits, the truthful, the indestructible, utters continuous sounds, in the water, towards the sacrificial hall.

4. When the seer (Soma), wearing ample treasures, goes round the praises (of his worshippers), then the mighty (Indra) in heaven is eager to repair to the oblation.

5. When the priests excite it, the flowing Soma like a king destroys opposing (demons and) men.

pressing the Soma, are placed. These holes are said to deepen the sound of the stones with which the boards and Soma-shoots are beaten. See Kátyáyana's Sútras, VIII. 4. 28. Guhá chid đadhishe giraḥ might mean "thou storest praises in secret."

1 The whole of this hymn is found in Sáma Veda, II. 4. 2. 2. 1-9, but with many verbal alterations.

2 Literally "with him," asya, the Schol. supplies Indrasya.

3 i.e. the vasatīvāri water, cf. Haug's Aitareya Brdhmana, transl. pp. 115, 489.

4 Sáyana takes pra dhárd (sio in pada) agrīyaḥ as dhárd mukhydh prapatanti "the pre-eminent streams fall down." Dhárd and agrīyaḥ however must be nominatives singular.
Varga XXIX. 6. The green-tinted (Soma), dear to the gods, commingled with the water, sits down upon the woollen sieve; uttering a sound it is greeted by praise.

7. He who is assiduous in the functions of (providing and preparing) the Soma, goes with exhilaration to Váyu, Indra, and the Aświns.

8. The streams of the sweet Soma flow to Mitra and Varuṇa and to Bhaga; the worshippers knowing its (virtues are rewarded) with happiness.

9. Heaven and earth, for the acquisition of this exhilarating Soma food, win for us wealth, food, and treasures.

Sókta VIII, (VIII.)

The Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga XXX. 1. These Soma juices distil the dear desire of Indra, increasing his vigour.

2. Pure-flowing, filling the ladles, and proceeding to Váyu and the Aświns, may they sustain our energy.

3 Soma, pure-flowing, desired for the gratification of Indra, do thou impel him to sit in the place of sacrifice.²

¹ The whole of this hymn is found in the Sáma Veda, II. 5. 1. 2. 1–9, but with vv. 8, 9, transposed.

² Sáyaṇa explains hardi as abhilashītaḥ, but this is clearly wrong, as he explained it by hridayam in VIII. 79. 8. It should rather be "Soma, pure flowing for Indra's gratification, do thou stir his heart to sit in the place of sacrifice."
4. The ten fingers strain thee, the seven priests¹ caress thee, the worshippers gladden thee.²

5. As thou streamest on the water³ and the woollen sieve, we wrap thee up with milk for the exhilaration of the gods.

6. Purified in the pitchers, radiant, and green- Varga XXXI. tinted, the Soma puts on the raiment derived from the cow.

7. Flow to us, thy wealthy (worshippers); destroy all our enemies; INDU, enter thy friend.⁴

8. Pour down rain from heaven, and abundance upon the earth; uphold our strength, Soma, in battles.

9. (Adoring) thee, the contemplator of men, the beverage of INDRA and the knower of all things,⁵ may we be blessed with progeny and food.

Sūkta IX. (IX.)
The Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. "The seer (Soma) having wise designs, when

¹ So Sāyaṇa, but rather "the worshippers follow thee exulting."
² So Sāyaṇa explains sapta dhitayah (cf. IX. 9. 4.); but in IX. 62. 17, he takes it as meaning "the seven metres." The St. Petersb. Dict. explains it as "die vielen Andachtsübungen oder Gebetsformen beim Soma-Werk."
³ Sāyaṇa takes kam as meaning "water," but it is no doubt an adverb here, "surely," with a very weakened force.
⁴ i.e. Indra, according to Sāyaṇa.
⁵ Or "the knower of heaven."
⁶ Sāma Veda, I. 5. 2. 4. 10; II. 3. 1. 16. 1, with svānāh for svānāḥ.
placed between the two boards¹ and effused, proceeds to the stones² which are most dear to heaven.

2. ²Go forth in a most abundant stream, ample for his sustenance, to the guileless man, thine owner, who praises thee.

3. ⁴That mighty and pure son, when born, illumines his mighty parents (heaven and earth), the progenitors (of all things), the augmenters of the sacrifice.⁵

4. Effused by the fingers, (Soma) gladdens the seven guileless rivers, who have magnified him one and undecaying.

5. INDRA, at thy worship, they (the fingers) have provided the present, indestructible, and ever-youthful Indu for thy solemn service.

¹ Literally "between the two grand-daughters," nāptyoḥ. Terms of relationship are often used in the Veda to express material objects, thus "the sisters" are the fingers, etc. Sāyaṇa interprets the term of the two boards used in pressing the Soma; but the St. Petersb. Dict. explains it much more plausibly as "the two hands."

² This is a very doubtful meaning of vayāṇa. The line probably should be rendered, "the seer is placed between the hands as a most dear banquet to heaven; the knower of the past (or the wise in sacrifice) goes forth effused."

³ Sāma Veda, II. 3. 1. 16. 3. ⁴ Sāma Veda, II. 3. 1. 16. 2.

⁶ Sāyaṇa here separates sapta from dhitiḥsiḥ and connects it with nadyah, cf. IX. 8. 4.
6. The immortal bearer (of the oblation), the conveyer (of content to the gods), beholds the seven rivers,—full as a well, he has satisfied the divine streams.

7. Protect us, manly Soma, in the days of sacrifice;\(^1\) purifier, destroy those powers of darkness against which we must contend.

8. Quickly speed on the road for our new praiseworthy hymn; as of old display thy radiance.

9. Purifier (Soma), thou grantest us abundant food with male offspring, and cattle and horses; give us understanding, give us all (we desire).

Śākta X. (X.)

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. \(^2\)Longing for food the Soma-juices, uttering a sound like chariots or like horses, have come for the sake of riches.\(^3\)

2. Coming like chariots (to the sacrifice), they are upheld in the arms (of the priests) as burdens (in the arms) of labourers.

3. The libations are anointed with milk as kings

---

\(^1\) Śāyāṇa explains kalpeshu as kalpaniyeshv-ahāṣu, "in the days which have to be reckoned." The St. Petersb. Dict. takes it as "in our rites."

\(^2\) Śāma Veda, II. 4. 2. 1. 4-6.

\(^3\) Śāyāṇa takes travasyavah as an epithet of Somásah, "desiring to seize food from their enemies;" it should rather be taken with avantah, and be translated "or like glory-seeking steeds."
with praises, and (tended) as a sacrifice by seven priests.

4. The Soma-juices, when poured forth, are effused with loud praise, and proceed in a stream to excite exhilaration.

5. The beverages of Vivasvat and producing the glory of the dawn, the issuing juices spread their sound.

Varga XXXV. 6. The old makers of hymns, men the offerers of the Soma, throw open the doors (of the sacrifice).

7. The seven associated ministers like so many kinsmen, filling the receptacle of the single (Soma), sit down (at the sacrifice).

8. I take into my navel the navel of the sacrifice,

---

1 Sáma Veda, I. 5. 2. 5. 9; II. 4. 2. 1. 7.
2 Sáma Veda, II. 4. 2. 1. 8-12.
3 Sáyaṇa takes Vivasvat as here meaning Indra. He also explains āpādāraḥ as āpānabhūtāḥ, but it is rather the perfect part of āp, and we should supply bhagam. I would translate the verse, “Having obtained the glory of Vivaswat, and producing that of the dawn, the sun-bright juices distend the interstices (of the cloth).”

4 Sáyaṇa here explains aṇcam vitanvate by śabdam kurvanti, but elsewhere he explains aṇva as the small holes of the filtering cloth.

5 It seems better to take dwdrd with matindm “the ancient poets (poṣṣyai) throw open the doors of their hymns.”

6 “The navel of the sacrifice” is the Soma, cf. IX. 73. 1; and “the offspring of the sage” is the graḥa or soma-vessel called aṇśu. Aṇśu might mean “filament,” or perhaps it should be read aṇsām, cf. 12. 5.
my eye becomes associated with the sun,¹ I fill the offspring of the sage.

9. The powerful (Indra) looks with the eye of his own resplendent self on the acceptable place of the Soma, fixed by the priests in the heart.²

Sókta XI. (XI.)

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. ³Sing, leaders of rites, to this pure-flowing Indu, who is desirous of offering worship to the gods.

2. The Atharvans⁴ have mixed with sweet milk⁵ for the deity (Indra) thy divine and god-devoted (juice).

¹ Sáyaṇa adds, “Since we have drunk the Soma,” but he gives no further explanation.

⁵ Sáyaṇa takes payaḥ as instrumental. It should be “have mixed milk with thy juice.”
3. Radiant (Soma), do thou pour prosperity upon our cattle, upon our people, upon our horses, and upon our plants.

4. Recite praises to the brown-coloured self-vigorous red heaven-touching Soma.

5. Purify the Soma which has been effused by the stones whirled by the hands; mix the sweet (milk) in the inebriating juice.

6. Approach with reverence, mix (the libation) with the curds, offer the Soma to Indra.

7. Soma, slayer of our enemies, the wise one, the fulfilfer of the desires of the gods, do thou shed prosperity on our cattle.

8. Soma, who art cognizant of the mind, lord of the mind, thou art poured forth for Indra to drink for his exhilaration.

9. Pure-dropping Soma, grant us wealth with excellent male offspring,—grant it to us, Indu, with Indra as our ally.

Sūkta XII. (XII.)

Ṛishi, deity and metre as before.

Varga XXXVIII.

1. The most sweet-flavoured Soma-libations are poured forth to Indra in the hall of sacrifice.

2. The wise (priests) call upon Indra to drink the Soma as the mother kine low to their calves.

1 Sáma Veda, II. 6. 3. 3. 1-6.
2 Sáyana adds "at times red."
3 Sáma Veda, II. 5. 1. 4. 1-9.
3. The wise Soma, the bestower of exhilaration, dwells in the hall (of sacrifice), mixed with the waves of the river\textsuperscript{1} to a chant in the middle tone.\textsuperscript{2}

4. Soma, the observant, who is the wise seer, is worshipped in the navel of the sky,\textsuperscript{3} the woollen filter.

5. Indu has embraced that Soma\textsuperscript{4} which is collected in the ewers and has been passed through the filter.

6. Indu emits a sound, abiding in the firmament of the sky, and delighting the nectar-shedding cloud.\textsuperscript{5}

7. Soma, whose praise is eternal, the lord of forests, the shedder of nectar, and rejoicing the generations of men,\textsuperscript{6} (is present) in the midst of our sacred rites.

\textsuperscript{1} i.e. the vasati\textit{v}ati water.

\textsuperscript{2} So Sāyaṇa seems to explain \textit{gaurī} \textit{adhi} \textit{britāḥ}, cf. VIII. 7. 10. Benfey translates it “resting on an ox-hide,” explaining \textit{gaurī} \textit{adhi} by the \textit{gor} \textit{adhi} \textit{tvac}ī of IX. 101. 11.

\textsuperscript{3} For the meaning of “sky” here (\textit{div}) cf. note on Sūkta 10, verse 9.

\textsuperscript{4} Sāyaṇa says that Indu embraces the Soma which is a portion of himself—the deity seems to be thus opposed to the mere plant.

\textsuperscript{5} So Sāyaṇa; but it is more probable that \textit{samudra} and \textit{kośa} mean here (as often elsewhere) the water into which the Soma drops and the \textit{dronakalāśa} vessel.

\textsuperscript{6} Sāyaṇa takes \textit{mānuṣhīd} \textit{yugā} as “the various sacrificial seasons, whether occupying one or many days;” but I have followed in the text his usual interpretation of the phrase.
8. The sage Soma, urged from heaven, flows in a stream to the beloved abodes of his devout (worshipper).

Sūkta XIII. (XIII.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

1. The purifying Soma, flowing in a thousand streams and passing through the woollen filter, proceeds to the prepared vessel for Vāyu and Indra.

2. Sing aloud, ye who are desirous of (divine) protection, to the purifying wise Soma, effused for the beverage of the gods.

3. The Soma-juices flow for the attainment of food,—giving abundance of strength and hymned (to become) the beverage of the gods.³

---

¹ This verse and the next are transposed in the Sāma Veda, and there are several variations.

² Sāma Veda, II. 5. 1. 3. 1-9.

³ Sāyana adds that they become the beverage of the gods in the sacrifice, and by that means the sacrificer obtains food.
4. Yea, Indu, for our attainment of food\(^1\) pour forth abundant streams, and splendid and excellent vigour.

5. \(^2\)May those divine libations, when effused, bring to us thousand-fold wealth and excellent vigour.

6. Like horses urged to battle\(^3\) by their drivers, Varga II. the swift-flowing juices hasten through the woollen fleece.

7. Making a loud noise, the libations flow (to the the vessel) like cows lowing to their calves; they are held in the arms (of the priests).

8. Acceptable and giving delight to Indra, pure (Soma), do thou, as thou utterest a sound, destroy all our enemies.

9. Pure (libations),\(^4\) beholding all things and destroying those who worship not, sit down in the place of sacrifice.

Sûkta XIV. (XIV.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. \(^5\)The wise (Soma) flows widely round, betaking Varga III.

\(^1\) Vâjasatayo may also be rendered “for battle,” as in v. 6.

\(^2\) This and the next verse are transposed in the Sâma Veda.

\(^3\) Sâyana takes vâjasatayo as meaning “battle” in the first clause, and “the attainment of food” in the second.

\(^4\) Or this verse may be addressed to the gods who are invited to partake of the offering.

\(^5\) Sâma Veda, I. 5. 2. 5. 10. The “waves of the river” are the Vasatîvari waters.
itself to the waves of the river, and uttering a sound desired by many.\(^1\)

2. When the five kindred sacrificing races,\(^2\) desirous of accomplishing pious rites, honour the sustaining (Soma) with their praise,—

3. Then all the gods rejoice in the juice of this powerful (libation), when it is enveloped with milk and curds.

4. Descending from the filters it hastens (into the vessel), and passing through the cloth's interstices, it becomes united in this (sacrifice) with its friend (Indra).

5. He who is rubbed down by the grandchildren of the sacrificer\(^3\) like a handsome young (horse), and renders his form like the produce of the kine,—

6. Expressed by the fingers, he proceeds obliquely to the produce of the cow to mix with it; it utters a sound which (the worshipper) recognizes.

7. The fingers combine expressing the lord of food,\(^4\) and they grasp the back of the vigorous (Soma).

\(^1\) So Sāyaṇa, but more probably "bearing a hymn beloved by many."

\(^2\) Sāyaṇa explains pancha vrātāḥ by pancha janā manushya yajamānāḥ, alluding apparently to the pancha janāḥ often mentioned before. Sabandhavah he here explains by the obscure word samāna-bandhanāḥ, in VIII. 20, by samāna-bandhukāḥ.

\(^3\) According to the Schol. the hand is the sacrificer's son, and the fingers his grandchildren.

\(^4\) Sc. the Soma.
8. Soma, who holdest all the treasures of heaven and earth, come favourably disposed to us.

Sūkta XV. (XV.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

1. 'This heroic Soma expressed by the fingers Varga V. proceeds by the sacrifice, hastening with swift chariots to Indra's abode.

2. This Soma engages in many holy rites for the great sacrifice where the immortals sit.

3. Placed (in the cart)² he is brought by a brilliant path, when the offerers of the libation present him.

4. He tosses his horns as a bull, the lord of the herd, sharpens his,—bearing treasures (for us) by his might.

5. He proceeds along impetuous with golden brilliant rays,³ the lord of streams.

6. Overpowering at the juncture of time the discomfited concealers (the Rākṣasas), he descends upon those doomed to destruction.⁴

¹ Śāma Veda, II. 5. 2. 3. 1-8, with several variations.
² Sāyaṇa explains it, "Placed in the havirdhāna he is brought to the Ahavaniya."
³ Or by another interpretation of rukmiśhiḥ, "he proceeds along with the priests, vigorous with brilliant rays."
⁴ This is a very obscure line. The St. Petersb. Dict. seems to explain it, "at the juncture of time passing beyond the solid treasures (of heaven and earth), he descends upon the young Soma-plants."
7. The priests express into the vessels this juice which is to be purified, the bestower of abundant food.

8. The ten fingers, the seven priests, express this (juice), well-weaponed, and yielding great exhilaration.

ŚŚKTA XVI. (XVI.)

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga VI.

1. They who express thee, the juice of heaven and earth, do it for the foe-destroying exhilaration (of Indra); thy flow rushes as a swift horse.

2. In pious rite by our fingers we mix with the milk (the Soma), the bringer of strength, the sender of kine, who envelopes the water.

3. Cast into the filtering cloth the unassailable invincible (Soma), abiding in the waters (of the firmament); purify it for the drinking of Indra.

4. The Soma of him who is purified by worship flows upon the filter and settles in the place common with the ceremony.²

5. The Soma juices flow to thee, Indra, with praises, giving thee vigour for the great conflict.

6. Purified in his woollen robe, and attaining all honours, he stands as a hero amidst the kine.³

¹ Sāyaṇa says the word svāyudha is used to show that the Soma has power to slay the Rākshasas.
² The vessel called the dronakalāśa.
³ The Soma being mixed with milk, here called by metonymy “kine.”
7. As the lofty rain from heaven, the nutritious stream of the invigorating Soma falls easily upon the straining cloth.

8. Thou, Soma, (protectest) the worshipper amongst men, and purified by the cloth thou wanderest through the woollen filter.

Séxta XVII. (XVII.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

1. Like rivers falling down a steep place, so the Varga VII. rapid foe-destroying pervading Soma-streams hurry (to the pitcher).

2. The Soma-drops, as they are expressed, flow to Indra like the rains falling upon the earth.

3. Soma, with swelling waves, exhilarating, inebriating, flows to the straining-cloth, destroying the Rákshasas, and devoted to the gods.

4. It flows to the pitchers, it is poured out upon the straining-cloth, it is magnified at sacrifices by praises.

5. Soma, mounting beyond the three worlds, thou illuminst heaven, and, moving, thou urgest on the sun.

6. The sage performers (of pious rites) glorify (the Soma) at the head of the sacrifice, 1 entertaining affection for him the all-beholding. 2

---

1 Mūrdhan yajnasya is explained by Sāyana as "on the last day of expressing the Soma." Cf. II. 3. 2.

2 Sāyana explains chakṣasī as draṣṭārī Soma. It is usually applied to the sun as the eye of the world.
7. Sages, leaders of rites, desirous of sustenance, purify thee who art the giver of food, with pious rites for the offering.

8. Pour forth the stream of the sweet beverage; sit down, sharp-flavoured in the receptacle, alert for drinking at the sacrifice.

Súkta XVIII. (XVIII.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

Varga VIII.

1. Effused while pressed between the stones, the Soma flows upon the straining cloth; thou art the giver of all things to those who praise thee.

2. Thou art wise, thou art a seer, thou bestowest the sweet (beverage) produced from the Soma plant; thou art the giver of all things to those who praise thee.

3. All the gods together pleased enjoy thy drinking; thou art the giver of all things to those who praise thee.

4. (Thou art he) who places in the hands (of the worshipper) all desirable riches; thou art the giver of all things to those who praise thee.

5. (Thou art he) who milks this great heaven and earth like two mothers; thou art the giver of all things to those who praise thee.

6. (Thou art he) who at once supplies both heaven and earth with viands; thou art the giver of all things to those who praise thee.

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

1. Whatever wonderful glorious wealth there be Varga IX. in heaven or in earth, do thou, Soma, being purified, bring it to us.

2. Thou, Soma and Indra, are the lords of all, the lords of cattle,—do ye, the rulers, prosper our rites.

3. The showerer (of benefits) being purified amongst men (lies) murmuring upon the sacred grass,—green-tinted he sits down in his proper place.

4. The mothers of the male calf, which are sucked by him, long to cherish the bull with their strength.

5. The purified Soma has implanted many a germ

1 Sáma Veda, II. 3. 2. 13. 1, 3, 2.

2 Sáyaña explains "the mothers of the calf" as the Vasatívari water which is mixed with the Soma. Might the verse mean "the sacred rites, the mothers of the male calf, long for the full-grown vigour of the bull"?

3 So Sáyaña, but kwiit is more probably an interrogative particle.
in those (waters) desirous of conception, which yield bright milk.

6. 'Bring near to us those who stand aloof, strike terror into our foes; pure-flowing one, thou dost transfer to us their riches.

7. Destroy, Soma, the vigour, the energy, the subsistence of our enemy, whether he be far off or nigh.

Sūkta XX. (XX.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

Varga X.

1. 'The seer passes through the woollen fleece for the beverage of the gods, triumphing over all adversaries.

2. Verily he, the pure-flowing, bestows upon his praisers thousands of victuals with cattle.

3. By thy favour thou givest to us all kinds of wealth, thou flowest at our praise; grant us, O Soma, food.

4. Bestow upon us great renown, grant durable riches to those who are profuse in their libations, bring food to thy praisers.

5. Purified one, doer of good deeds, thou, Soma, enterest our praises like a king, O wonderful bearer (of our offerings).

6. Soma, the bearer (of oblations), abiding in the waters of the firmament, difficult to be surpassed, being cleansed by our hands reposes in the vessels.

7. Soma, thou proceedest to the straining-cloth, sportive and generous, like a gift, giving excellent vigour to him who praises thee.

Sókta XXI. (XXI.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

1. These flowing Soma-juices, foe-destroying, ex- Varga XI. hilarating, heaven-conferring, hasten to Índra,—

2. Showing favour, assailing foes, giving wealth to him who rightly effuses them, and bestowing food spontaneously on their praiser.

3. The effused juices come sporting lightly to the common receptacle, they drop into the wave of the river.

4. Like horses harnessed to a car these pure juices bring (to us) all desirable blessings.

5. Effused Soma-juices, at our indication bestow manifold blessings on this (institutor of the sacrifice), who (at present) has given us nothing.

---

1 Or it may mean "between the boards which press it," chamúshu.

2 Makhaḥ is generally explained as "sacrifice." The original root of mañhayuh and makhaḥ would seem to be MAGH. See below note on hymn 61, verse 27.

3 Sc. The Vasativari water.

4 Or Sáyana may mean by asmatbyam dāśanāya, "with a view to us."

5 Sáyana's Comm. is imperfect, but he seems to explain this as meaning, "the sacrificer only bestows gifts on his officiating priests when he has obtained his desire."
6. As a great man sets before him a commendable charioteer, so do you grant knowledge to our lord, and flow glistening with water.

7. These effused juices have desired (the sacrifice); powerful they have made for themselves an abiding-place; they have animated the intellect of the pious institutor of the rite.

Śūkta XXII. (XXII.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

Varga XII. 1. These Soma-juices, when let out, neigh as they leap swiftly forth like chariots or rapid steeds let loose.

2. Like strong winds, like the rains of Parjanya, like the swift-whirling (flames) of fire,—

3. These pure Soma-juices, sagacious, mixed with curds, easily pervade our ceremonies with their intelligence.¹

4. Purified, immortal, issuing from the vessels, eager to traverse their (assigned) paths and the universe, they are never wearied.

5. Spreading in various directions, they pervade the surface of earth and sky, yea, and this highest heaven.

6. Descending rivers follow this excellent (Soma)

as it spreads out the sacrifice;¹ this rite is glorified thereby.

7. Thou, Soma, holdest the wealth of kine which thou hast won from the Pāṇis; thou hast called aloud at the outspread sacrifice.

Sūkta XXIII. (XXIII.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

1. The swift-flowing Soma-juices have issued in Varga XIII. a stream of the sweet exhilarating (beverage), at (the recital of) all the praises (of the sages).

2. Ancient swift-going (horses), they (the juices) have traversed a new field,—they have generated the sun to give light.²

3. Bring to us, purifier, the house³ of our enemy who presents no libations,—bestow upon us progeny-abounding food.

4. The swift-flowing Soma-juices diffuse exhilarating wine,—they flow to the honey-shedding receptacle.⁴

5. The Soma flows, the sustainer (of the world),

² Sáma Veda, I. 6. 1. 2. 6. Benfey takes pratnása āyacah as “ewigen lebendigen,”—the “new field” is the arranged place of sacrifice.

³ Sáyaña takes this as a metonymy for “wealth.”

bearing a sense-invigorating essence,—heroic—a protector against calumny.

6. Soma, who art worthy of the sacrifice,\(^1\) thou flowest to Indra and to the gods; thou, Indu, vouchsafest to give us food.

7. Having drunk of this chief of exhilarating draughts, Indra irresistible has slain his foes, and may he ever slay them.

Sákta XXIV. (XXIV.)

Rishi, deity and metre as before.

Varga XIV. 1. The purified effused Soma-juices have flowed forth,—mixing (with curds and milk) they are cleansed in the waters.

2. The flowing juices rush (to the filter), like waters flowing down a declivity; purified they gratify Indra.

3. Purifier, Soma, thou proceedest\(^3\) to Indra for his drinking,—thence art thou brought by the priests.

4. Thou, Soma, who art the exhilarator of men; flow to (Indra), the conqueror of enemies,\(^4\) thou who art pure and to be worshipped.

\(^1\) Sáyána explains sadhamddya by yajndra. Benfey takes it as “zusammenberauschend.”

\(^2\) For this hymn, cf. Sáma Veda, II. 3. 2. 3. 1–7.

\(^3\) Sáyána adds, “from the waggon whence they are taken by the priests to the dhavaniya fire” or “to the vessel.”

\(^4\) The Sáma Veda has charshapidhritiḥ for charshapīsahe, i.e. an epithet of Soma, “laid hold of by men,” or “the protection of men.”
5. When, Indu, effused by the stones, thou hastenest to the filtering-cloth, thou art an ample portion for Indra's belly.¹

6. Utter destroyer of enemies, flow forth, to be propitiated by praises, pure, purifying, wonderful.

7. Soma, (the yielder) of the exhilarating effusion,² is called the pure, the purifier, the gratifier of the gods, the slayer of the wicked.

SUKTA I. (XXV.)
The Rishi is Drilhachutu, the son of Agastyā; the deity and metre as before.

1. "Green-tinted (Soma), do thou who art the Varga XV. bestower of strength, the exhilarating, flow as a beverage for the gods, for the Maruts and for Vāyu.

2. "Purifying (Soma), placed suitably by the sacred rite, (enter) uttering a cry the (appointed) place, enter by the sacred function into Vāyu."⁵

³ Sāma Veda, I. 5. 2. 4. 8; II. 3. 1. 10. 1.

⁴ For vv. 2, 3, cf. Sāma Veda, II. 3. 1. 10. 3, 2, but with some variations.

⁵ That is, according to Sāyāna, "the vessel associated with, or set apart for, Vāyu," vāyu-sambandhi pātram.
3. This Soma, the showerer (of benefits), the seer, the beloved, the destroyer of foes, the most devout, shines in its appointed place along with the gods.

4. Pervading all forms, the pure, the desirable goes to the place where the immortals abide.

5. Endowed with wisdom of the past, the brilliant Soma, generating sounds, flows forth continually proceeding to Indra.

6. Most exhilarating and sage (Soma), flow through the filter in a stream, to attain the station of the adorable Indra.

Sūkta II. (XXVI.)
The Rishi is Idhavāha, the son of Drilhachyuta, the deity and metre as before.

Varga XVI.

1. The priests have cleansed that Soma, (swift as) a horse, on the lap of Aditi with fingers and with hymns.
2. The chants celebrate that Indu flowing in a thousand streams, inexhaustible, the supporter of heaven.

3. They have elevated to heaven by their praise that creative purifying (Soma), the sustainer, the maker of many.

---

1 i.e. the earth.
2 Or “with delicate fingers.”
3 Gaṇvah, which the scholiast explains as gaṇtryaḥ stutayaḥ; but it may refer to the cows as contributing their milk.
4 Śāyana explains bhūridhāyam as bahūndam kartaṃ; it should rather mean “the nourisher of many.”
4. The worshippers have elevated by the fingers of their arms that unconquerable lord of praise abiding (in the vessels).

5. The sister-fingers in a raised place press out by the grinding stones that green-tinted (Soma), desirable and far-beholding.

6. The worshippers offer thee to Indra, purifier Indu, filled with praise and bestowing exhilaration.

Sūkta III. (XXVII.)
The Rishi is Nērmedha, of the family of Angirasa; the deity and metre as before.

1. This seer, the purifying (Soma), lauded by Varga XVII. us, passes through the filtering-cloth, driving away foes.

2. This invigorating heaven-conquering Soma is poured upon the filter for Indra and Vāyu.

3. This Soma, the showerer (of benefits), the summit of heaven, the all-knowing, being expressed is brought by the priests into the wooden vessels.

1 Dhiyā is here explained as angulyā, and bhūriyoh as bāhwoh. But the St. Petersb. Dict. explains the latter as “ein aus zwei Armen bestehendes Werkzeug des Wagenarbeiters, in welchem er das Holz festhält und bearbeitet,—etwa Schnitzbank;” and dhi no doubt means “function” or “ceremony.”

2 Sāma Veda, II. 5. 2. 6. 1–5=verses 1–4, 6, of this hymn.

3 Sāyana takes vaneshu as “desirable” or “wooden” vessels, vananīyeshu vana-sambhūta-drūma-vikáreshu vā pātreshu. Benfey explains it as “in die Fluth gepresst.”
4. This Indu resounds as it drops, yearning to give us cattle and gold,¹ the conqueror of foes, the irresistible.

5. This pure-flowing exhilarating Soma is abandoned by the sun in the filtering-cloth the sky.²

6. This powerful and purifying showerer (of benefits), the green-tinted Indu, flows through the firmament to Indra.³

Súkta IV. (XXVIII.)

The Rishi is Priyamedha; the deity and metre as before.

Varga XVIII. 1. "This swift-flowing (Soma) placed (in the vessels) by the priests, all-knowing, the lord of praise," hastens to the woollen (filter).

2. This (Soma), effused for the gods, flows into the filter, penetrating all the (divine) forms.

² Sáyaṇa does not convey any very clear sense for this verse, but he seems to imply that the sun performs on a grand scale the same office of diffusing the Soma-juice which the priests performed on a small scale in the filtering-cloth, which is sometimes metaphorically called the sky. He explains hásate by parityajyate; Benfey takes it as the aorist of hā "to rise." (The verse is partly reproduced in Sáma Veda, II. 5. 2. 5. 6.) Might we translate it, "this exhilarating Soma, as it drops on the filtering-cloth, rises with the sun into the heavens"?

³ Sáyaṇa explains antarikha as the filtering-cloth.

⁴ Sáma Veda, II. 5. 2. 5. 1–5; II. 5. 2. 6. 6.

3. This divine immortal (Soma) is brilliant in his own place, the slayer of enemies, the most devoted to the gods.

4. This showerer (of desires), expressed by the ten fingers, hastens uttering a sound to the pitchers.

5. This purified, all-contemplating, all-knowing (Soma) gives radiance to the sun and all the spheres (of light).

6. This powerful invincible purifying Soma proceeds the protector of the gods, the destroyer of the wicked.

Sūkta V. (XXIX.)
The Ṛishi is Nêmedha, of the family of Ângiras; the deity and metre as before.

1. The streams of this effused (Soma), the Varga XIX. showerer (of benefits), flow forth, as it seeks to surpass the gods ² in strength.

2. The pious performers (of holy rites), the utterers of praise, purify by their laudation the radiant courser (the Soma) as soon as generated and meriting to be hymned.

3. Soma, distributor of abundant wealth, those radiances of thine when thou art purified are overpowering; fill therefore the praiseworthy ocean-like (pitcher).

² Śáyāna takes anuprabhūshataḥ as an irregular desiderative participle. Benfey explains it (from bhūṣh) as “der alle Götter schmückenden;” the St. Petersburg Dictionary derives it from anuprabhū, “sich darbieten.”
4. Flow, Soma, in a full stream, conquering for us all treasures,—drive our enemies away together.

5. Preserve us from the reproach of every one who makes no offerings, who utters blame,—that we may be free.

6. Indu, pour to us in a stream terrestrial and celestial riches, bring brilliant vigour.

Śūkta VI. (XXX.)

The Rishi is Bindu, of the race of Angiras; the deity and metre as before.

Varga XX.

1. The streams of this strong Soma flow without effort into the filtering-cloth; purified, he excites praise.¹

2. This Indu, urged by the priests, and purified with a sound in the filter, utters a loud voice² (in the oblation).

3. Pour upon us in a stream, Soma, foe-subduing strength, associated with male offspring and desired by many.

4. This purified Soma flows out in a stream to take its place in the pitchers.

5. Indu, they press thee forth by the stones, most sweet-flavoured and green-tinted, into the waters for Indra to drink.

6. (Priests) express the most sweet-flavoured beautiful exhilarating Soma for Indra the thunderer, and for our invigoration.

² This is uncertain, as the commentary is here corrupt.
Súkta VII. (XXXI.)
The Rishi is Ráhúgána Gotáma; the deity and metre as before.

1. The benevolent juices being purified flow forth, Varga XXI. they confer intellectual wealth.

2. Indú be (to us) the augmenter of the riches of heaven and earth, be the lord of food.¹

3. For thee, Soma, the winds are gracious, for thee the rivers flow, they magnify thy greatness.

4. Be well nourished, Soma; may vigour come to thee from all sides, be (the giver) of strength in battle.

5. Tawny-tinted (Soma), the cows yield butter and milk inexhaustible for thee (set) on the highest summit.

6. Indú, lord of beings, we desire the friendship of thee, the well-armed.

Súkta VIII. (XXXII.)
The Rishi is Sívávasáva, of the race of Atri; the deity and metre as before.

1. The Soma juices, diffusing exhilaration, rush Varga XXII. forth effused at the sacrifice for the sustenance of us abounding in oblations.

2. And the fingers of Tríta express this green-tinted Soma with the stones for Indra's drinking.

² Sáma Veda, I. 5. 2. 5. 1; II. 1. 2. 21. 1.
³ Sáma Veda, II. 1. 2. 21. 3, 2.
3. 'And like a swan entering its own flock, the Soma excites the praise of all,—like a horse, it is bathed with milk.

4. Beholding both worlds, Soma, thou hurriest, swift as a deer, taking thy seat on the place of sacrifice.

5. Praises commend thee (Soma) as a woman praises a dear lover; (thou hastenest to the vessel) as a hero hastens to the welcome contest.

6. Give to us who are affluent (in oblations), and also to me, brilliant fame, wealth, intelligence, and glory.

Súkta IX. (XXXIII.)

The Rishi is Tríta; the deity and metre as before.

Varga XXIII. 1. 'The intelligent Soma juices rush along like waves of water, like buffaloes to the forests.

2. 'The tawny-coloured bright juices hasten to the pitchers with a stream of ambrosia, they pour forth sustenance accompanied with cattle.

1 Sáyaña seems to explain this "as a swan by its peculiar gait or voice excites the admiration of its flock as it enters it."
2 Sáyaña here takes "taktaḥ," as "mixed with milk, etc.;" but in IX. 69. 16. as "swift."
3 Sáyaña explains śravas here as kírti, "glory," but it may also mean anna, "food."
4 Sáma Veda, I. 5. 2. 5. 2; II. 1. 2. 19. 1 (nayante for nayanti).
5 Sáma Veda, II. 1. 2. 19. 2, 3.
3. The libations effused proceed to Indra, to Vāyu, to Varuṇa, to the Maruts, to Viśnū.

4. The priests utter the three sacred texts, the milch kine low (on being milked), the green-tinted Soma goes sounding (to the vessels).

5. The many sacred hymns, the mothers of the sacrifice, give praise, they purify (the Soma), the infant of heaven.

6. From every side, Soma, pour upon us four oceans of riches, grant us thousands (of desires).

Súkta X. (XXXIV.)
The Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. Indu, when effused and expressed (by the Varga xxiv. priests), flows in a stream to the filtering-cloth, breaking down strong places by its strength.

2. The Soma effused proceeds to Indra, to Vāyu, to Varuṇa, to the Maruts, to Viśnū.

3. They press the crushed Soma as it pours forth its juice between the effusing stones, they milk out its juice by their acts.

1 Sáma Veda, I. 5. 2. 4. 5 ; II. 2, 2, 14. 1. The three sacred texts are the three Vedas.
2 Sáma Veda, II. 2. 2. 14. 2. Sáyāṇa explains brahmīḥ as "uttered by the brāhmans."
3 Sáyāṇa quotes a text, "Soma was in the third world from hence, heaven."
4 Sáma Veda, II. 2. 2. 14. 3 (with miśvataḥ for viśvataḥ).
5 Sáyāṇa explains tanā by pavitram (cf. hymn 16, verse 8); it more probably means "continuously."

VOL. V. S
4. The exhilarating Soma is to be cleansed (for the sacrifice) of Triṣṇa, and for the drinking of Indra; the green-tinted (juice) is mixed with the ingredients.

5. The sons of Prīśni milk this Soma at the place of sacrifice, the most beautiful and grateful oblation (to the gods).

6. Our sincere smooth-flowing praises approach him, and he uttering a sound welcomes the milch kine.

Sūkta XI. (XXXV.)
The Rishi is Prabhuvasu, of the race of Angiras; the deity and metre as before.

Varga XXV.
1. Pour upon us, purifier, ample riches with that stream wherewith thou bestowest upon us light.

2. Indu, impeller of the waters, confounder of all (our foes), flow forth by thy power as the supporter of wealth to us.

3. With thee, heroic (Soma), as our hero, may we overcome our enemies, pour upon us desirable (riches).

4. Indu, the bestower of food, the seer, sends food to the worshipper, showing his favour, acquainted with sacred rites and arms.

---

1 i.e. the curds and milk.

2 i.e. according to Sāyaṇa, "our gratifying praises," priśa-yitriḥ stuṭih.

3 Yaśa jyotir vidāśi nah. Sāyaṇa explains jyotis as "the sacrifice" or "heaven."
5. We clothe with praises that Soma who is the inspirer of praise, the purified, the shepherd of men.

6. On the worship of whom all men fix their thoughts,—the lord of pious acts, the purified, the possessor of abundant wealth.

Śūkta XII. (XXXVI.)
The Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. Pressed between the boards, (the Soma) has Varga XXVI. been let loose, like a chariot-horse, upon the straining-cloth,—the courser steps out on the field.

2. Soma, bearer (of oblations), vigilant, devoted to the gods, flow past the honey-dropping filter-cloth (into the vessel).

3. Ancient purifier, illumine for us the luminaries (of heaven), animate us for strength-bestowing sacrifice.

---

1 This is an alternative explanation added in the commentary; but curiously enough it is followed by the words, "Mádhava, however, takes ṛdham as a separate word and as a verb, and divides the line into two sentences." He would explain it, "I address him with praises; we cover (with milk, etc.) Soma who is the purified inspirer, the cow-keeper of men."

2 Literally, "the herdsman of men," janasya gopatim.

3 Sáma Veda, I. 6. 1. 1. 4.

4 SáyaNa explains kárshman as "the god-attracting battle-field called a sacrifice," devánám ákarshaṇavatī yajñákhye sangráme. The St. Petersburg Dict. takes it as "the furrow drawn as the goal of a race;" and SáyaNa himself takes it as "a piece of wood serving for a goal," in his explanation of R. V. I. 116. 17. The true translation is undoubtedly "the courser steps out to the goal."
4. Beautified by the ministers of the rite, expressed by their hands, (the Soma) flows through the woollen filter.

5. May that Soma bestow upon the donor (of the libation) all treasures, whether of heaven or earth or the firmament.

6. Soma, lord of food, thou ascendest to the summit of the sky, desirous of horses, kine, and male progeny.

Śūkta XIII. (XXXVII.)

The Ṛṣhi is Rahugaṇa, the metre and deity as before.

Varga XXVII.

1. Soma, the showerer (of benefits), when effused for the drinking (of the gods), rushes to the filter, destroying the Rākṣhasas, devoted to the gods.

2. The all-beholding Soma, green-tinted, all-sustaining, rushes to the filter (and thence) crying aloud to the pitcher.

3. (Fleet as) a horse, the pure Soma, the illumer of heaven, hastens, the destroyer of Rākṣhasas, past the woollen fleece.

4. The pure Soma upon the high place (of the sacrifice) of Trīta, attended by its kindred rays, has lighted up the Sun.

1 Sāma Veda, II. 5. 2. 7. 1–6.

2 Sayāṇa explains rochand as rochakaḥ, but this is very unlikely. The true interpretation is probably “(Fleet as) a horse, the pure Soma, the destroyer of rākṣhasas, hastens towards the light of heaven through the woollen fleece.”
5. The slayer of Vṛitra, the showerer of benefits, the giver of wealth, the invincible, the effused Soma proceeds (to the pitcher) as (a horse) to battle.
6. The divine Soma, when effused by the priest, hastens in his might\textsuperscript{1} to the pitchers for Indra.

Sūkta XIV. (XXXVIII.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. \textsuperscript{2}This Soma, the showerer of benefits, the chariot,\textsuperscript{3} dashes through the woollen fleece, bearing (to the worshipper) thousandfold food.
2. The fingers of Trīta effuse by the stones this green-tinted juice for Indra's drinking.
3. The ten fingers,\textsuperscript{4} eager in the work, express that (Soma), and by them it is purified for the exhilaration (of Indra).
4. That Soma sits down amongst human beings like a falcon, hastening as a gallant to his mistress.
5. That exhilarating juice beholds all,—Indu, the child of heaven, that percolates through the fleece.

\textsuperscript{1} The Sāma Veda reads manhayan for manhanā. Sāyaṇā takes the latter as mahān. I have rendered it by mahātwena as Sāyaṇā does in IV. 17. 1. The St. Petersburg Dict. explains it as an adverb, "gern, leicht, bald, prompte."
\textsuperscript{2} Sāma Veda, II. 5. 2. 4. 1, 2, 4–6, 3.
\textsuperscript{3} Sāyaṇā gives the etymology of rathah as raṁhana-suabhāvah = "swift."
\textsuperscript{4} Harit is given in the Naigh. II. 5. as a synonym of anguli, "a finger." Sāyaṇā explains it etymologically as karana-suabhāva, "grasping." Benfey takes it as "der goldberingte."
6. That green-tinted, all-sustaining (Soma), when effused for the drinking (of the gods), rushes crying aloud to its beloved place.

Sûkta XV. (XXXIX.)

The Rishi is Brihanmati, of the family of Angiras; the deity and metre as before.

Varga XXIX. 1. Great-minded Soma, go swift with thy body that is most dear (to the gods), saying, "Where are the gods?"

2. Sanctifying the unconsecrated (worshipper) bringing food for the offerer, pour down rain from heaven.

3. (The Soma) when effused enters the filter with force, giving forth light, beholding and illuminating (all things).

4. This (Soma), who light of movement (mounts) to heaven, flows through the filter in a stream of water.

5. The effused (Soma) honouring (the gods), whether he is far off or nigh, is poured out (as) madhu for Indra.

6. The united (worshippers) praise (him), they squeeze (him) forth green-tinted with the stones; sit down (O gods) at the place of sacrifice.

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. The pure all-seeing (Sōma) has overcome all Varga XXX. enemies; (the worshippers) grace the sage (Sōma) with their praises.

2. The tawny-hued showerer (of benefits) when effused ascends to his place; he goes to Indra: he dwells in the fixed abode (of heaven).

3. O Indu, O Sōma, quickly pour upon us from all quarters vast and infinite riches.

4. O purified Sōma, O Indu, bring all sorts of wealth, bestow unlimited food.

5. O Sōma, being purified, bring us thy worshippers wealth with male offspring, recompense the praises of him who glorifies thee.

6. Indu, Sōma, being purified, bring us wealth from both worlds; Indu, showerer (of benefits), (bring us) glorious (wealth).

4. Milking forth the ancient fluid, the Soma is poured into the filter and crying out generates the gods.

5. Soma being purified hastens towards all desirable (wealth), towards the gods who favour the sacrifice.

6. Soma, being effused pour down upon us (wealth) consisting of kine, male offspring, horses and strength, and abundant food.

Súkta XIX. (XLIII.)

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. We invest with praises that Soma who, beloved, is cleansed like a horse with milk for the exhilaration (of the gods).

2. This Indu all our praises desiring protection, beautify (now) as of old for Indra to drink.

3. Pure flows the beloved Soma, beautified by the praises of the sage Medhyátithi.

---

1 Sáma Veda, II. 1. 2. 17. 2, last part different.
2 Sáma Veda, II. 1. 2. 17. 3.
3 Sáyana explains this as meaning that where the Soma is poured forth the gods are continually present.
4 Or "with the vasātivari water."
4. Purified Soma, grant us auspicious wealth with infinite splendour, O Indu.

5. Indu, like a horse rushing into battle, sounds in the sieve, when he flows through, beloved of the gods.

6. Flow for the acquisition of food, for the prosperity of the sage who praiseth thee; O Soma, grant (me) excellent male offspring.

ŚEKTA XX. (XLIV.)

The Rishi is Ayāśya, of the family of Aṅgiras; the deity is Soma Pavamāna, and the metre Gāyatri.

Varga I.

1. Indu, thou advancest to give us abundant wealth; Ayāśya bearing thy waves (goeth) towards the gods (to sacrifice).

2. The sage Soma gratified by the praise of the pious (worshipper) prepared for the sacrifice is sent in a stream at a distance (from the filter).

3. This vigilant Soma effused for the gods approaches, all-beholding he goes to the filter.

1 Sāma Veda, I. 6. 1. 2. 13.
4. Flow for us food-desiring, making (our) sacrifice auspicious; (O Soma, whom) the priest with the sacred grass adores.

5. May Soma who is pressed forth by the seers for Bhaga and Vayu, ever prospering, grant us (wealth placed) amongst the gods.

6. Receiver of sacrifices, knower of (pious) paths, grant us this day abundant food and strength for the acquisition of wealth.

Śūkṣa XXI. (XLV.)

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. Indu, do thou the beholder of men flow pleasantly¹ for the banquet of the gods, for Indra's drinking and exhilaration.

2. Approach the office of messenger for us: thou (who) art drunk for Indra, (pour) on the gods wealth for (us their) friends.

3. And we adorn thee, the purple-tinted, with milk and curds for the purpose of exhilaration, open the doors for our riches.

4. Indu passes the filter as a horse in going passes the shaft (of the chariot); he proceeds to the midst of the gods.

¹ Sāyana sometimes explains kam as sukham yathā bhavati tathā, sometimes as a particle meaning nothing, inserted merely metri gratia.
5. His friends praise Indu sporting in the water and passing through the fleece; their hymns glorify him.

6. Flow, Indu, with that stream wherewith when drunk thou bestowest much vigour on thy discerning worshipper.

Śākta XXII. (XLVI.)

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga III. 1. Begotten by the stones the flowing (Soma-juices) are effused for the banquet of the gods like active horses.

2. The Soma-juices pressed (at the sacrifice) adorned like a bride who hath a father flow to Vāyu.

3. These brilliant Soma-juices, bestowing pleasant food, expressed into the vessel, gratify Indra with the ceremonies.

4. Dexterous (priests) hasten (to me), take with the ladle the pure (Soma), mix the exhilarating (Soma) with milk and curds.

5. Soma, conqueror of wealth, who knowest the way (to fulfil my desires), flow forth the bestower of vast wealth upon us.

6. The ten fingers purify this purifiable pure-flowing exhilarating juice for Indra.

1 Or "growing on the mountain slopes."
Súkta XXIII. (XLVII.)
The Rishi is Káti, the son of Bhriou; the deity and metre as before.

1. 'By this sacred solemnity the Soma is magnified before the mighty (gods): exulting he moves like a bull.'

2. They publish his exploits, his acts of Dasyu-crushing: resolute he acquires the debts (of the worshipper).

3. When the praise of Indra is recited, then the juice dear to him, vigorous as a thunderbolt, gives us unlimited wealth.

4. When the sage Soma is cleansed by the fingers, he of his own accord desires wealth for the pious worshipper in (Indra), the granter of wishes.

5. Thou desirest to give wealth to those who conquer in combat as (men offer fodder) to horses in battle.

1 Sáma Veda, I. 6. 1. 2. 11, with variations.
2 Or “roars like a bull” (i.e. on the sounding holes), Sáma Veda.
3 The commentary is defective here. Ludwig translates chetanti “are conspicuous.”
4 Sáyaña explains vidhártari as vidhátarináro and adds indrena dhanaḿ dápayitum ichchhati, “he desires to cause Indra to give wealth.” It is more probably the infinitive.
5 Ludwig takes sishásatuk as the 3rd dual, “They two desire wealth,” and the last part of the verse as “thou art on the side of the successful in battle.” Grassmann follows Sáyaña.
Sūkta XXIV. (XLVIII.)

Ṛishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga V. 1. By sacred rites we solicit (wealth) of thee, auspicious bearing wealth abiding in the regions of the vast heaven—

2. The overthrower of the resolute (foe), the praiseworthy, to whom many solemn observances are addressed, the exhilarator, the destroyer of a hundred cities (of the Asuras).

3. O (Soma), doer of good deeds, the unwearied hawk² brought thee, king over riches, from this heaven.

4. The bird brought thee the showerer of water the protector of the sacrifice, the common property of every god.

5. The contemplator of all, the granter of desires, putting forth his energy obtains superior greatness.

Sūkta XXV. (XLIX.)

Ṛishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga VI. 1. Pour down upon us a shower from heaven, a stream of waters, wholesome and abundant food.

2. Flow in such a stream that the cattle belonging to the (enemy’s) nation may come here to our dwelling.

4. Do thou for our sustenance hasten to the woollen filter with thy stream; let the gods hear thy sound.

5. The purifier (the Soma) flows forth destroying the Rákšhasas, flashing out brilliance as of old.

The Rishi is Ucchâthya, of the family of Ângiras; the deity and metre as before.

1. Forth flow thy mighty (streams), like the roar (issuing) from the ocean wave: emit thy sound like that of a (rushing) arrow.

2. At thy birth the three voices of the worshipper are uttered when thou goest to the summit of the fleece.

3. (The priests) effuse with the stones into the fleece the beloved green-tinted purifying honey-dropping (Soma).

4. Most exhilarating sage (Soma), flow in a stream to the filter to sit on Índra’s lap.

1 The whole of this hymn occurs in the Sáma Veda (II. 5. 1. 5. 1–5).

2 Or a reed (or other musical instrument).

3 The Rishi Yajush and Sáma hymns.

4 Sáyana adds that although this verse was analysed in the previous Ædhåyå (see Súkta 25, verse 6), it is explained once more for fear dull-witted scholars have forgotten it.
5. Most exhilarating Indu, being anointed with the unguents of milk and curds, flow forth for Indra's drinking.

Sūkta XXVII. (LI.)

Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga VIII. 1. *Adhvaryu, pour upon the filter the Soma that has been expressed with the stones, purify it for Indra's drinking.

2. *(Adhvaryus), effuse the most sweet-flavoured Soma, the best ambrosia of heaven for Indra, the wielder of the thunderbolt.

3. *Indu, the gods and the Maruts partake of thy sweet purifying beverage.

4. For thou, Soma, being effused, approachest the worshipper for speedy exhilaration and protection.

5. Hasten, sagacious (Soma), when thou art effused, to the filter in a stream: bestow upon us food and fame.

2. Thy juice dear (to the gods), flowing in a thousand streams, proceeds by ancient paths to the fleecy filter.

3. (Soma), send (us) him who is like a pot; Indu, send us now wealth; swift-flowing (Soma), send it with blows (of the stones).

4. Indu, the invoked of many, overthrow the strength of those people which challenges us.

5. Indu, do thou who art the distributor of riches, pour forth for our protection a hundred or a thousand of thy pure (streams).

Sûkta XXIX. (LIII.)

The Rishi is Avatsára, of the race of Kaśyapa.

1. (Soma) armed with the stones, thy powerful Varga X. (streams) rise up scattering the Rákshasas; drive away those who are our adversaries.

2. (Thou art) by this strength the discomfiter (of foes): I praise thee with a fearless heart for the sake of (our) line of chariots ranged (against the foe) and for the sake of wealth.

1 M. M. edition has pùrnodanaḥ (qu. misprint for pûrṇodakah, full-bellied: compare "pot-bellied"). Wilson's MS. had pûrṇes dine.

2 This hymn occurs Sáma Veda, II. 8. 3. 2. 1–4.

3 Sáyaṇa explains adrivaḥ as referring to the stones used for crushing the Soma.
3. The prowess of thee (Soma) as thou art poured forth is irresistible against the malignant (Rákshasa): destroy him who defies thee to battle.

4. (The priests) plunge Indu, honey-dropping, green-tinted, vigorous, exhilarating, into the waters for Indra.

Súkta XXX.* (LIV.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga XI.

1. Towards Soma's ancient body the seers milk the flashing fluid, the sage who grants a thousand boons.

2. He like the sun is the supervisor (of all acts): he hastens to the lakes, he unites with the seven down-descending rivers from heaven.

3. The purified Soma, like the divine sun, abides above all regions.

4. Purified Indu, who art devoted to Indra, pour down for our sacrifice food with milk and curds.

Súkta XXXI. (LV.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga XII.

1. *Soma, pour forth (in a stream of) food, abundant oft-collected (juice), and all good things.

2. Indu, since the praise of thee as food, since thy birth (has appeared), sit down upon the grass that pleases (thee).

---

1 Sáyana explains this as thirty uktha pátras (vessels or libations offered during the recitation of the uktha) or thirty days and nights.

2 This hymn occurs Sáma Veda, II. 3. 2. 5. 1–1.
3. And Soma, do thou who art the giver of cattle, the giver of horses, flow to us in (a stream of) food as the days quickly pass.¹

4. Flow forth, O conqueror of thousands, who conquers and is not conquered, and attacking slays his foe.

Sūkta XXXII. (LVI.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. The swift Soma devoted to the gods destroying Varga XIII. the Rákshasas in the filter bestows abundant food (on us).

2. When the hundred rite-loving streams (of the Soma) obtain the friendship of Indra, then the Soma brings us food.²

3. The ten fingers commend thee, Soma, as a maiden her lover, thou art cleansed in order to bestow (wealth on us).

4. Do thou, Indu, who art sweet-flavoured flow for Indra and Vishnu, preserve the worshippers thy praisers from sin.

Sūkta XXXIII. (LVII.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. Thy unconnected streams advance towards Varga XIV. infinite food (for us) like the showers from heaven.

¹ This seems to be an instrumental absolute, but Sāyana explains it “by reason (or by means) of the days quickly passing.”
² So Sāyana. The proper order is of course, “when Soma brings us food, his hundred rite-loving streams obtain Indra’s friendship.”
³ This hymn occurs in Sāma Veda, II. 8. 3. 18. 1–4.
2. The green-tinted Soma contemplating all the holy acts that are pleasing to the gods rushes (to the sacrifice) brandishing his weapons (against the Rákshasas).

3. He, the object of pious observances, cleansed by the priests, fearless\(^1\) as a king, sits on the waters like a hawk.

4. Indu, when thou art purified, bring us all the treasures that are in heaven and upon earth.

Súkta XXXIV. (LVIII.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga XV.

1. \(^2\) He the delighter (of the gods) flows rescuing (his worshippers from sin); the stream of the effused beverage (flows); he the delighter (of the gods) flows rescuing (his worshippers from sin).

2. The brilliant (stream), the bestower of riches, knows how to protect the worshipper: he the delighter (of the gods) flows rescuing (his worshippers from sin).

SÓKTA XXXV. (LIX.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

1. Flow, Soma, conqueror of cattle, of horses, of Varga XVI. all things, of desirable wealth; bring us riches with male offspring.

2. Flow with waters and with filaments, flow with herbs, flow with the stones.

3. Soma, do thou who art the purifier, the sage, overcome all hindrances; sit down on the sacred grass.

4. O purifying Soma, grant all boons; as soon as thou art born thou art great; Indu, thou overcomest all (foes).

SÓKTA XXXVI. (LX.)
Rishi and deity as before. Third verse Purāushnik, the rest Gāyatri.

1. Hymn with a Gāyatri hymn Indu the purifier, Varga XVII. the all-beholding, the thousand-eyed.

2. Thee, the thousand-eyed, and the supporter of thousands, they make to flow through the filter.

---

1 Or rather "thirty robes and thousands" (cf. verse 3). Śāyāna’s interpretation neglects the cha, and besides triṁśatam sahasrāni would mean "thirty thousand."

2 addhīyah is properly n. sing. "inviolable."

In 101. 5, \textit{makhasyate} is explained as \textit{stutībhiḥ pūjām ichchhati}. Sāyaṇa's general explanation of \textit{makh\textasciitilde{a}h} is either \textit{yajñam} or \textit{dhanam} (or \textit{dānām}). In both cases the original root would be \textit{MA\textasciitilde{G}H}, "great." 6. The effused tawny-coloured Soma-juices going Varga XXXI. to Indra hasten to their own place.

7. \(^2\)Flow with that stream with which thou, Soma, lightest up the sun, urging on the waters beneficial to man.

8. The purified (Soma) harnesses the horse of the sun to travel through the firmament to man.

9. And Indu exclaiming “Indra!” harnesses the (horse of the) sun to go towards these ten regions.\(^3\)

10. Sprinkle, worshippers, upon the woollen fleece the exhilarating (Soma) that has been effused in all directions for Váyu and for Indra.

11. Purified Soma, grant us wealth unassailable Varga XXXII. (by our foes), and which cannot be destroyed by the enemy.

12. Bring to us thousand-fold wealth with cattle and horses; bring vigour and food.

13. Soma, like the radiant sun, when effused flows forth, depositing its juice in the pitcher.

11. Thy wave which, devoted to the gods flows to the filter, alighting upon the place of sacrifice.

12. Indu, who art exhilarating and most devoted to the gods, hasten to the filter for Indra to drink.

13. Cleansed by the priests, Indu, flow in a stream for (our) food; approach the cattle with food.

14. Green-tinted (Soma) lauded by hymns, being dropped into the curds and milk and being purified, bestow wealth and food upon the worshipper.

15. Purified for the banquet of the gods, go to Indra's station radiant, collected together by the vigorous (worshippers).

1. Sāyaṇa does not explain further than this: he would have completed it: "hastenest (or flowest) from heaven to bring us various forms of wealth."

2 Sāma Veda, I. 5. 2. 5. 5.

3 Verses 13–15 occur Sāma Veda, II. 2. 2. 4. 1–3, verse 13 also ibid. I. 6. 1. 2. 9.

4 Sāyaṇa does not explain how ruch, which he derives from the verb ruch "to shine," comes to mean food. His usual interpretation of gdh, i.e. "milk and curds," would be more appropriate here; "with thy brightness approach (i.e. mix with) the milk."
16. The rapid Soma-juices being sent towards the firmament,¹ are poured forth expressed by the fingers.

17. The swift Soma-juices being cleansed (go to) the firmament without an effort; they go to the abode of the water.

18. Soma, who art devoted to us, guard all our treasures with thy might; protect our home and offspring.

19. The horse of burden neighs, yoked to the sacrifice by the priests, when placed in the ocean.²

20. When the swift (Soma) takes his place on the golden seat of sacrifice, he abandons (the sacrifice) of the foolish man.³

21. Devoted (worshippers) glorify Soma; the well-disposed desire to sacrifice; the perverse-minded sink (into hell).

22. Flow, Indu, for Indra associated with the Maruts, thou who art most sweet-flavoured, and take thy seat on the place of the sacrifice.

¹ Samudraṃ probably means the Vasativāri waters both here and in the following verse: see Śāyaṇa on verse 19.

² Śāyaṇa takes yat (= yaddi) with the first part of the sentence, “When the horse of burden neighs, etc., then thou who art the horse of burden of the sacrifice art placed in the Vasativāri waters.”

³ i.e. he does not approach the sacrifice of those who do not worship; he only approaches the sacrifice of worshippers (Śāyaṇa).

23. The wise who are the performers of pious acts, who are acquainted with holy texts, adorn thee: men purify thee.

24. Mitrā, Arajāman, Vāruna and the Maruts drink, sage (Soma), thy juice as thou droppest.

25. Brilliant Soma, when purified thou utterest a sapient speech, feeding thousands.

26. Brilliant Soma, when purified bring (us) a Varga XLI. voice, feeding thousands and desiring wealth.

27. Indu, invoked by many, do thou, being purified and being loved by these thy worshippers, enter the ocean.

28. The bright Soma-juices with their shining radiance and resounding stream are mixed with the milk and curds.

29. The powerful Soma urged by the urging (worshippers) goes collected to the battle like warriors entering (the battle-field).

30. Soma, who art a sage mighty and prospering, approaching flow from heaven for our prosperity and view.

Sūkta VI. (LXVI.)
The Rishiis are the hundred Vaikhānasas; the deity of verses 19, 20 and 21 is Agni in the form of Pavaśana, of the rest of the hymn, Soma Pavaśana; the metre of verse 18 is Anuśūdha, of the rest Gāyatri.

Varga VII.
1. All-seeing (Soma), who art the adorable friend (of the worshippers), flow for (us thy) friends towards all (our) hymns of praise.
2. Thou, purified Soma, rulest the universe by those two halves¹ (of the lunar month) which stand facing thee.

¹ Sāyaṇa explains dhāmanī as either pūrvedapakshau, the first and second fortnights of the lunar month, the "sides" or "halves" of the month resembling in their increase and decrease the sides of a creeper, whose leaves alternate (Soma being regarded here as a creeper), or nāmanī aṁśusomātmaka, the two names (aṁśu and Soma); he adds, "on earth under the name aṁśu by granting the desires of all mankind (Soma rules) this world: in heaven by giving the gods thy lunar digits thou art the winner of their affections. The gods drink the digits of the (moon) Soma by means of their growth and diminution one by one (i.e. as the moon waxes and wanes)." The word dhāmanī probably means the two abodes (or stations) of the Soma.
3. Since thy splendours abound, thou purified sage Soma art everywhere (associated) with the seasons.¹

4. Soma, who art a friend, do thou for the sake of all our desirable (praises) approach generating food for (us thy) friends for our support.

5. Soma, the shining rays of thee who art accompanied by brilliance, spread the purifying (water) over the surface ² of heaven.

6. These thy seven rivers ³ flow, Soma, at thy Varga VIII. command: the milch kine hasten to thee.

7. Proceed, Soma, in a stream when effused, giving exhilaration to Indra, bestowing (upon us) inexhaustible food.

8. The seven kindred (priests)⁴ uttering (praises) and worshipping (the gods with oblations) invoked thee the sage at the sacrifice with hymns.

9. The fingers cleanse thee in the quickly made ⁵ loud-sounding (woollen) filter, when with a noise thou art sprinkled with the water.

Varga IX.

11. They are let loose in the woollen filter (to go) towards the honey-dropping vessel; our fingers have desired them.2

12. The Soma-juices go to the ocean,3 as milk kine to their stall; they go to the place of sacrifice.

13. Indu, the flowing waters hasten to our great sacrifices when thou art mixed with the curds and milk.

14. Indu, we abiding in thy friendship, desiring to sacrifice, depending on thy protection, desire thy friendship.

15. Flow, Soma, for the mighty cattle-seeker, the beholder of men, enter Indra’s belly.

Varga X.

16. Soma, thou art great, most worthy to be praised; Indu, (thou art) the most vigorous of the mighty; engaged in battle thou ever triumphest.

17. (Thou) who (art) mightier than the mighty, braver than the brave, more generous than the generous—

18. Thou, Soma, who art a hero, (bestow) upon (us) food, (be) the giver of sons (to us); we choose thee for thy friendship, (we choose thee) for thy alliance.

ANUVĀKA IV.

SŪKTA I. (LXVIII.)
The deity is Soma Pavamāna; the Rishi Vatasapri the son of Bhalandana; the metre of verses 1 to 9 is Jagati, of verse 10 Trishtubh.

1. The exhilarating Soma-juices flow towards the shining (Indra), as milch kine (hasten to their calves): the lowing kine sitting on the barhis grass hold in their udders the pure (juice) welling up.

2. He with a noise reéchoes the principal (praises): separating the growing herbs, the green-tinted (Soma) sweetens them; passing through the filter, (he exerts) great speed, he annihilates the Rākhasas, the shining (Soma) bestows wealth (upon the worshippers).

1 Here follows a khila of 19 verses in praise of the Pavamāna hymns, evidently of more modern date (as indeed are verses 31 and 32 above). The sins to be expiated by the Pavamāna hymns, according to the author of the khila, e.g. killing cows and Brahmanas having intercourse with Sudra women, point to a later and more developed civilization.

2 Sáma Veda, I. 6. 2. 2. 10.
3. The exhilarating (Soma) who constructed the twin united (heaven and earth) doth by means of his juice maintain them growing together, imperishable: he has distinguished these two great unbounded worlds, wandering everywhere, he has assumed imperishable strength.

4. The wise (Soma) wandering through the two worlds, sending forth the waters, fattens his station\(^1\) with food: the Soma-juice collected by the priests is mixed with the barley: it is united by the fingers: it protects the head.\(^2\)

5. The sage (Soma) is born with developed mind; having his place in the womb of the water, he is deposited (by the gods) by rule from far off:\(^3\) even when young these two were distinct; the birth (of one half) was placed in secret, the (other) half was visible.

6. The wise (worshippers) know the form of the exhilarating Soma-juice, the food that the falcon brought from far;\(^4\) they cleanse in the waters the

\(^1\) i.e. the uttara vedi, the northern altar.

\(^2\) Sáyaṇa’s explanation of śīrāḥ, viz. śīrṇāṁ bhūtajātam (the withered world?), needs explaining more than the original itself.

\(^3\) Sáyaṇa thinks that this refers to the fact that rain is caused by the sun, with which Soma is here identified. The last part of the verse refers to the sun, which appears in the daytime, and the moon, which appears at night.

\(^4\) Sáyaṇa says a bird in the form of Gāyatrī brought it from heaven.
fostering (Soma) delighting (the gods), flowing around, and deserving laudation.

7. The ten fingers cleanse thee, Soma, when effused and placed in the vessels by the Rishis, with praises, religious rites, and woollen filters; and collected by the priests with oblations to the gods thou bestowest food (upon the worshippers) for a gift.

8. Intelligent praises celebrate the wide-flowing (god)-delighting Soma who sits in good company, who exhilarating (falls) in a stream with his water from the sky (and) wealth-conquering, immortal, sends out his voice.

9. This Soma sends from heaven all water; being filtered he settles in the vessels; effused with the stones he is cleansed with water and milk; the filtered Indu bestows delightful wealth.

10. Soma offering (wealth) as soon as thou art sprinkled (with the water and milk), pour various kinds of food (upon us); let us invoke the friendly heaven and earth: do ye, O gods, grant us wealth with excellent male offspring.

Sūkta II. (LXIX.)

The Rishi is Hiraṇyastūpa son of Angiras; deity as before; metre of verses 1 to 8 Jagati, of verses 9 and 10 Trishṭūbh.

1. (Our) praise is attached (to Indra) as an Varga XXI. arrow to the bow; (the Soma-juice) is let loose to (Indra) the fosterer\textsuperscript{1} as a calf to the udder of its mother; (Indra sheds blessings) as a cow having a copious stream of milk yields it when coming into the presence (of the calf); in Indra's sacrifices the Soma is stimulated.

2. The praise is united (to Indra); the excellent (Soma) is sprinkled: (the Soma stream) emitting pleasant juice is driven into (Indra's) mouth: the filtered diffused\textsuperscript{3} exhilarating swift-flowing (Soma) hastens to the fleece like the arrow\textsuperscript{3} of the combatants.

3. (Soma) seeking his spouse\textsuperscript{4} is filtered in the sheep-skin; he separates his granddaughters\textsuperscript{5} on the earth for the sacrificer: green-tinted, adorable, collected (in the ladles), exhilarating, he overcomes (his foes); sharpening his vigour he shines like one of might.

\textsuperscript{1} Sāyaṇa takes ārdhan twice over: he says it is used of Indra because he is the nourisher of everything.

\textsuperscript{2} Sāma Veda, II. 6. 1. 9. 2, with sunuvatām for pragnatām.

\textsuperscript{3} Sāyaṇa takes santaniḥ twice over; first as an adjective agreeing with somaḥ understood, "diffused in the ladles," etc., and second, as a noun, "the arrow discharged (by the foe)."

\textsuperscript{4} i.e. the Vasativarī waters together with the Ekaḍhandā waters.

\textsuperscript{5} i.e. the herbs. Naptiḥ = napṭriḥ, which, according to Sāyaṇa, means the fourth generation. Prajāpati begets the gods: the gods beget the rain: the rain begets the herbs. Or it means simply the offspring of Soma; Soma nourishes the herbs with his rays. Soma "separates" the herbs at the lip to make them fruitful. Sāyaṇa takes pitaṃ yate as yajñam gachchhate, i.e. yajamāṇḍaya.
4. The bull lows, the cows flock around him: the divine (praises) gather round the station of the radiant (Soma): Soma passes through the white sheep-skin; he clothes himself with it as it were burnished armour.

5. The immortal green-tinted Soma when purified is arranged in an uncleaned shining vestment; he has created (Āditya) who stands on the back of the sky for the destruction (of sin) and purification, (and has created) Āditya's brilliance, the cover of the two worlds.

6. The rushing exhilarating foe-slaying Soma- Varga XXII. juices when let loose flow together round the extended cloth like the sun's rays: they flow to no other person except Indra.

7. The exhilarating (Soma-juices) poured forth by the sprinklers effect their way to Indra as in a waterfall of a river the pervading (waters find their way) to dry ground; bless on our return our two-footed and four-footed things; may food and offspring ever abide with us.

1 Sáma Veda, II. 6. 1. 9. 3.
2 Sáyana says the first half of this verse recounts the praise of Soma; Soma at the time of entering the wooden vessels makes a noise; the cows, i.e. the propitiating hymns of praise, gather round him: the hymns of praise approach the god's station.
3 i.e. the milk.

8. Pour upon us (wealth), comprising treasure, gold, horses, cattle, barley, and excellent male offspring; you, Soma, are my progenitors, the chiefs of heaven, placed (for sacrifices), the offerers of oblation.

9. These filtered Soma-juices advance to Indra worthy of honour, as (Indra’s) chariots advance to battle; expressed (with the stones) they pass through the woollen filter, casting off infirmity the horses go towards the rain.

10. Indu, who dost make (men) very happy, the blameless one, the destroyer of foes, flow for mighty

1 Sāyaṇa explains nivēśa as svagriham prati pravēśan nirgaman va, “on our entering our home or leaving it;” dwipade and chatushpade are datives from 1°-pad, not locatives from 2°-pada, and are dependent on bahu.

2 Soma is treated as plural by attraction; or, as Sāyaṇa puts it, the plurality of the pitrī is applied to Soma.

3 Sāyaṇa takes edtim twice over: first as epithet of Indra, sarvaiḥ sambhajaniyaṁ, second as meaning “battle,” from so, “to kill.”

4 Casting off the infirmity that pervades all their limbs, becoming youthful; caṇrī from ẹrī, that which covers the body. Sāyaṇa further explains haritaḥ as “becoming the horses that bear the Sun;” cf. Rig-veda, I. 115. 4, where haritaḥ is explained as “the sun’s horses or the rays which take up the moisture.”

Sūkta III. (LXX.)
The Rishi is Renu son of Viśvamitra; deity as before; metre of verses 1 to 9 Jagati, of verse 10 Trishtubh.

1. 1 For him in the ancient sacrifice thrice seven Varga XXIII. milch kine 2 milk forth the right mixture; he makes four other beautiful waters for purification when he is nourished with the sacrifices.

2. 3 He being solicited for auspicious ambrosia opens 4 both heaven and earth by his intelligence; he covers the lustrous waters with his greatness, when (the priests) with the oblation recognize the station of the radiant (Soma).

3. 5 May those, his immortal, inviolable rays protect both classes of beings, 6 wherewith he

4 i.e. fills them with water. 5 Sāma Veda, II. 6. 2. 17. 3.
6 Sāyaṇa applies this to the moveable and stationary or animate and inanimate creation: the rest of the verse would seem to show that it means rather men and gods. Sāyaṇa adds, “the Soma fertilizes the plants at the sacrifice, and streams of men flow forth,” the plants being part of the stationary (sthāvara) creation, and men belonging to the moveable (jāṅgama).
stimulates human (strength) and divine (food); thereby praises reach the royal (Soma).

4. Cleansed by the ten well-working (fingers), the companion (of the waters) stands amongst the midmost mothers\(^1\) to measure (the worlds); the beholder of men protecting sacred rites (for the sake) of auspicious ambrosia looks after both races.\(^2\)

5. Being filtered for Indra's world-supporting strength,\(^3\) stationed in the midst of both worlds he goes (everywhere); the showerer destroys the evil-minded by his vigour, challenging the Asuras\(^4\) like an archer.

Varga XXIV. 6. He repeatedly beholding his parents (heaven and earth) proceeds with a loud noise, like cows (looking at their calves and lowing), and with a

\(^1\) \textit{Mātrishu} is not explained; \textit{madhyamāsū} is said to mean "placed in the atmosphere."

\(^2\) Here Sāyaṇa correctly takes the words as referring to gods and men, and adds, "men by granting them their desires, gods by bestowing oblations upon them."

\(^3\) See note on IX. 86. 3.

\(^4\) Sāyaṇa explains \textit{sūrūdhāḥ} as \textit{sūkhsa yundhāti parān}, which would seem to mean "they avert pain from others," and continues, \textit{duḥka-kārino 'surān}, which seems quite inconsistent. Adedīśadāḥ properly means "aiming at." Sāryahā is explained as \textit{hananasadhanair ishubir āntā bīrāḥ}. On VI. 16. 39, Sāyaṇa gives force to both meanings, \textit{sārya} "an enemy" and \textit{baryā} "an arrow," by explaining the word as \textit{vṛṣajāḥ bhātrūgam āntā}.
roar (like the troop) of Maruts; knowing that water to be the best which is good for all men, the intelligent (Pavamána) chose man to be the offerer of his praise.

7. The formidable showerer, the contemplator of all, through desire for strength roars, sharpening his green-tinted horns;¹ the Soma settles on his well-prepared station; the cowhide is his cleanser and the sheepskin (too).

8. Brilliant, cleansing his sinless² body, the green-tinted (Soma) is placed on the high-placed fleece; sufficient for Mitra, Varuṇa, and Váyu the exhilarating (Soma) mixed with the three ingredients³ is prepared by the performers of good rites.

9. Flow Soma, the showerer, for the banquet of the gods; enter the Soma-vessel dear to Indra; bring us safe past the hostile (Rákhasas) before they oppress us; for he who knows the country tells the direction to him who asks (the way).⁴

10. Hasten (to the vessel) as a horse when urged (hastens) to the battle; flow Indu into Indra's belly; all-knowing (Soma) bear us (safe) across,⁵ as

² Or motionless, i.e. placed in the vessel.
³ Water, curds, and milk.
⁴ Sáyana completes the simile: “as by telling him he protects (helps) him, so do thou who knowest the roads of the sacrifice protect us by telling us the sacrificial paths.”
⁵ i.e. across dangers or evil spirits (duritányatílya páraya).

Sūkta IV. (LXXI.)
The Ḥishī is Ḥishabhā son of Viśvāmitra; the deity is the same as before; the metre of verses 1 to 8 is Jagati, of verse 9 Tristubh.

Varga XXV. 1. The donation is given; the vigorous (Soma) enters his resting-place, and, vigilant, guards (his worshippers) against the malignant Rākshasas; the green-tinted (Soma) produces the all-sustaining water of the sun; 2 (he places) the mighty sun 2 to cover the two worlds, to purify (created things).

2. The powerful (Soma) advances with a roar like a slayer of men; he puts forth that Asuraslaying tint 3 of his; he abandons bodily infirmity; the food 4 goes to the prepared (altar); he assumes a form advancing to the outstretched (filter).

3. Expressed with the stones by the hands (the Soma) flows: he moves like a bull; (worshipped)

3 i.e. green; or varṇaḥ means "protecting strength."

4 i.e. the Soma: pītuḥ means "juice" or "food." Sāyana explains tana at the end of the verse as "in the filter outstretched by the sheepskin," as if it were a participle passive of tana in the locative.

with praise he wanders through the firmament; he rejoices, he is embraced; (praised) with a hymn he fulfils (the desire of the worshippers), he is cleansed in the waters, he is honoured at the (god)-protected (sacrifice).

4. The powerful exhilarating Soma-juices besprinkle Indra who dwells in heaven, the augmenter of the clouds, the destroyer of the dwelling (of the foe); in whom, on account of his greatnesses, the cows, the eaters of the oblations, mix the best (of their milk contained) in the uplifted udder.

5. The ten fingers of the arms urge him near to the ground (of the sacrificial altar) like a chariot; he goes (to the vessels), he approaches the concealed (milk) of the cow when the praisers produce his resting-place.

grass; the adorable Soma proceeds to the gods like a horse.

7. Radiant, wise, flowing in separate streams, (the Soma descends) from the firmament; the showerer offered at the three libations responds to the praises (of the worshippers); led in a thousand directions, coming and going, he shines at many a sunrise like one who sings praises (to the gods).

8. His ray\(^1\) creates a shining form; at whatever battle it is present, it beats down the adversaries; the giver of water goes with the oblation to the divine people, (it meets) with good praise: (Soma) is joined by (a hymn) demanding kine as the chief boon.

9. Like a bull approaching the herds (Soma) roars (as he approaches the praises): he appropriates the lustre of the sun; celestial, flying gracefully\(^2\) he looks down upon the earth; by his wisdom Soma contemplates mankind.

2. Many wise men utter praise together, when they have milked the Soma into Indra’s belly, when fair-armed men cleanse the delightful exhilarating juice with their ten united (fingers).

3. Unceasing the Soma goes to mix with the products of the kine; he utters a cry dear to the daughter of the sun. The praiser brings delight to him; he is united to the two kindred sisters (the hands).

4. Shaken by the men, expressed by the stones, the delighter (of the gods), the lord of cattle, ancient, distilling (in the vessels), born in due season, (the Soma is placed) on the sacred grass; intelligent, the material of the sacrifice of man, pure, the Soma flows for thee, Indra, of his own accord.

3 sanilābhī, lit. “having one nest” (niḍa). Sāyaṇa does not explain it here, but elsewhere paraphrases sanīla by samānasthāna, dīmanānivāsa, etc.

4 i.e. the dawn; because, as Sāyaṇa says, at that time the noise of the effusion of the Soma is great.

6 Sāyaṇa explains viṇaṃgrīṣaḥ as kamaniyāṁ stotram grīṇātīti. Naigh. II. 4 gives the meaning “arm.”
5. Urged by the arms of men, poured forth in a stream the Soma flows for thee, Indra, for strength;¹ thou accomplishest the rites, thou overcomest enemies² at the sacrifice; the green-tinted Soma rests upon the cups like a bird perching on a tree.

6. The seers, the experienced performers of holy acts, milk forth the seer, the loud-sounding undecaying Soma; the regenerated cattle and the praises combined repair to him at the place of birth of the sacrifice.³

7. The supporter of the vast heaven, (placed) upon the navel of the earth, moistened amongst the rivers in the wave of the waters, the thunder-bolt of Indra, the showerer (of benefits), the possessor of wealth, Soma auspiciously exhilarating distils into (Indra’s) heart.

8. Performer of good deeds, flow quickly round the terrestrial region, giving (riches) to the worshipper and the shaker (of the libation);⁴ do not deprive us of the wealth that enriches our dwellings; may we be invested with abundant wealth of divers kinds.

⁴ Adhūnvaṇa means making the adhavāna (shaking) with the three filaments of the Soma, after the Adābhya libation. Śāyāna refers to a sūtra of Apastamba.
9. O Indu, bring us quickly (wealth) with a hundred gifts, with horses, with a thousand gifts, with cattle and with gold; measure unto us abundant riches and food; come, purified one, to (hear) our praise.

Sūkta VI. (LXXIII.)
The Rishi is Pavitra of the race of Angiras; deity and metre as before.

1. (The streams) of the dripping effused (Soma) Varga XXIX. sound together on the jaw (of the sacrifice), the Soma juices flow together to the place of sacrifice. The powerful (Soma) has made the three exalted worlds for the use (of men and gods); the ships of the truthful (Soma) satisfy the pious worshipper.

2. The mighty (priests) assembled together send forth (the Soma) together; desirous (of heaven) they drive it to the wave of the river; generating praise they nourish the precious body of Indra with the streams of the exhilarating Soma.

3. (The rays of the Soma) having the means of purification sit round the voice (of the firmament),

1 Sāyaṇa explains srakṣa as the plank of the Soma press (adhisyaṇa phalaka), which is the jaw of the sacrifice.
2 i.e. the four pots for the Aditya, Agrayaṇa, Ukhya and Dhrura libations.
3 Sāyaṇa takes vācham as the voice of the firmament (or middle world) residing in the Soma, and cites: "Soma standeth in the firmament; the king Soma sitteth amongst the Gandharvas." The voice of the firmament means, apparently, their ancient father protects their (light-giving) work: Soma the all-envelopper has overspread the mighty firmament (with them): the skilful (priests) are able to conduct (the Soma) to the all-sustaining (waters).

4. (The Soma rays) in the firmament of a thousand streams (unite with the earth) below; in the summit of heaven, sweet-tongued, in separate drops, his rays,¹ swiftly moving, never shut their eyes;² fixed each in his place, they are the molesters (of sinners).³

5. (The rays) which were manifested in heaven and earth, illumined by the hymn (of praise), consuming the impious (sacrificers), drive away by their wisdom from earth and heaven the black-skinned (Rákhasas) hated by Indra.

6. (The rays) which regulating praise and purposing celerity were manifested from the ancient thunder, and the rays of the Soma refer either to the moon or to the Soma juices identified with the rain.

¹ Sāyaṇa explains śpātāḥ as sārabhūtā rāmāyāḥ, but the ordinary meaning of "spies" or "warders" would make better sense.

² Sāyaṇa adds: "but always keep watch to know the evil and the good, or always keep on the alert as kings do to guard against enemies."

firmament, them the blind and deaf\(^1\) avoid; the wicked traverse not the path of truth.

7. The intelligent sages extol the voice (of the firmament) in the purifying extended (Soma) with its thousand streams; the Rudras are their servants,\(^2\) swift-moving, inviolable, reverend, of goodly aspect, the beholders of men.

8. (Soma) the protector of the sacrifice, the doer of good deeds cannot be resisted; he places in his heart\(^3\) the three purifiers; he the all-wise looks over all worlds; he censures those who are hostile in action, who sacrifice not.

9. The thread of the sacrifice spread over the filter extends by its act to the tip of Varuṇa's tongue;\(^4\) the wise approaching reached it;\(^5\) but he who is incompetent for the rite sinks (to hell) even in this world.

---

\(^1\) Sāyaṇa explains this as spiritually blind and deaf—"those who do not see good objects—those who do not hear the praise of the gods."

\(^2\) This seems to be the meaning ascribed by Sāyaṇa to spaśah, viz. vadhā vaśinaḥ (obedient voices).

\(^3\) i.e. combines in himself; the three purifiers are Agni, Vāyu, and the sun.

\(^4\) i.e. the Vasatwāri waters, which are on the tip of Varuṇa's tongue.

\(^5\) "It" refers to the tip of Varuṇa's tongue; the wise reach it by their praises or oblations.

The Rishi is Kākshīvat the son of Dīghatamās; the metre of verse 8 is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagati.

Varga XXXI. 1. Born in the water (the Soma) cries out like a child, when powerful and brilliant he wishes to enjoy heaven: he comes from the sky to mix with the water that nourisheth the kine; we ask him by our praises for an opulent dwelling.

2. The supporter of heaven, the prop (of the earth), the Soma-juice who, widely spreading, filling (the vessels), flows in all directions—may he unite the two great worlds by his own strength; he has upheld them combined: (may he) the sage (bestow) food upon (his worshippers).

3. (There is) abundant food well-prepared made of Soma and sweet for (Indra) who comes to the sacrifice; the way to earth is broad: (for Indra) who is the lord of the rain (that falls) here, the possessor of cattle, the showerer of water, the leader (of the sacrifice), whose road is hither, who is deserving of praise.

5. Combining with the wave the Soma utters a cry; he sprinkles\textsuperscript{2} his god-protecting body for the worshipper; he places the germ upon the lap of the earth, whereby we acquire sons and grandsons.

6. May those (juices) which are in the third world, the world of many streams, unconnected, bestowing progeny, descend; the four digits\textsuperscript{3} (of the Soma) sent down from heaven bearing water bring the oblation and the nectar.

7. When the Soma seeks to gain (heaven) he assumes a white colour; showering (benefits), powerful he knows (how to bestow) abundant wealth (upon the worshippers). He by his wisdom is associated with excellent rites; he bursts asunder the rain cloud from heaven.

8. Anon the Soma successfully\textsuperscript{4} reaches the \textsuperscript{1} Nābhiḥ is taken by Sāyaṇa as "binding," from nah, to bind.

\textsuperscript{3} Sāyaṇa explains nābhāḥ as the rays (diptayāḥ) or digits (kaldāḥ) of the Soma, and derives it in a confused way both from nabhas, heaven, and the root nah, to bind (nābhāḥ = nabhaso bādhikāḥ "obstructing heaven").

white water-besprinkled pitcher like a horse (reaching) the goal: the devout (priests) stimulate him with their praise; (he bestows) cattle upon Kakshiravat who has seen a hundred winters.¹

9. Purified Soma, when thou art diluted with the water thy juice passes through the woollen fleece; cleansed by the sages, O exhilarating purified (Soma), be sweet-flavoured for Indra to drink.

Sūkta VIII. (LXXV.)

The Rishi is Kavi of the race of Bhrigu; the metre is Jagati.

1.² (The Soma) fit for food flows towards the delightful waters in which the mighty (Soma) is fostered; the beholder of all, the great (Soma) mounts the mighty sun’s chariot which goeth everywhere.

2. The tongue of the sacrifice (Soma) distils the delightful exhilarating (juice), speaking,³ lord of this rite, unassailable; the son (the sacrificer)

assumes a third name unknown to his parents in the brilliance of heaven.\(^1\)

3. Shining, he cries aloud (descending) into the vessels, pressed by the priests into the golden receptacle; the milkers of the sacrifice\(^2\) glorify him; the supporter of the three sacrifices shines (most) on the days of sacrifice.

4. Effused by the stones and by the praises, fit for food, illuminating heaven and earth the parents (of the universe), pure, (the Soma) flows between the sheep’s hairs; diluted (with the water) the stream of the exhilarating beverage (is purified) day by day.

5. Soma, flow forth for our welfare; purified by the priests clothe thyself in the (milky) mixture: with the exhilarating loud-sounding\(^3\) mighty juices which thou hast, inspire Indra to bestow affluence upon us.

---

\(^1\) “The third name unknown to his parents” means a name not given at birth at the altar called náma-karaṇa. Sáyana explains rochana divaḥ as dyulokasya dīpyamāne some ’bhishūyamāne sati. He cites Baudháyana, who gives Somayājina as an instance of a “third name.”

\(^2\) Sáyana refers to the Taittirīya Brāhmaṇa: “the priests milk the stones as calves (milk the cows).”

\(^3\) Ahamasas is explained by Yāska (whom Sáyana cites) as “having slaughter,” or “having utterance.” Sáyana adds to these two other meanings, “being struck or pressed” and “having praises.”

SUKTA IX. (LXXVI.)

The Rishi is Kavi the son of Bhriou; the deity is Paramána Soma; the metre is Jagati.

Varga I.

1. Soma the sustainer (of all) flows from the firmament, the purifiable juice, the invigorator of the gods, worthy to be praised by the priests; green-tinted like a horse let loose by the charioteers he easily restores his vigour in the waters.

2. Like a hero he carries weapons in his hands, desirous of enjoying felicity, mounting his chariot in quest of the cattle (of the worshipper), animating the strength of Indra, Indu, urged by the wise performers of pious acts, is anointed (with the milk and curds).

3. Soma, who art purified, who desirest strength enter Indra’s belly in a mighty stream; milk heaven and earth for us as lightning (mils) the clouds; now with the rite 2 mete (unto us) abundant food.

1 Verses 1 to 3 occur, with slight variations, Sáma Veda, II. 5. 1. 12; verse 1 also ibid. I. 6. 2. 2. 5.

2 i.e. at the very time the rite is being performed.
4. (Soma) the sovereign of the universe flows forth; surpassing the Rishis he desired the worship of the all-seeing truthful (Indra); he who is cleansed by the ray of the sun, the father of praise, the unequalled sage.

5. As a bull (entering) the herd thou rushest to the receptacle, on the top of the waters, showering (benefits) crying aloud; thou flowest for Indra, most exhilarating, so that we may be victorious in battle protected by thee.

Súkta X. (LXXVII.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. The sweet-flavoured beverage sounds in the Varga II. pitcher, the thunderbolt of Indra, more beautiful than the beautiful: (the streams) of this veracious (Soma) approach yielding much milk, dropping water, lowing like kine (laden) with milk.

2. That ancient (Soma) flows, which the hawk, despatched (for the purpose), brought down from heaven passing through the (third) world; he detaches the sweet-flavoured (Soma) flying downwards, with mind full of fear of the archer Kriśānu.

1 Sáma Veda, I. 6. 2. 2. 3.
2 Sáyāṇa explains the words vapūsha vapūṣṭaraḥ as “sowing seed more than any other sower of seed.”
3 Sáyāṇa refers saḥ to the Soma; it would seem here to refer to the hawk, who is afraid of Kriśānu, the protector of the Soma. As to the legend, Sáyāṇa cites Aitareya Brāhmaṇa, III. 26.
3. May the former and the latter Soma-juices flow to give us abundant food and milk, pleasing to look upon like beautiful well-adorned (women), which (juices) perform every prayer and every oblation.

4. May this indu, praised of many, knowing those who desire to slay us, slay them with united mind; who being in the dwelling of the lord (Agni) deposits a germ (in the herds) and hastens to (our) milk-giving herd of cattle.

5. The maker of all, clever in work, the juice, mighty unassailable Varuna flows from heaven for the sake of him who goeth hither and thither; the friend of all the adorable (Soma) is effused in affliction uttering a sound like an ardent horse amidst a herd (of mares).

Súkta XI. (LXXVIII.)
Rishi, deity, and metre as before.

Varga III.

1. This royal (Soma) producing a sound flows forth; clothing himself with the water he advances towards the praises (of the worshipper); the sheep with its fleece lays hold of the impure form: purified he approaches the station of the gods.

1 Urubja is derived by Sáyaña from uru+áp+jan "producing abundant water (milk)."
2 Sáyaña does not notice this word.
3 Vrijineshu is explained by Sáyaña as locative absolute—"when misfortunes exist." The Soma is effused in order to avert misfortunes.
4 i.e. the filter.
2. Thou art effused by the priests, Soma, for Indra; thou, the observer of men, stimulated, intelligent, art immersed in the water; many are the paths for thee to follow,\(^1\) infinite are the spreading green-tinted streams alighting on the cups.

3. The nymphs of the firmament seated in the midst\(^2\) flow towards the sagacious Soma; they cherish him the sprinkler of the hall of sacrifice: (the worshippers) solicit Pavamána (the undecaying) for a boon.

4. Soma flows for us, the conqueror of cattle, of chariots, of gold, of heaven, of water, of thousand-fold (wealth), whom the gods have made for (their) drinking, exhilarating, most sweet-flavoured, dropping, purple, causing happiness.

5. Bestowing all these true riches, loving us thou flowest, Soma, purified; destroy our enemy whether he be far or nigh; grant us a free road and freedom from danger.

2. May they flow to us, may they bring us riches—the honey-dropping Soma-juices by whose aid we encounter the powerful (enemy); may we overcoming the opposition of every man always bear off his wealth.

3. For the (Soma) verily is the foe of his own enemy and the destroyer of the enemy of another; as thirst overcomes one in a desert, so purified Soma, who art irresistible, slay (both) those (adversaries).

4. Thy best juice (dwells) in the navel of heaven, that which receives (the oblation); thy (members) grow up thrown upon the summit of the earth; the stones devour thee upon the cowhide;¹ the wise (priests) milk thee into the water with their hands.

5. Thus, Indu, the chief (priests) making the mixture send forth thy well-lodged, well-formed juice; purified Soma, destroy (our) reviler; let thy potent, delightful, exhilarating (juice) appear.

Súkta XIII. (LXXX.)

The Rishi is Vasu the son of Bharadvaja; the metre and deity as before.

1. The stream of the Soma, the contemplator of

2. Giver of food, whom the kine\(^1\) praise, thou mountest, bright-shining, thy station fashioned by golden-hands\(^2\); thou, Soma, the health of the worshippers, increasing (their) abundant food flowest for Indra, the showerer (of benefits), the giver of exhilaration.

3. The (Soma) flows to Indra's belly for (his) food,\(^3\) giving extreme exhilaration, clothed with vigour, giving good fortune he spreads forth towards all beings; sporting (on the altar), green-tinted, swift-moving, the showerer of benefits, he flows forth.

4. The priests, the ten fingers, milk thee forth for the gods, most sweet-flavoured, flowing in a thousand streams; effused by the men, expressed with the stones, do thou, Soma, the winner of thousand-fold wealth, flow to all the gods.

5. The ten fingers of the skilful (one) milk thee forth with the stones into the water most sweet-

Sūkta XIV. (LXXXI.)
Rishi as before; the metre of verse 5 is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagati.

Varga VI.
1. The graceful waves of the purified Soma flow into Indra’s belly when being effused and drawn forth (together) with the potent curds of the kine, they excite the hero¹ to bestow (gifts to the worshipper).

2. The Soma flows towards the pitchers, like a draught horse, lightly moving, the showerer; and knowing both races of gods—those who come to (the sacrifice) from the other world and those who (come) from this world.²

5. The all-pervading couple heaven and earth, the divine Aryaman, Aditi, Vidhātri, Bhaga deserving the praise of men, the spacious firmament, all the gods honour the purified (Soma).

Sūkta XV. (LXXXII.)
The metre and Rishi as before.

1. \(^3\)The Soma has been effused radiant, the Varga VII. showerer, green-tinted; magnificent as a king, he cries aloud when approaching the waters; purified, he passes through the sheep’s fleece, to alight on the water-moistened seat like a hawk (on its nest).

2. Thou, who art wise, passest through the adorable (filter) with a desire to perform the sacrifice; being cleansed thou rushest like a horse to the battle. Driving away misfortunes be gracious (to us), Soma; clothed in water thou proceedest to the cleansing (vessel).

\(^1\) No gayam, i.e. asmabhyaṃ pradeyaṃ dhanam “the wealth to be bestowed on us.”

\(^2\) Suyamā is explained as suvigrāhā “having a fair body.”

\(^3\) Verses 1 to 3 occur Sāma Veda, II. 5. 2. 13; verse 1 also ibid. I. 6. 2. 2. 9, with vāram atyeshyayaaṃ for vāram paryetyayayaṃ; no mrīḍa for mrīlaya and other variations.
3. The mighty winged (Soma) whose father is Parjanya\(^1\) has placed his dwelling on the navel of the earth among the mountains; the sisters, the waters flow to (the produce of) the kine; he meets with the stones at the beloved sacrifice.

4. As a wife to her husband, so thou (affordest) delight to thy worshipper; (Soma), offspring of Pajrá,\(^2\) listen (to the praises) I address to thee; in the midst of our adorations advance to grant us life; Soma, who art irreproachable, be vigilant against (our) foe.

5. As thou, Indu, didst attain strength\(^3\) for the ancient (rishis), giving them hundredfold (wealth) invulnerable,\(^3\) giving them thousandfold (wealth); so now flow for (our) modern prosperity; the waters wait upon thy functions.

2. The filter of the foe-scorching (Soma) is spread on the summit of heaven; his shining filaments are separated; his swift-flowing (juices) protect the purifier (the worshipper); they dwell upon the summit of the sky in their wish (to approach the gods).

3. The chief sun of the dawn (the Soma) shines forth; sprinkler (of water), he nourishes the worlds, wishing (to give them) food: by his intelligence the intelligent build, the pitris, the beholders of men, support the germ (of vegetation).

4. The Gandharva verily protects his station; the marvellous (Soma) preserves the races of the gods; the lord of cattle\(^1\) seizes (our enemy) with a snare, the doers of good attain the drinking of the sweet-juiced (Soma).

5. Possessed of water, thou goest clothed in the liquid water;\(^2\) to the great celestial abode to (take) the sacrifice; as king thou ascendest to the battle,\(^3\) mounted on thy filter-chariot; armed with a thousand weapons thou winnest (us) abundant food.

\(\text{\textsuperscript{1}}\) Sáyaña apparently takes nídhápatiḥ (the lord of snares) as if it were nídhipatiḥ (the lord of treasure), unless paśusamú-haraúmi is a mistake for págasamúha\(^\circ\).

\(\text{\textsuperscript{2}}\) Sáyaña takes haviḥ and nabhaḥ in apposition.

\(\text{\textsuperscript{3}}\) i.e. the sacrifice.
Sūkta XVII. (LXXXIV.)

The Rishi is Praśāpati the son of Vāch; the metre as before.

Varga IX.

1. Flow, the exhilarator of the gods, the far-seeing, the giver of water, for Indra, Varuna, and Vāyu; grant us this day wealth and health; call the celestial people on the spacious ground (of the sacrifice).

2. The immortal Soma who is stationed upon the worlds, goes round about them all; Indu, binding and unloosing, accompanies (the sacrifice) for its protection, as the sun the dawn.

3. The Soma who is created by the (sun's) rays, (and whom they place) in the herbs for the gratification of the gods, desiring to go (to the gods), taking wealth from (the foe), flows when effused in a brilliant stream, exhilarating Indra (and) the people of heaven.

---

1 When the gods hear the Soma flow, they come to the sacrifice.

2 Or, speak to the godly folk (i.e. me, the rishi), saying "śādhu, sambhakta."

3 i.e. protects.

4 Sāyaṇa expands this thus: Indu accompanies the sacrifice (sacrificer), connecting it (him) with the gods (the desired end—phalaḥ), separating it (him) from the Asuras, etc. (calamities), as the sun for the protection (of sentient beings) accompanies the dawn, connecting it with light and separating it from darkness.

5 Sāyaṇa takes daivyam with indram "the lord of the gods," overlooking janam.
4. This is the Soma, the conqueror of thousands, who flows stimulating the rapid voice (of the priests), awaked at dawn; Indu sends forth his ocean with the winds, and sinks into the pitchers into Indra's heart.

5. The kine dilute with their milk that milk-augmenting Soma who bestows all things by means of praises; (the Soma) the winner of (our foes') wealth flows purified by the rite, apt for the rite, wise, experienced, the (giver of) all food.

Śukta XVIII. (LXXXV.)
The Rishi is Vena of the race of Briigu; the metre of the last two verses is Trishûbh, of the rest Jagati.

1. Flow forth, Soma, well-effused for Indra; Varga X. may disease and the Râkshasas be (kept) far off; let not the double-dealers be exhilarated by thy liquor; may the Soma-juices be full of wealth at this (sacrifice).

2. Purified (Soma), animate us in battle; for thou art powerful, dear to the gods, the exhilarator. Slay our foes, approach (us) who desire (to propitiate thee by) praises; Indra, drink the Soma, destroy our adversaries.

3. Thou lowest, Indu, the inviolable, the most exhilarating; thou art thyself the best support.

Indra’s belly.

6. Flow sweet for the celestial people, flow sweet for Indra, whose name is worthily invoked; sweet for Mitra, Varuna, Vayu, Brihaspati, thou who art sweet-flavoured, inviolable.

7. The ten fingers clean the horse in the pitcher; among the vipras the worshippers send forth praises; the filtered (juices) hasten to the fair praise, the exhilarating Soma juices enter Indra.

8. (Soma), when filtered, bring us male progeny;
extensive pastures, a large and spacious mansion;
let no hinderer of this (rite) be lord over us; Indu, through thee may we win all wealth.

9. The showerer, the beholder, has taken his station upon heaven, the seer has illumined the luminaries of heaven; the king passes through the filter with a shout, (the Soma juices) the beholders of men milk forth the ambrosia of heaven.
10. In the heaven\(^1\) of the bright (sacrifice) the sweet-voiced Venás severally milk forth the sprinkler, the mountain-haunting (Soma); (they sprinkle him) nourished in the waters, juicy, in the ocean(-like pitcher), in the wave of the river; (they sprinkle him) sweet-flavoured, in the filter.

11. The many voices of the Venás praise (the Soma who dwells) in heaven, well-winged, falling (to earth); praises soothe the crying infant, the golden bird, reposing on the earth.\(^2\)

12. The elevated Gandharva abides above the sun contemplating all its forms; the sun shines with white light, radiant he illumines the creative\(^3\) heaven and earth.

28. All these are the offspring of thy celestial effluence; thou art the ruler of the whole world; so, purified (Soma), this universe is in subjection to thee; thou, Indu, art the foremost, the supporter of the house.

29. Thou, O sage, art the ocean, thou art omniscient; these five regions (rest) on thy support; thou sustainest both heaven and earth; the sun, O Pavanána, (nourishes) thy luminaries.

30. Purified Soma, thou art purified for the gods in the filter the supporter of the world; the chief (priests) desiring (thee) lay hold of thee, all these worlds offer themselves to thee.

Varga XVIII. 31. The sounding (Soma) passes through the woollen fleece; the green-tinted showerer cries in the waters; the worshippers desiring (the Soma) praise him together, the laudations soothe the infant as he cries.

32. He invests himself with the rays of the sun stretching out the triple thread in the way he knows; guiding the recent adorations of the truthful (worshipper), the protector of women passes to the consecrated (vessel).

33. The sovereign of rivers flows pure, the lord of heaven goes with a shout by the paths of the sacrifice; the thousand-streamed green-tinted (Soma) is poured out, uttering a sound while being filtered, the bringer of wealth.

34. Purified (Soma), thou pourest forth abundant juice; like the wonderful sun (thou approachest) the fleecy filters; purified by the hands of the priests, expressed with the stones thouflowest for a mighty wealth-yielding conflict.

35. Thou rusethest, Pavamána, to (bring) food and strength; thou slighest on the pitchers like a falcon on its nest; (thou) the exhilarating effused juice giving exhilaration to Indra, resembling the support of heaven, beholding (all things).

36. The seven sister mothers approach¹ the new- Varga XIX. born victorious sagacious infant, Soma, abiding amidst the waters, supporter of water, divine, the contemplator of men, to make him the ruler of the whole world.

37. ²Indu, who art the lord, thou goest (through) these worlds, harnessing (to thy car) thy swift-moving steeds; let them dispense the sweet-flavoured shining liquor, may all men be present, Soma, at thy worship.

39. ¹Flow, Indu, who art the winner of cattle, wealth, and gold, the fructifier, placed upon the waters; thou, Soma, art a hero, omniscient; thee these sages approach with praise.

40. The wave of the sweet-flavoured (Soma) excites voices (of praise); clothed in water the mighty one plunges (into the pitcher): the king whose chariot is the filter mounts for the conflict, and, armed with a thousand weapons, wins ample sustenance (for us).

41. The all-pervading (Soma) excites both day and night all praises easily borne, productive of prosperity; Indu, when drunk, solicit Indra (to give) us food productive of progeny and riches filling our homes.²

42. At the beginning of the day the green-tinted delightful exhilarating (Soma) is recognized by the intelligence (of the praisers) and by their praises; approaching the two men³ he passes in the midst (of heaven and earth, bestowing) upon

3 Sindhor uchchhwasē means literally “in the breathing of the river.” Ludwig translates, “An des stromes aufbrausen.” Sáyaṇa explains it, “going to an elevated place, the receptacle of the juice” (rasayuddhārakhūta uchchhīrite dēsī gachchhantaṁ).

4 Because, says Sáyaṇa, the rule as to the length of day depends on the increase and decrease of the moon’s digits, Soma being here regarded as the moon.
46. The supporter of heaven the prepared exhilarating (Soma) is let loose, the triple liquor rushes to the waters; the worshippers taste the sounding Soma juice, when the reciters of holy texts approach the embodied (beverage) with praise.

47. The rapid streams of thee when thou art purified, being collected together pass through the interstices of the fleece; when thou art mixed with water in the ladles, thou, Soma, on being effused alightest on the pitchers.

48. Flow for us, Soma, cognisant of (our) worship and deserving praise; pour (thy) beloved sweet-flavoured (juice) upon the woollen fleece; slay, Indu, all the voracious Rákhasas; blessed with excellent male offspring may we offer ample (praises) at the sacrifice.

2. The divine Indu well-armed flows forth, the destroyer of Rákhasas, averting calamity, the protector of the gods, the progenitor, the powerful one, the prop of heaven, the support of the earth.

3. The rishi, the sage, the foremost of men, the far shining intelligent Uṣanas—he verily by his poetic gift discovered the secret milk of those cows which was hidden and concealed.

4. 1 For thee, Indra, the showerer, this sweet-flavoured Soma the showerer has been poured into the filter; the giver of thousandfold wealth, the giver of hundredfold wealth, the giver of abundant wealth, the powerful is present at the eternal sacrifice.

5. These Soma juices, (going towards) the thousand viands produced by the kine, purified by the filters, are let loose for ample food and ambrosia, desiring food like horses victorious over a host.

6. Invoked by many, the Soma, undergoing Varga XXIII. purification, pours forth all food (for the sake of men); falcon-borne, bring us food, conveying wealth send forth thy juice.

7. When effused, this quick-flowing Soma hastens to the filter like a steed let loose; whilst alighting (he moves) like a buffalo sharpening his pointed horns, like a warrior on a foray for cattle.

Rishi and metre as before.

Varga XXV.

1. This horse of burden moves forth by the (sacrificial) paths; when purified thou flowest like the rain from heaven; the thousand-streamed Soma sits down amongst us on his mother's lap in the water.

2. The sovereign Soma has put on the vestment of the waters, he has ascended the most straight-going ship of sacrifice; the dripping juice brought by the falcon has increased in the waters; the father milks him—milks him the son of the father.¹

3. (The worshippers) reach the lion-like (Soma) the dispenser of water, green-tinted, red, the protector of this heaven; a hero in battles, first (among the gods) he seeks the (stolen) cows; by his might the sprinkler (Indra) protects (the universe).

4. (The priests) attach to the broad-wheeled car the glossy-backed terrible active graceful horse; the sister fingers cleanse him; the kinsfolk invigorate the mighty (Soma).

¹ The Scholiast finds it difficult to make sense of this; pīṭā (pīṭāko lokāḥ) he supposes to mean the Ādhvaryu, who extracts the juice of the Soma which is born from the heaven as from a father; or the first milker may be the yajamāna and the second the ādhvaryu; or duhe may be repeated out of respect.
5. The four yielders of butter wait upon him, stationed in a common asylum;¹ being purified they approach him with food, they surround him in numbers on every side.

6. The prop of heaven, the support of earth—all beings (are) in his hands; may (Soma) the fountain (of desires) be possessed of horses for thee (his) adorer; the filament of the sweet-flavoured (Soma) is purified for (the sake of winning) strength.

7. ²Conquering (and) unconquered approach the banquet of the gods: Soma, who art the slayer of Vritra, flow for Indra; grant us abundant and splendid riches, may we be masters of excellent male offspring.

SUKTA VI. (XCI.)

The deity is Soma Pavamana; the Rishi is Kaśyapa son of Mahishai; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. \(\text{(Soma)}\) on whom the minds of the gods are Varga. The chief (of the gods), recipient of praise, is let loose with a shout by ceremony as (a horse is let loose by the finger) in a battle of chariots; the ten sister (fingers) drive the bearer (of the oblation) on the elevated place to the halls (of sacrifice).

2. The Soma juice effused by pious mortals (comes) down (to the sacrifice) for the food of the celestial people; which immortal (liquor) is purified by mortal (priests) with the filter, the curds and milk and the waters.

3. The Soma juice the showerer (of benefits) roaring to the showerer (Indra) goes when being purified to (mix with) the glistening milk of the cow; greeted with laudation, cognisant of sacred praise, the hero passes through the filter by a thousand imperishable paths.

4. Demolish the strong dwellings of the Rāksha-sa; Indu, when purified put on his strength; cut to pieces with thy destructive weapon (the Rāksha-sas) who come from above, from nigh, or from afar and their leader.

5. Adorable\(^1\) (Soma), do thou as of old grant the ancient paths to thy new worshipper; doer of many acts, utterer of many sounds, may we obtain those (portions) of thee which are difficult to defeat, inflicting injury (on foes) and mighty.

6. Thus, being purified, bestow upon us the firmament and heaven and earth and many sons and grandsons; make our land prosper, diffuse the luminaries widely (in the firmament)\(^2\) and grant us long to see the sun.

Rishi-and metre as before.

Varga II.

1. The green-tinted Soma effused and sent forth (by the priests) is let loose, like a chariot upon the filter, for the acquisition (of riches); being filtered he acquires (Indra's) praise, he gratifies the gods with conciliatory (oblations).

2. The sage, the observer of men, retaining the water proceeds to his place on the filter; like a ministrant priest sitting at the sacrifice (the Soma

3. Soma, the intelligent, the knower of the right path, accompanied by all the gods,\(^2\) undergoing purification goes to his constant abode; he is one who delights in all sacred praises; the sage endeavours to approach the five classes of beings.

4. O Soma Pavamána, thine are the thrice eleven universal gods abiding in the secret (heaven); the ten (fingers) cleanse thee with the waters upon the elevated fleece, the seven great rivers (cleanse thee).

5. May that place of the truthful Pavamána be quickly ours, where all the worshippers assemble (to praise him); the light (of the Soma) which gave manifestation to the day protected Manu—Soma made it triumphant over the Dasyu.

6. As the ministrant priest proceeds to the hall where the victim is stationed, as a just king marches to battle, the Soma undergoing purification enters the pitchers like the wild buffalo in the waters.

SÚKTA I. (XCVII.)
The deity and metre as before: the Rishi varies; Vasishthá is that of the first trika (triplet); of the second Indrapramati; of the third Vrishagana; of the fourth Manyu; of the fifth Upamanyu; of the sixth Vyághrapád; of the seventh Sakti; of the eighth Karnaárut; of the ninth Mrityka; of the tenth Vasukra—these ten are all of the Vasishthá gotra: the Rishi of verses 31 to 44 is Parásara the son of Sakti, of the rest Kutsa son of Angiras.

golden hand that urges it forth, brings its juice into contact with the gods; when effused it proceeds with a roar to the filter like the ministrant priest to the halls prepared (for sacrifice) containing victims.

2. The great wise Soma, clothed in his auspicious war-vestments, the insipier of praises—enter into the vessels when purified, thou who art sagacious and vigilant at the banquet of the gods.

3. (Soma), the most famous of the famous, the earth-born, the conciliator, is cleansed for us in the elevated fleece; sound aloud in the firmament when purified; do you ever protect us with blessings.

4. *Sing (to the Soma), let us praise the gods; send forth the Soma for (the acquirement of) great wealth. He passes sweet-flavoured pure through the fleecy filter; our (Soma) devoted to the gods alights on the pitcher.

5. Indu coming to obtain the friendship of the gods flows in a thousand streams for (their) exhilaration; glorified by the priests (he proceeds) to his ancient station, he proceeds to Indra for the sake of great prosperity (to the worshippers).

6. (Soma), when our praise is offered, flow green- Varga XII. tinted and purified, to (bring us) riches, may thy exhilarating beverage animate Indra to battle. Go END OF THE NINTH MANDALA.

THE VÁLAKHILYA HYMNS.¹

I.

To Indra; the rishi is Praskaunya.

1. I would praise to you the bounteous Indra as is fit,—the wealth-abounding Maghavan, who loves to help with thousandfold treasure those who praise him.

2. He rushes on boldly like a weapon with a hundred edges, he smites the enemies of his worshipper; the gifts of him who feeds many, swell like the streams of a mountain.

3. The expressed exhilarating Soma-juices, O Indra, lover of hymns, fill thee for bounty, O hero, O thunderer, as the waters flow to their accustomed lake.

4. Drink the incomparable, helpful, swelling beverage, the sweetest of the Soma, that in thy exultation thou mayest pour out treasure for us, just as the mill-stone pours out meal.²

5. Come quickly to our praise,—urged on by the Soma-pressers like a horse,—which the milch-kine make sweet

² The St. Petersb. Dict. takes dhṛishad as = dhṛishad.
³ Grassmann proposes to read somam.
for thee, O Indra, of independent might; there are gifts [for thee] among the Kañwas.

6. We have approached thee with homage like a mighty hero, the pre-eminent one, of imperishable wealth; O Indra, thunderer, our prayers flow forth as an abundant fountain pours out its streams.¹

7. Whether thou art now present at a sacrifice, or whether thou art abroad on the earth, come from thence with thy swift steeds to our sacrifice, O thou of lofty counsel; come, strong one, with the strong [steeds].

8. Agile and swift are thy steeds, overpowering like the winds; with which thou encirclest the race of Manus, with which the whole heaven becomes visible.²

9. O Indra, we long for such a bounty of thine, rich in kine; (help us,) Maghavan, as thou didst help Medhyātithi with wealth, as thou didst help Nīpātithi;

10. As thou, Maghavan, didst give abundant kine and gold to Kañwa and Trasadasyu, to Paktha and Daśavraja; as thou didst give them to Goṣārya and Rijīśwan.

II.

To Indra; the rishi is Pushṭigu of the race of Kañwa.

1. I would praise the far-famed, the bounteous Śakra, for the sake of his protection, who gives desirable wealth by thousands to the presser of the Soma and the offerer of hymns.

2. Invincible are his hundred-edged weapons, the mighty arrows of Indra; he pours forth blessings on his liberal worshippers like a mountain rich in springs, when the effused Soma has exhilarated him.

3. When the effused Soma-drops have exhilarated the beloved one, my oblation is offered abundantly like the waters, O gracious Indra,—it is like the milch kine to the worshipper.

4. The prayers which consecrate the Soma flow forth to the incomparable one who calls you for his favour,¹—the Soma-drops which invoke thee, O gracious one, have set thee in the midst of the hymns.

5. He rushes hurrying like a horse to the Soma offered in our festival, which the hymns make sweet to thee, O thou that lovest sweet viands,—thou approvest the summons to the satisfying beverage.²

6. Praise the mighty hero, wide-grasping, spoil-harrying, who has control over vast treasure; thou, O thunderer, ever pourest forth wealth to the worshipper like an abundant fountain.

7. Whether thou art in the far distance or in the earth or in heaven, O Indra, god of lofty counsel, yoke thy steeds,—come hither, lofty one, with the lofty.

8. Thy harmless steeds which draw thy chariot, which surpass the strength of the wind,—with which thou silencest the enemy of man,³ and with which thou goest round the sky.

9. May we once more know thee as such, O gracious hero, as when thou didst aid Etaṣa in the decisive battle, or Vaṣa against Daśavraja.

10. As thou wast willing to give, O Maghavan, to

² Pauna may be a proper name (cf. Vāl. vi. 1), “Thou approvest the summons to (the house of) Pauna.”
³ Or “of Manus,” dasyutmanasvat.
Kāṇwa in the sacrificial feast, or to Dirghanītha the friend of the house,—as thou wast willing to give, O slinger, to Gośarya,—so give to me a herd of kine shining like gold.

III.

To Indra; the rishi is Śrushṭigu.

1. As thou didst drink, O Indra, the effused Soma beside Manu, the descendant of Saṃvaraṇa,—by Nīpātithi and Medhyātithi, by Puṣṭigu and Śrushṭigu, O Maghavan, [so do thou drink it here].

2. The descendant of Prīshadvāṇa entertained the aged Prakāṇwa who lay rejected (by his kindred); aided by thee the seer Dasyave-vṛika desired to obtain thousands of cows.

3. Sing that Indra with the newest hymn who has no lack of praises, who is wise and the inspirer of seers, who is as it were eager to enjoy.

4. He to whom they sang the seven-headed hymn with its three parts in the highest region,—he has made all these worlds tremble, and has thus brought forth his power.

5. We invoke that Indra who gives us wealth; for we know his newest favour; may we obtain a stall rich in cows.

6. He whom thou helpest, O gracious one, to give, obtains abundance of wealth; bringing the Soma we invoke thee, Indra, Maghavan, thou that lovest hymns.

7. Never art thou niggardly, Indra, and givest not to the worshipper; but thy godlike gifts, O Maghavan, are poured forth more and more.

---

1 i.e. sung by seven divine singers in heaven.
8. He who overpowered Krivi by his might and silenced Śushna with his weapons,—when he spread abroad yonder sky and propped it up, then first the dweller on earth was born.

9. That wealth, which every Árya here covets and every miserly Dása,—is sent direct to thee, the pious Ruṣama Pavíru.

10. The zealous seers have sung a hymn, sweet with Soma and dropping ghi; wealth and manly strength have spread themselves among us, and so too the expressed Soma drops.

IV.

To Indra; the rishi is Áyu.

1. As thou, Śakra, didst drink the effused Soma from Manu Vivasvat, as thou didst accept the hymn from Trita, so do thou gladden thyself with Áyu.

2. Thou didst enjoy, Indra, the effused drink with Pṛishadhra, Medhya, and Mátariśwam, just as thou didst drink the Soma with Daśaśipra, Daḥonya, Syúmarasmi, and Rijúnas.

3. [It is Indra] who has appropriated the hymns for himself, who has bravely drunk the Soma,—for whom Vishnu strode the three steps according to the ordinances of Mitra.

4. O Śatakratu, thou who art bountiful to him whose praises and oblations thou delightest in,—we, desiring wealth, invoke thee, as the milkers call a cow which bears abundant milk.

5. He who gives to us is our father, the mighty, the strong, he who acts as the sovereign,—may he, the strong rich Maghavan, give us kine and horses, even without our asking for it.
6. He to whom thou givest a present that he may give obtains abundance of wealth; we, desiring wealth, invoke with our praises Indra Śatakraṭu, the lord of wealth.

7. Never art thou heedless, thou guardest both races, (gods and men); O fourth Āditya, to thee belongs the Indra-invocation, the ambrosia has risen to heaven.

8. (As thou hearest) the worshipper whom thou favourest, O Indra, Maghavan, liberal one, thou that lovest hymns,—so, gracious one, hear our hymns and our invocation of praise, like Kaṇwa's.

9. The old hymn has been sung, ye have uttered the prayer to Indra; they have shouted many brihati-verses of the rite, many hymns of the worshipper have they poured forth.

10. Indra has heaped together vast stores of wealth, the two worlds and the sun; the bright pure Soma-drink, mixed with milk, has exhilarated Indra.

V.
To Indra; the rishi is Medhya.

1. We come to thee, O Maghavan Indra, the highest of Maghavans, the strongest of bulls, the mightiest breaker of forts, the provider of kine, the lord of wealth.

2. Thou who, waxing in might day by day, didst destroy Ayu, Kutsa, and Atithigva,—we invoke thee, Śatakraṭu, with thy bay horses, rousing thee by our offerings.

3. Let the stones pour forth the honey-juice for us all,—the Soma-drops which have been pressed by men afar or near.

1 Cf. supr'd, iii. 6.
2 i.e. with Varuṇa, Mitra, and Aryaman.
4. Smite all our enemies and drive them away, may we all obtain their wealth; even among the Śīṣṭas are thy exhilarating Soma-plants, where thou fillest thyself with the Soma.

5. Indra, come very near with thy firmly-wise protections; come, O most healthful, with thy most healthful aid, come, good kinsman, with thy good kinsmen.

6. Make rich in children that chief of all men, who is victorious in battle and a strong protector; prosper thoroughly with thy powers thy singers who continually purify their minds.

7. May we be in battle as one who is the surest to gain thy protection; we worship thee with invocations and prayers when we obtain our desire.

8. With thy help, O lord of bay steeds, I always go into prayer and into battle, seeking spoil; it is thou whom I insist upon, when I go, longing for horses and kine, at the head of plunderers.¹

VI.

Most of the hymn is addressed to Indra, but the third and fourth ślokas to the Viṣṇu Devāḥ; the rishi is Mātrīśvan.

1. The singers with their hymns hymn, O Indra, this might of thine; singing loudly, they have brought thee sacred viands dropping with ghṛ; the offerers² have drawn near with their prayers.

2. They have drawn near Indra with holy rites for his protection,—they in whose libations thou rejoicest; as thou didst rejoice in Saṃvarta and Kṛṣa, so now, Indra, do thou rejoice in us.

¹ The St. Petersb. Dict. would read matīṇām for māthīṇām, "in the beginning of my prayers."
² Or perhaps "the Pauras," cf. sup. ii. 5.

3. Ye gods, come all with one accord to us; let the Vasus and Rudras come for our protection, let the Maruts hear our call.

4. May Pūshan, Viśṇu, Saraswatī, and the seven rivers, favour my call; may the waters, the wind, the mountains, the tree, the earth, hear my call.

5. With thine own special gift, O Indra, best of Maghavans, be thou our boon-companion for good, our liberal benefactor, O slayer of Viṭra.

6. O lord of battle, lord of men, mighty in action, do thou guide us in the conflict; far-famed are those who obtain their desires by sacrificial feasts, by invocations, and by entertaining the gods.

7. Our prayers abide in the true one,—in Indra is the life of men; draw near to us, Maghavan, for our protection; milk forth the streaming drink.

8. O Indra, we would worship thee with hymns; O Śatakratu, thou art ours; pour down upon Praskaṇva great, solid, inexhaustible, exuberant abundance.

VII.

A hymn in praise of the gifts of Praskaṇva; the rishi is Kṛṣa.

1. Great indeed is Indra's might; I have beheld it; thy gift approaches, O Dasyave-vṛika.¹

2. A hundred white oxen shine like stars in the heavens,—by their size they have almost held up the heavens.

3. A hundred bamboos, a hundred dogs, a hundred dressed hides, a hundred bunches of balbaju grass, and four hundred red mares are mine.

4. May ye have the gods propitious to you, O descendants of Kañwa, living through youth on youth; step out vigorously like steeds.

5. Let them praise the seven-yoked team, great is the strength of that which is not yet full-grown; the dark-brown mares have rushed along the paths so that no eye can follow them.

VIII.

A second hymn in praise of the gifts of Praskañwa; the last ṛktaka is addressed to Agni and Sūrya; the rishi is Prishadhra.

1. Thy inexhaustible gift has appeared, O Dasyave-vṛika, its fulness is in extent like the sky.

2. Dasyave-vṛika, the son of Pūtakratá, has given to me ten thousand from his own store;

3. A hundred asses, a hundred woolly sheep, a hundred slaves, beside garlands.

4. There too has been brought for Pūtakratá a well-adorned mare, which is not one of the common horses of the herd.

5. The shining Agni has appeared, the bearer of the oblation, with his chariot; Agni has gleamed forth brilliantly with his bright flame as Súra,—he has gleamed forth in heaven as Sūrya.

IX.

To the Aświns; the rishi is Medhya.

1. Ye have come quickly, ye two gods, with your car, endued with ancient might, O sacred Aświns; truthful ones, with your powers, drink this third libation.

2. The three-and-thirty truthful gods saw you before the truthful one;\(^1\) O Aświns, gleaming with fire, drink the Soma, enjoying our offering, our libation.

3. That work of yours, O Aświns, is worthy of wonder,—the bull of the heavens, the firmament and the earth;\(^2\) aye, and your thousand blessings in battle,—for all these come hither to drink.

4. O sacred ones, this your portion has been placed for you; O truthful ones, come to these your praises; drink among us the sweet Soma; succour your worshipper with your powers.

X.

To the Viṣṇu Devarā; the first śloka is addressed to the priests; the rishi is Medhya.

1. He whom the wise priests bring, when they arrange the offering in many ways,—who was employed as a learned brāhman,—what is the offerer's knowledge regarding him?

2. Agni is one, though kindled in various ways: one is the Sun, pre-eminent over all; one Dawn illumines this all; one is that which hath become this all.

3. The brilliant chariot, diffusing splendour, rolling lightly on its three wheels, offering an easy seat, and full of many gifts,—at whose yoking the Dawn was born, rich in marvellous treasures,—I invoke that your chariot (O Aświns),—come ye hither to drink.

XI.

To Indra and Varuṇa; the rishi is Suparṇa.

1. These your offered portions stream forth, O Indra

---

\(^1\) i.e. before the Sun; the dawns are compared to "truthful active women" in Rig Veda, i. 79. 1.

\(^2\) i.e. the Sun, which they may be said to reveal, as they come with the earliest dawn.
APPENDIX I.

and Varuṇa, to your honour in the oblations; at every sacrifice you hasten to the oblations, when you help the offerer who presses out the Soma.

2. The plants and the waters were efficacious; they have attained their power, O Indra and Varuṇa; you who have gone beyond the path of the firmament,—no godless man is worth being called your enemy.

3. True, O Indra and Varuṇa, is that saying of Kṛṣa’s, —"the seven sacred voices\(^1\) distil a stream of honey;" for their sake help the worshipper, O ye lords of splendour, who reverence you devoutly in his thoughts.

4. The seven sister-streams of the Soma, in the house of the offering, pour forth ghī and rain profusely their drops,—with these ghī-dropping streams of yours, O Indra and Varuṇa, provide for and help the offerer.

5. To our great happiness we have declared to these two brilliant ones the true might of Indra; O Indra and Varuṇa, lords of splendour, help us, the offerers of ghī, with the company of thrice seven.\(^2\)

6. O Indra and Varuṇa, I have seen what you formerly gave to the seers,—wisdom, power of song, and fame,—and the places which the wise have prepared for themselves, as they spread the web of the sacrifice with holy austerities.

7. O Indra and Varuṇa, give to the offerers cheerfulness without levity, and abundance of wealth; give to us offspring, food, prosperity; prolong our lives to length of days.

\(^1\) Cf. Rig Veda, ix. 103, 3, "the Soma streams through the sheep’s wool round the honey-dropping vessel,—the seven voices of the sacred bards shout to it."

\(^2\) This obscure phrase occurs in a hymn to Indra (Rig Veda, i. 133, 6), "O irresistible one, thou destroyest not men with the warriors, with the thrice seven warriors."
APPENDIX II.

THE PREPARATION OF THE SOMA.

The following account of the preparation of the Soma is condensed from Haug’s Aitareya Brāhmaṇa transl. p. 489, note. The Ādhwaryu takes the skin (charmā or tvouch) and puts on it the filaments or shoots of the Soma plant (aṁbu). He then takes two boards (adhisavaṇa), puts one on the top of the Soma shoots, and beats it with the stones (grāvāṇa). Then the shoots are put between the two boards, and water is poured on them from the VasatiVarī pot. The shoots are then shaken in the Hotṛ’s cup (chamasā), wetted again with VasatiVarī water and put on a stone. Grass is laid on them, and they are beaten so that the juice runs out. The juice is allowed to run into the trough (ādhaṇīya), then strained through the cloth (pavitra or dakapavitra) which is held by the Udgāṛi. The filtered juice is caught in another trough (pūtabhṛit). Libations are poured from two kinds of vessels—grahas or saucers, and chamasas or cups.
